Milk Hearing Gets Price-Boost Request

Control Board Meeting, Called To Probe Into Legality of 'Buying Clubs,' Becomes Talking Bee.

By LUKE GREENE.

Possibility of a further increase in Atlanta milk prices was advanced yesterday after a hearing before the State Milk Control Board during which producer-distributors asked that the consumer price be raised at least another cent per quart.

The hearing was called for the purpose of inquiring into the legality of milk clubs operated by Atlanta housewives who go to the platform and purchase milk for 11 cents per quart, but the meeting boomeranged into a demand for higher prices.

Only recently the board authorized a 1-cent increase for the Atlanta milk shed which went into effect October 1, but the dairymen say this is not enough.

Becomes Talking Bee. Director Charles G. Duncan, who presided, said all evidence taken at the four-hour hearing would be turned over to the board for consideration at its meeting November 11, but he said he would not attempt to predict what action the board would take on the mass of testimony. Under new streamlined regulations, it would be possible for the board to put through an increase at the next meeting if it saw fit, the director explained.

The hearing turned into a free-for-all talking bee on a variety of subjects that ranged all the way from the constitutionality of the milk control law to the peculiarities of women who, it was charged, will drive 10 miles at 5 cents per mile in order to save 2 cents.

Soviets Admit Loss of Kharkov; Crimea and Don Valley in Peril

Fourth Largest Red City Evacuated as Nazis Lose 120,000.

By The Associated Press.

The evacuation of Kharkov in the upper Ukraine was acknowledged early today by the Soviet command, and it appeared that the Crimea and lower Don valley further to the south likewise were in growing danger.

On the central front, however, the Russians appeared to be firmly holding the Moscow approaches—although German advances had occurred in areas of secondary importance well above and below the city.

The retreat from Kharkov, which the Nazis had claimed last Saturday, was described by the Red general staff as orderly and not forced, and it was added that it cost the invaders nearly 120,000 men in killed and wounded, along with more than 450 tanks and armored cars and much other armament, to occupy the city.

The Soviet declared, too, that all important factories, railway rolling stock and supplies of raw materials were taken from the city "in time," and that several plants—presumably those that could not be moved—were blown up.

Nevertheless, the loss of the city, an industrial area of the highest importance, was unquestionably a severe blow to the Russians.

All this, however, was not so vital in the long run as was Nazi action toward the Crimea and the lower Don.

It was an action, incidentally, in which the Nazis' Italian allies apparently were not being of much help, for Fascist troops fighting on the German wing northwest of the mouth of the Don in the sector of Stalingrad were acknowledged last night by the official Italian news agency to have been halted and thrown upon the defensive for the last eight days by Red counterattacks.

"The column," the agency observed, "had not a moment's peace in eight days."

lied quarters—that thousands of men from its southern armies were driving into the Crimean peninsula, having broken the Red line on the Perekop isthmus leading to the Russian mainland.

This was an operation far behind what still appeared to be the main push—that by other forces some 300 miles to the east which were beating toward the outskirts of Rostov, the Don river port at the gateway to the Caucasus.

Berlin reports put this second and larger offensive within 10 miles of Rostov, a figure that seemed reasonable in view of British information current as early as Monday that the invaders even then stood within 15 miles of the city.

What apparently was developing in the south was this: Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt had split his vast German armies into striking forces moving roughly at right angles, the one heading east and the other south.

Kearny in Fight With Sub When Torpedo Struck

Destroyer Protecting Merchant Vessel, New Report Shows.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—

The U. S. destroyer Kearny, it was disclosed today, was torpedoed in the course of a great all-night battle between escort warships and a Nazi U-boat wolf pack that attacked a convoy of merchantmen in the bleak waters southwest of Iceland on the night of October 16.

Before she was hit the Kearny succeeded in dropping a series of depth bombs aimed at one submarine but if there was any evidence that the sub was hit it remained locked in the secret archives of the Navy Department under a new policy announced by Secretary Knox.

The Navy Secretary told a press conference that the United States, like the British, would not give out submarine sinkings. The policy was adopted by this country, Knox indicated, to make sure that every successful shot fired or depth bomb dropped in the battle of the Atlantic takes its toll also in the war of nerves.

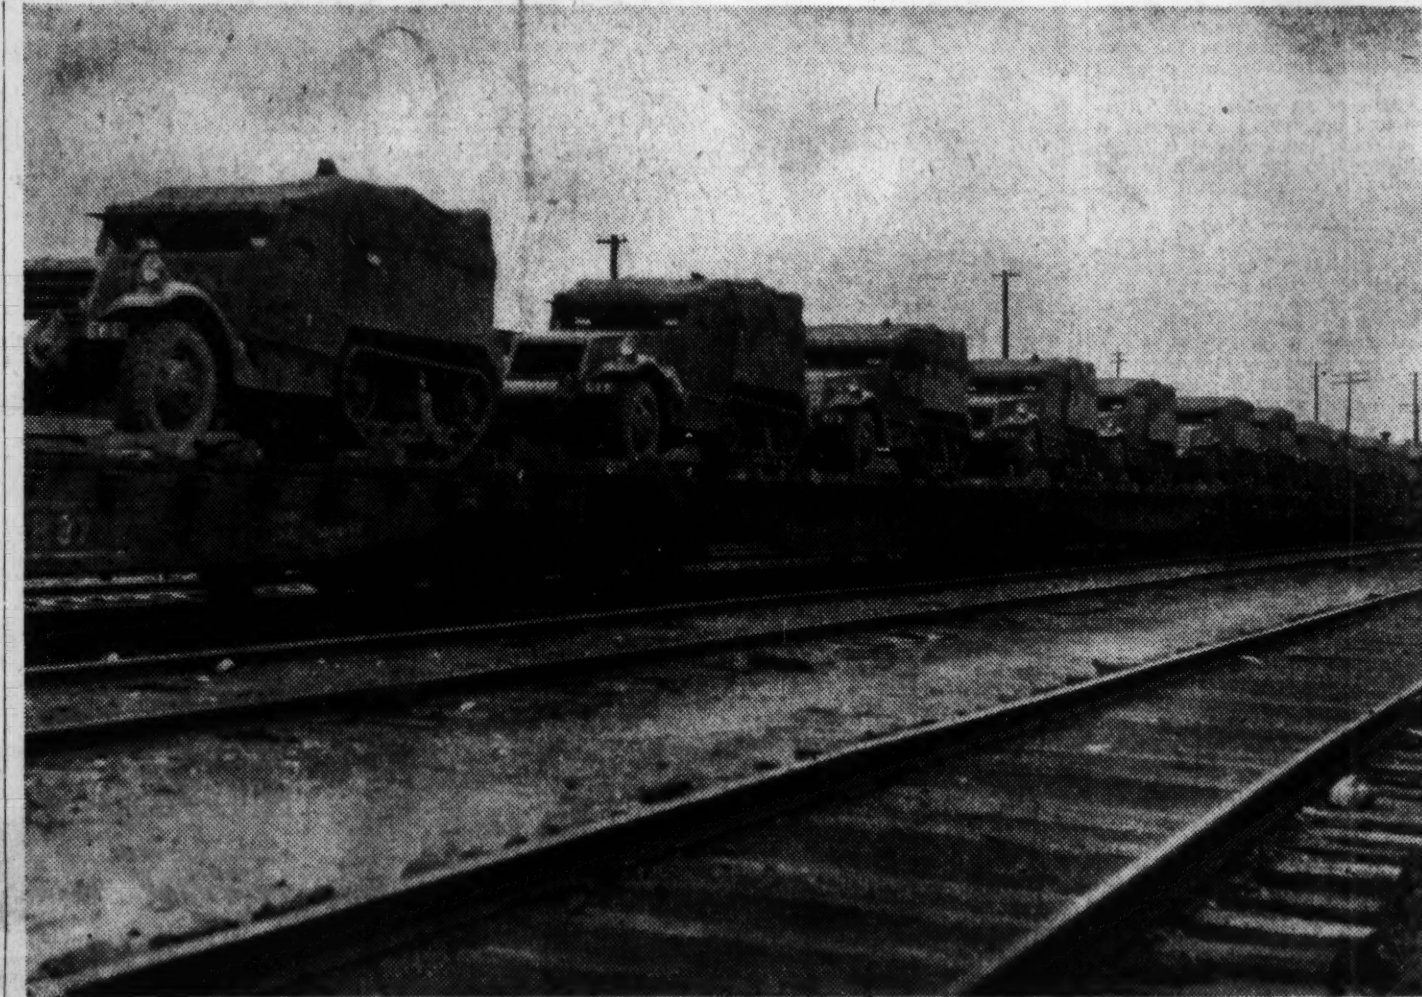

War of Nerves. As the secretary expressed it, German morale is depressed by having U-boats and their crews "go out and never come back" leaving the survivors at home without word of their fate.

Several hours after the press conference Knox released the Navy's third report to the nation on the Kearny. Two previous reports had been simply the fact that the ship had been hit, that the torpedo had been launched by a submarine "undoubtedly German" and that 11 men were "missing" and 10 others wounded. Today's report referred to the 11 as killed.

According to Navy's account, the action which cost the first American lives lost in armed service in this war, began on the night of October 16 when the Kearny, escorting one convoy of merchant ships, received distress signals from another convoy which reported it was under attack by several German submarines—a wolf pack of the kind frequently reported in the waters around Iceland.

Apparently the job of Lieutenant Commander A. L. Danis, captain of the 1,630-ton Kearny, was

Oakes, Parolee, Sought in Theft Of Mann's Car

Prison Board Member Aided in Securing Man's Liberty.

A convicted automobile thief whom Commissioner Royal K. Mann, of the State Prison and Parole Commission, helped to get a parole was being sought by Atlanta police yesterday in connection with the theft of Mann's automobile.

Police dockets revealed that on October 20 Mann's new sedan was stolen from the Hunter street side of the state capitol. Officers later found the car in front of a rooming house on Capitol avenue.

According to the officers, G. E. Wallace and A. C. Potts, they went in and found W. H. North Jr., who told them he was picked up at the corner of Capitol and Rawson streets by W. J. Oakes, of a Crew street address, and that Oakes brought him there.

Mann, who has regained possession of his automobile, said yesterday he recommended a parole for Oakes and that it became effective September 23, only 10 months before he was to have completed a two-year sentence for automobile larceny. Mann said the prisoner had a good record and he was recommended for parole in order that he might support his wife and child.

North, Mann said, was discharged from the Fulton county chain gang June 3, 1939, after serving three months on three counts of cheating and swindling. He was arrested on suspicion in connection with the theft of Mann's automobile.

U. S. Begins Biggest Blitz-Car Movement

Trains Pass Through City All Afternoon En Route to Carolina With Armored Vehicles.

By TOM McRAE.

Uncle Sam's largest rail movement of armored vehicles in history got under way yesterday with train after train slipping into Atlanta and out again with a precision that amazed railroad officials.

The first train, carrying men and equipment of the First Armored Division to the Carolina maneuvers, arrived here at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 30 minutes later another train pulled in several minutes ahead of schedule.

They kept coming. Out at Inman Yards you could see flat car after flat car loaded with half-tracks. Two half-tracks to each flat car. They asked that you not "count the equipment cars." Sometimes you could not see any one in the half-tracks, but in every one of them there was at least one man. He was guarding the vehicle. Sometimes the men were sitting in the driver's seat, their faces red from the cold wind.

The half-track is the Army term for a vehicle which is half truck and half tractor.

40 Trains in All.

There will be 40 trains passing through Atlanta en route to various towns in South Carolina. The men and materiel will take part in the final phase of General Hugh Drum's First Army war drills. Troops routed through here include units from the First Armored Division of Camp Polk, the 31st Division and the 43d Division from Camp Blanding, and the Second Armored Division from Fort Benning.

The last trains will pass through Saturday with many units of General George S. Patton Jr.'s Second Armored Division, which was praised for its excellent showing in the Louisiana maneuvers. It will entrain at Sand Hill, Ga., and unload at Leeds, S. C.

The officers in charge of the trains would not permit photographers to shoot tanks or half-tracks from the side, close-up.

NBC and CBS Sign Contract With ASCAP

Music Returns to Radio in New Nine-Year Agreement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The

National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System today signed a new nine-year contract with the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, providing for the return of ASCAP music to both major networks at midnight tonight.

The agreement ended a controversy which has kept ASCAP tunes from most stations since January 1. Signers were Gene Buck, president of ASCAP; Niles Trammell, president of NBC, and Mefford R. Runyon, vice-president of CBS.

The Mutual Broadcasting Company signed an agreement with ASCAP in May.

The contract signed today provides that the networks will pay ASCAP at the source of 2.3-4 per cent of time sales volume minus certain discounts, and the individual station will pay 2.1-4 per cent. Under the contract which expired last year, the total paid was 5 per cent, but it was collected from individual stations.

Woman, Caught With 'Shine,' Suffers Terrifying Experiences

By CELESTINE SIELEY.

The business of hauling moonshine whisky in a rattletrap flivver, an enterprise which she started "because I thought I could make a little money and buy my children some shoes," sent a plump, gray-haired 51-year-old woman on a chain of confusing and terrifying experiences yesterday—not the least of which was a "gruelling" three-floor ride on an elevator.

Accompanied by her 17-year-old son, who, according to Alcohol Tax Unit investigators, was driving the ancient Ford loaded with 70 gallons of tax-unpaid whisky, Mrs. Ellen Elizabeth Harbin, of Stone Mountain, Ga., walked into the United States commissioner's office yesterday afternoon to enter a plea of guilty for both of them.

"Oh, yes," she sighed, "we had the whisky all right. We were bringing it to town to sell it but I declare when these officers stopped me I was so flustered I

Surprise Parley On Strike Held In White House

U. M. W. President Calls Meeting of Aides for Today.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

In a surprise White House conference, President Roosevelt made a new proposal for reopening the strike-bound captive coal mines yesterday and John L. Lewis promised a quick answer.

The plan, set before the United Mine Workers' leader and Myron C. Taylor, former chairman of United States Steel Corporation, is that the pits be reopened immediately, with the understanding that the Defense Mediation Board would resume consideration of the dispute at once and make final recommendations.

It was set forth in a letter to William H. Davis, chairman of the Mediation Board. It brought to an end a full day of conferences, which started at 10 a. m. in the hotel room of Taylor and wound up at 5:45 p. m. in the President's office at the White House.

Lewis, who was present at both conferences, told reporters upon leaving the White House he would meet this morning with the district leaders of the union to discuss the President's suggestion. He added that a decision probably would be reached early in the day.

Taylor Favors Proposal.

Taylor said he personally favored the President's proposal. He entered the controversy yesterday at the request of President Roosevelt, who had suggested that Taylor and Lewis meet in an attempt to bring about a settlement of the strike, which has kept 53,000 miners idle since Sunday.

United States Steel owns some of the captive mines involved in the strike. The remainder are owned by other steel companies.

Coal dug from these pits is not sold commercially, but is used by the companies to fire the steel-producing blast furnaces.

The issue is the union's demand for a union shop. As defined by both sides, this means that miners would have to join the union after a certain period of employment.

In his letter to Davis, Mr. Roosevelt specified that neither the union nor the company would be committed in advance to acceptance of the Mediation Board's recommendations. In this respect his suggestion differed from proposals for settling the dispute advanced by the board when the case was before it last week.

At that time, the board recommended that the company and the union agree to be bound by any future recommendations the board might make, or, as an alternative, couldn't rightly tell them how much we had there."

Mrs. Harbin, a widow for seven years, looked upon "whisky-running" as a source of "easy money" until yesterday.

"I thought I was doing all right, too," she mused half to herself, "but I wasn't. I got caught, I had to spend the night in jail, I lost my car—and even if it wasn't much it was all I had—and now my boy's in trouble. All I can say is I ought to have known better than to go around violating the law."

The boy was turned over to probation officers and Judge David J. Meyerhardt released both of them on their own recognizance.

But Mrs. Harbin was composed and good-natured in the face of all her adversity except the elevator ride.

"I'd rather walk," she offered at first. And once in the little cubicle she clutched a fellow-passenger's arm in honest terror. "Whoosh!" she gasped. "Let me hold on to you."

Lewis' Defiance An Act of Treason, Grand Jury Says

Refusal of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to reopen the captive mines and send 53,000 miners back to the pits as requested by President Roosevelt as a part of the vital national defense program was an act of treason to the flag and country and should be dealt with accordingly, the Fulton county grand jury declared yesterday in special presentations.

Signed by Wiley L. Moore, foreman, the presentations scored abuse and misuse of privileges granted labor, adding both capital and labor are expected "to increase the efficiency of our defense program and do its utmost to produce more planes, tanks, guns, ammunition and other items so essential at this time to insure our defense."

An ominous warning was contained in one section which said: "It should be borne in mind that the abuse of labor laws played a great part in France's downfall. That fact is recognized by those who know. God forbid that it be permitted to happen in this country."

Pointing out that the grand jury favors labor unions as such and recognizes the right of the working man to seek improvement in his standard of living by collective bargaining, the presentations related how many businesses are suffering from priorities, and that men who left good jobs to enter the service are now working for a mere pittance "preparing to defend the very man (Lewis) who seeks to impose his will upon the nation at large in utter defiance of the better judgment of our President, to whom we look to carry us through these perilous times to ultimate peace."

Text of the presentations follows:

"This grand jury goes on record as being in favor of labor unions as such. We recognize the right of the working man to organize and to seek improvement in his standard of living by collective bargaining. Constructive legislation for the betterment of labor has been placed on our statute books through the efforts of constructive labor leaders.

Condemns Action.

"However, in this hour of national emergency, we are definitely opposed to any labor leader who defies the President of the United States. We have no patience with any minority group or individual connected with labor who attempts, at a time when the very security and welfare of our nation is at stake, to further the selfish interests, and to ignore the pleadings of our President who is the commander in chief of our armed forces. More pronounced is our condemnation when we consider the sacrifices made by the soldiers and sailors who are training themselves to defend this country for ourselves, our children and posterity; yes, preparing to defend the very man who seeks to impose his will upon the nation at large in utter defiance of the better judgment of our President to whom we look to carry us through these perilous times to ultimate peace. These men of our armed forces are performing a splendid job. They are proud to serve their country and to defend and protect the ideals and privileges which are ours to enjoy. Most of these boys gave up gainful employment to enter the armed forces for a mere pittance each month. They realize that they have a task to perform and sacrifices to make. The least they can expect in return is a willingness on the part of both capital and labor to increase the efficiency of our defense program and to do its utmost to produce more planes, tanks, guns, ammunition and other items so essential at this time to insure our defense.

"Business is now faced with one of the greatest tax burdens ever imposed in this country. Many firms cannot obtain needed materials to carry on. Unless arrangements can be made for them to engage in defense output, they will of necessity be forced to discontinue business. We do not hear of these firms defying the government or ignoring the pleas of our President. They are making the best of an unfortunate situation and are trying to remedy it in a sane, level-headed manner, realizing that the defense of our country is of paramount importance.

Privileges Abused.

"Congress has been good to labor. Legislation has been enacted for the protection and betterment of labor. However, it was never intended by congress that the abuse of labor laws played a great part in France's downfall. That fact is recognized by those who know. God forbid that it be permitted to happen in this country."

"Any labor leader who attempts to set himself up as being of more importance than the welfare of our country; any such person, who, in a time of national emergency, attempts to defy the sound judgment and pleadings of our President, merely for the purpose of satisfying selfish, self-centered and egotistical desires, is guilty of treason to his flag and country and should be dealt with accordingly.

"The problems of our President at this crucial time are varied and numerous. The people look to him for guidance. As a seasoned and well-informed statesman, his opinions and judgment as respects national defense should command respect. It is our duty as loyal American citizens to co-operate with our President in every possible way, for unless we establish confidence and unity of purpose we cannot expect to attain ultimate victory over the aggressor nations."

Lewis Pledges Quick Answer To F. D. R. Plan

permit the dispute to be placed before a board of representatives of the company and the union. If these conferees failed to agree then a third party would be called in to arbitrate and his decisions would be accepted as final.

The United States Steel Corporation, following a meeting of its board of directors in New York Tuesday, approved the acceptance of the first-mentioned plan, but Lewis was understood to feel that little could be accomplished by it on the ground that the stand of Davis and other board members already was known.

Under the present plan, if the board should recommend against the union's demand for a union shop, Lewis could refuse to accept the recommendation and could order the strike continued.

The President noted in his letter yesterday that the full Mediation Board would meet tomorrow and would be prepared to consider the matter continuously until it made its final recommendations. The meeting at the White House was not scheduled until late in the day. Lewis, Taylor and Davis were closeted for almost six hours in Taylor's suite at the Mayflower hotel. When they emerged, Taylor announced simply that they were going to the executive mansion.

Yesterday's letter marked the fourth time the President had asked that the mines be reopened. He had addressed three letters to Lewis asking him to order the miners back to work in the interest of national defense. Two of these appeals were rejected by Lewis and the third remains unanswered.

Other strife spotted the defense labor picture.

A CIO strike closed the machine tool plant of the Medart Company in St. Louis which makes tools needed by aluminum, brass and steel companies having defense contracts. The union sought an immediate wage increase of 10 cents an hour and a 5-cent increase after six months in a scale which it said now ranged between 40 and 75 cents. A union spokesman said the company offered two 5-cent increases.

More Trouble In West.

There was further trouble in the Seattle area when AFL Metal Trades Council members protected workers who crashed a picket line of striking welders and entered the Lake Washington Shipyards to go to work. The plant management said 90 per cent of the workers were on the job.

The welders struck because the AFL refused to grant them a separate international union. The OPM has demanded that they get to work, but a union spokesman said any such notification should come from the White House.

Word of other shipping troubles came from Bay City, Mich., where a strike in the Defoe Boat & Motor Works stopped production on eight submarine chasers and minesweepers to cost $20,000,000. The 1,200 workers failed to show up for the morning shift, but picketed the plant.

The walkout was voted, a CIO Shipbuilders Union spokesman said, to enforce a demand for a union shop.

A walkout of the night shift at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company's $5,800,000 machinegun plant in suburban Plymouth near Detroit halted production on weapons for military aircraft.

The walkout followed a strike threat by the United Automobile Workers (CIO) which has demanded a minimum 5-cent hourly wage increase at the company's three Detroit plants and a wage "adjustment" at the Plymouth unit.

Threat of a widespread walkout in eastern plane factories apparently subsided with the announcement of Richard T. Frankenstein, national director of the aviation division of the CIO Auto Workers, that strikers at the Bendix (N. J.) plant of Air Associates, Inc., would go back to work today.

Frankenstein acted after the War Department decided to send representatives to the plant to supervise the return of strikers to their old jobs. Colonel Roy M. Jones, eastern district supervisor for the Air Corps procurement division, and his assistant, Major Peter Beasley, plan to arrive at Bendix today.

Frankenstein had threatened a strike among aviation workers in five eastern states unless the men were given the same jobs they formerly had.

In New York, Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), announced that Thomas Pinn, of the United States Labor Department's conciliation service, would meet, probably today, with labor and shipowner representatives in an effort to settle a wage dispute affecting 15,000 coastwise longshoremen. Ryan said he had informed shipowners that the longshoremen, from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va., would not renew an agreement expiring tomorrow at midnight, but indicated there would be no stoppage immediately.

Incendiaries into the sea with a golf stick. I imagined the rest. It was worse than that, probably.

Imagination does not serve so well when you have never been to war. We use it too much for imagining things purely of pleasant design. It doesn't serve for war.

But I stuck to it—the imagination—as we walked around the golf course. Captain Talbot was enjoying himself too much. He did not say the war was taboo. I thought it was better that it be taboo.

His Smile Reappears.

The captain was having too good a time as he and Bob, who had a neat 69, beat their opponents. So I strolled along watching him and thinking.

When a plane came over—just another transport—I thought I saw him glance quickly over his shoulder. His face was not smiling.

Then as he turned to make a shot, the smile was there again. But that twinge of seriousness brought back reports of Narvik, of Dunkirk, of lightning flashes of steel. And new wonder filled me.

Then later, Bob Woodruff was talking about a hunting trip in Wyoming. He was telling of finding oneself on a horse and looking over the edge of the mountain which dropped 500 feet straight down.

"That's when I would have started getting off," laughed Bob Jones.

Jones Explains Meaning. "Well, some of the fellows wouldn't admit they were scared," Woodruff said.

In a moment the little man, formerly captain of the aircraft carrier Furious and now of the Illustrious, asked his aide.

"What did he say—'scared'?" And Jones explained quickly. "It means afraid."

Well, I had a damn good idea the fellow did not know the meaning of the word, but that clinched it.

Newspapermen Fight Imaginary Battles At Fort Benning

By HAROLD TYLER.

FORT BENNING, Ga., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Alabama and Georgia newspapermen today fought the Battle of Davison Hill, breathing fumes from smoke bombs, watching red tracer bullets streak out of machineguns and listening to the whistle of artillery shells fired overhead.

They were publishers and editors of Associated Press newspapers in the two states, convened as guests of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer newspapers, and witnesses of demonstrations at the Army's huge infantry school at Fort Benning. The activities included an actual attack by an infantry battalion with the increased support of artillery required for modern effectiveness.

Earlier they went through the parachute schools, observing the preliminary work of parachute packing, tumbling and practice jumping designed to toughen and train the men before they ever enter a plane. At the parachute towers, they found cables suspended 250 feet in the air, with a controlled drop parachute similar to that of the New York World's Fair.

McGill Accepts.

Invited to try the parachute drop, Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and Mark Temple, of the Associated Press, agreed to test the silk canopy.

"If it holds me up, it's safe for anybody," McGill claimed.

They were followed in short order by Buford Boone, managing editor of the Acon Telegraph, and Otis Brumby, publisher of the Cobb County Times and president of the Georgia Press Association.

Ben Bloodworth, of the Decatur (Ala.) Daily, and Nat Faulk, of Dothan Eagle, liked the 250-drop so well they made the jump twice.

Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, and Fred Moon, city editor, found their delight in a jeep and raced around the reservation like two veteran jeeps when Colonel Thomas T. Taylor, of the Infantry Board, invited them to try their hand at driving.

Bryan at the wheel took W. F. Caldwell, southern division news editor of The Associated Press, through a 25-foot gully, straight down and straight up. The jeep offered not a peep of protest.

C. R. Griffin, of the Valdosta Times, took his fun riding in a light tank, however, as did Vincent Townsend, of the Birmingham Age-Herald, and Reese Amis, of the Huntsville Times.

The visitors, entertained at an informal party last night, again were guests of the Ledger-Enquirer papers at a banquet at the Officers' Club today, with A. H. Chapman, publisher, representing the hosts.

Short Speeches.

Speeches were cut to the minimum.

Said Brigadier General O. N. Bradley, commanding general at Fort Benning, called on to speak at the luncheon:

Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Atlanta Constitution and a director of the Associated Press, was presented at the luncheon by Caldwell. Howell thanked the Ledger-Enquirer publishers and editors as hosts and General Bradley and Benning's officers and men for their demonstrations. Later the 60-odd members incorporated this in a formal resolution.

TANKS FOR RUSSIA—This picture by cable from London shows tanks being loaded aboard ship at a British port for movement to hard-pressed Russia. Tanks and planes are considered Russia's greatest needs.

Eddy Gilmore Reaches Russia in Shipload of British Tanks

By EDDY GILMORE.

A BRITISH PORT, Oct. 7.—(Delayed) — (P) — I know now what it feels like to be a tank for Russia. Together with droves of the iron robots I climbed aboard this ship headed for a Soviet port. It was a funny feeling.

They put the tanks in one part of the ship and me in the other—otherwise the gentle treatment both received was the same. But (Eddy Gilmore, former Atlantan, started from London to Russia some time ago on a new war coverage assignment for the Associated Press and apparently has arrived somewhere in the Soviet Union. The fact that the British censors have just released the following story he wrote on October 7, while leaving England, indicates his ship has reached its destination safely.

the longshoremen and I looked at freight piers as he shouldered me out of the way of a truckload of spare parts.

"Those tanks have to get through," said a broad-backed, burr-tongued veteran of the

"Don't worry, mate," he grinned. "If they get through, you do. If they don't, you don't."

It was something to think about. This was among the first ships loaded at this port with supplies for Russia. Besides tanks, the ship was packed with planes, spare parts, corned beef, shoes, blankets and at least one item from the United States—bandages made in New Jersey.

U. S. Bomber Completes Hop Around World

Plane Reported To Have 30 Bullet Holes in Its Wings

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 29.—(AP)—A four-motored Army bomber completed an unheralded 'round-the-world' flight upon its arrival at March Field yesterday with members of the aid-to-Russia mission.

Reports said the plane had 30 bullet holes in its wings as mementoes of its flight over warring nations.

The hop from Hawaii marked the first Pacific ocean flight of a B-24, although many of the bombers have crossed the Atlantic to England.

The craft took off today for the east, presumably for Washington, after which news of the flight was released.

Reports of the bullet holes came from Honolulu, where the 25-ton Consolidated-built bomber stopped a short time before leaving for the United States. Dispatches said the holes resulted from five encounters with some forces which suspected it was enemy craft.

Consolidated spokesmen said the plane was one of the first B-24s built and went east several months ago to make the trip to Moscow with the Russian-aid mission members.

Police Seek Volunteers For Drunk Driving Test

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 29.—(INS)—The police were out looking for drinking drivers today, not for the purpose of visiting punishment upon them, but to enlist their collaboration in tests of the efficiency of a "drunkometer."

The proposition looked attractive. The police not only will provide the car and the drinker's favorite brand of liquor, but two cops will accompany each driver home after the experiments to explain his condition to the "missus."

AFTER THE BATTLE—Lieutenant Commander Anthony L. Danis, captain of the U. S. S. Kearny, stands haggard and unshaven in front of a water-tight door beside a twisted bulkhead aboard his ship as she arrives at port after being attacked by a Nazi submarine.

to decide whether he would stay with his own convoy or join the battle near by. His convoy may have been one of empty ships, moving from England back to this country, or Danis may have considered it reasonably safe from attack. At any rate he chose to fight.

The secretary's report disclosed that the torpedo which struck the destroyer was one of three fired at her some time after she had released depth bombs in assistance to a merchant vessel.

Two Torpedoes Missed.
One of these torpedoes, according to this advice, passed astern of the ship. One passed before her and the center one struck her amidships, causing damage to her boiler room and midsection and costing 11 dead and 10 wounded. Today's report was the first official confirmation that the 11 men were considered as dead. Previously, they had been reported missing.

The Kearny, first American warship successfully attacked since the European war began, was torpedoed about 350 miles south and west of Iceland. She made port under her own power.

Text of Release.
"Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today released the following additional information concerning the torpedoing of the U. S. S. Kearny, as result of information received from the ship. (Location

Nazis Claim 15 Ships Sunk In U-Boat Raid

6-Day Running Attack Described in Berlin Release.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(INS)—In a dramatic six-day running attack between Gibraltar and England, German U-boats sank 14 heavily laden British merchantmen totaling 47,000 tons and one British destroyer, Chancellor Hitler's headquarters asserted tonight.

The sinkings, one of the Nazis' biggest single bags, were described in Berlin as coming at the "ripe moment" following President Roosevelt's "shooting" Navy Day speech.

Practically the entire convoy was wiped out, the Germans said, only a few ships escaping the tenacious onslaughts of the U-boats. Although the convoy was heavily guarded, the pack of submarines dogged its wake from the time it left Gibraltar, darting in at every opportunity in spite of the "greatest difficulties" to speed torpedoes at the boats.

As the merchantmen were picked off one by one, several torpedo hits were scored on the destroyer, which broke in two and sank.

German officials called the announcement a direct retort to Mr. Roosevelt's speech, and added: "Sinkings by U-boats will increase with every ship entering the blockade zone—American included."

of the ship at present was not given.

"On the night of October 16-17, the U. S. S. Kearny while escorting a convoy of merchant ships received distress signals from another convoy which was under attack from several German submarines. The U. S. S. Kearny proceeded to the aid of the attacked convoy.

"On arriving at the scene of the attack, the U. S. S. Kearny dropped depth bombs when she sighted a merchant ship under attack by a submarine. Some time afterward, three torpedo tracks were observed approaching the U. S. S. Kearny. One passed ahead of the ship, one astern, and the third struck the U. S. S. Kearny on the starboard side in the vicinity of the forward fire room.

"The force of the explosion breached the side of the ship well under the water line, flooding the boiler compartment and killing the men stationed in the boiler room on the steaming watch. The force of the explosion was forward and upward. The deck above the fire room was ruptured with such force that wreckage was thrown onto the bridge.

"Eleven men were killed as result of the attack. In addition, two men were seriously injured and eight men received minor wounds. (Here followed the list of the dead, previously released).

"The U. S. S. Kearny was forced out of action by the explosion. Her commanding officer, Lieutenant Commander A. L. Danis, U. S. Navy, immediately invoked casualty and ship damage routine and by prompt action prevented the ship from sinking. The U. S. S.

Police Here Will Be Instructed On Duties in the Event of War

A graphic outline, illustrated by motion pictures of blitz bombings of English cities and how "bobbies" handled them, of what will be expected of American police today and tomorrow before Georgia law enforcement officials by an agent of the FBI.

Special Agent F. R. Hammack, in charge of the Atlanta field office, has invited all Georgia chiefs of police, sheriffs, state patrol executives and police administrative officers to attend the school, which will open at 9 o'clock this morning at the municipal auditorium.

This first two-day course of instruction will be followed at a later date by a more extended course of six days' duration, for the benefit of subordinate officers.

The course will be conducted by Agent James D. Good, a native of Cedarhurst and a graduate of the University of South Carolina, who has been sent to Atlanta from Washington.

The FBI instruction will describe wartime emergency duties, based on first hand observations made in England by agents of the FBI. The course is being held by the FBI in co-operation with the Office of Civilian Defense.

Arnall Attacks Enemy Groups

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 29.—Continuing his attack on Communism and Hitlerism, Attorney General Ellis Arnall told the Gainesville Kiwanis Club today that it is time for Americans to get "hard boiled" in dealing with these two subversive doctrines.

"We can cope with the enemy who attacks in the open and customary battle array, but the modern plan of attack of the dictators is to resort to subversive activities and propaganda," he declared. Arnall characterized Communism and Hitlerism as "the most dangerous influences that are at work in America today" and added they were "mortal enemies of democracy."

"It is not right to allow any group, whether Communist or Hitlerist, to enter into a conspiracy to deprive American citizens of the freedoms and liberties guaranteed under the Constitution of the United States," he concluded.

Corporal in Patrol Given Suspension

Corporal W. E. McDuffie, of the State Patrol's Swainsboro station, has been suspended pending a hearing before the Department of Public Safety Board on charges of swearing false evidence in an arrest case. Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety W. Price Reed said yesterday.

A motorist arrested on a charge driving while drunk charged in an affidavit the patrolman arrested him in one county and had him tried in another, swearing falsely as to where the arrest was made, according to Major Reed.

Great Performance Seen For New Flying Boat

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics, indicated today that the Navy was expecting extraordinary long-range, high-altitude performance from the big new flying boat being constructed by the Glenn Martin plant at Middle River, Md.

While he would not give specific figures, Towers said the great ship, largest flying bombardment plane ever built, could be used as a transport for marines, as a patrol boat, or as a bomber.

Senators Flay Move To Revise Neutrality Act

Arming of Ships Will Be Final Key to War, Nye Says.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Opposing revision of the neutrality law, Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin, told the senate today the statute had "accomplished the purpose for which it was intended—the purpose of keeping the United States out of war."

In fact, he asserted, if it had not been for evasions of that act, "countenanced" by the administration, the loss of American lives and property "would have been even less" than it has been to date.

LaFollette was one of two middle western senators to speak today against proposals that American ships be allowed to carry guns and sail into combat zones and belligerent ports—practices forbidden by the neutrality law as it stands.

The other, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, said that arming merchant ships would invite attack upon them and constitute a "deliberate jeopardizing" of American lives.

"Final Key to War."

"Such jeopardizing of American lives with its inevitable loss of American life is the final key to the war," he said.

"It cannot be forgotten that such men as will handle the guns aboard such merchant ships would be gun crews from the United States Navy, and the Navy is under orders to shoot on sight."

"This is war... It is what I oppose. Let the proponents of shooting on sight and of arming ships to do it be honest with us and tell us that is what they want..." LaFollette said the evasion of the act which he mentioned consisted of transferring ships to Panamanian registry so they might traverse waters forbidden to them as American vessels.

He charged that "a reluctant people have been taken step by step closer to the brink of the catastrophic struggle" now raging in Europe.

Quotes Correspondent.
Nye quoted an unnamed correspondent as having quipped that if the pending legislation is approved, "the United States will be in the war before Great Britain." He added that Great Britain "hasn't begun to be involved in this war as some others have known it."

GRAND MASTER—Mayor Zach Arnold, of Fort Gaines, also former state auditor, yesterday was named grand master of the Grand Lodge of Georgia Masons at Macon.

Soviet Planes Blast Berlin in Big Night Raid

Explosions and Fires Observed by Soviet Aerialists.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(Thursday) Soviet Bombers carried out a heavy raid on Berlin during the night, the Moscow radio announced early today.

Many incendiary and high explosive bombs were dropped on "military and industrial targets" in the German capital, the announcement stated, adding that "explosions and fires were observed" by the Russian flyers.

It was the first Russian aerial bombardment of Berlin in several weeks.

At the same time, the Soviet radio announced German bombers attacked Moscow once more during the night, but that Russian anti-aircraft batteries and night fighters "repelled the majority" of the Luftwaffe raiders, although a "few enemy planes reached the capital and bombed residential districts at random, causing casualties."

Roosevelt Picks Georgian To Be Solicitor General

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt today named Charles Fahy, a native Georgian, to be solicitor general of the United States—highest active legal post in the government.

Mr. Fahy has been acting solicitor general since the elevation of Francis Biddle as attorney general. His nomination, which was sent to the senate today, has been anticipated for some time.

He was born in Rome on August 26, 1892, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fahy, one of a family of 10. He has five brothers and four sisters. Two of the brothers, Bernard S. and Albert F. Fahy, are still in Rome, as is one of his sisters, Miss Janie Fahy. Another sister, Miss Sarah Fahy, resides in Atlanta.

Fahy attended the Rome public schools and Darlington school. From there he completed work for his law degree in Georgetown University. While a student at Georgetown he worked as a clerk in the office of J. J. Darlington in Washington, for whom the private school at Rome is named.

Upon completing his law course he practiced in Darlington's office. At the outbreak of the World War he volunteered for service and saw active duty in France with the Naval aviation force. He was decorated with the Navy Cross.

After the war, he resumed his practice in Washington, later going to New Mexico. He was summoned from practice there by President Roosevelt and he served through the two administrations until his present appointment.

Fahy married Miss Mary Agnes Lane, of Washington, and the couple have three daughters and a son.

Fahy has held a number of government posts under the New Deal. He was brought to Washington in 1933 to become the first assistant solicitor of the Interior Department and later that year was made a member of the Petroleum Administrative Board. Subsequently he was named chairman of the board and while serving in that post was appointed general counsel of the then newly created National Labor Relations Board.

From the latter office, Mr. Fahy went to the Department of Justice, where he was assistant solicitor general under Mr. Biddle.

As solicitor general it will be his duty to represent the government in all cases before the Supreme court.

AROUND Atlanta

Attaches of Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office yesterday drew a murder indictment against Jesse Westbrook, Negro, who Sunday ran over and killed Katie Elaine McWilliams, of 1035 Westview drive, S. W. The bill will be submitted to the Fulton county grand jury for action today. It charges that Westbrook was driving while drunk at a speed of from 40 to 50 miles an hour, and that the brakes on his machine were faulty. The child was the daughter of Mrs. G. D. McWilliams, of 1025 Westview drive.

Ladies night, the first of a series of meetings at which ladies or members of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will be guests, will be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight in Davison's Tearoom, it was announced yesterday by O. C. Hubert, president.

More cotton is being ginned in Fulton county this year than in 1940. R. D. Manning, special agent of the Department of Commerce Bureau of Census, announced yesterday. Up to October 18, there had been a total of 3,987 bales of cotton ginned in the county, compared with the 1940 crop of 3,511 bales.

Governor yesterday called upon state department heads to take stock of improvements made during the past 10 months of rigid budgetary control and to furnish him with reports of their findings.

W. H. Dodson, owner and operator of the W. H. Dodson Jewelry store at 127 Peachtree Arcade, yesterday asked The Constitution to point out he is not the Weyman H. Dodson indicted Tuesday by the grand jury on a charge of larceny after trust. The jeweler has been in business here for many years.

Morris Brown Glee Club will perform 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Veterans' Hospital in a program presented by Mrs. Lillian Crawford for the No. 390 Post Veterans of Foreign Wars. A special hook-up will be arranged to allow bed patients to hear the singers.

Men who served with the old Troop L, Second Georgia Cavalry, on the Mexican border and in France will gather Saturday night, November 8, at Wooding's cafeteria for their annual reunion. Cecil Taylor, secretary, announced yesterday. The troop was also known as "The Governor's Horse Guard," and its members now are scattered over many states and in many countries.

James F. Barrett, of Atlanta, publicity director in the southern states for the American Federation of Labor, will take a leave of absence to join the Treasury Department in Washington beginning November 1. George L. Googe, southern representative for the AFL, announced yesterday.

Morehouse College students will hold their annual homecoming celebration beginning today with a reception in the Robert Hall recreation room on the campus. A parade will be held at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, followed by a bonfire on the athletic field. Saturday's feature attraction is a football game.

Miss Lois Patterson, of Griffin, president of the Georgia Association of Public School Secretaries, will speak to the fifth district meeting of the group Saturday in Rich's tearoom.

Bank clearings yesterday were $19,200,000 compared with $12,000,000.

500,000 for the corresponding day last year, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported.

Eight Georgians have completed six-week military training and will receive specialized courses in one of the Navy trade schools. They are Thomas D. Futch, of Atlanta; Dan G. Collins and Oscar H. Patrick, both of College Park; John H. Sims Jr., of Carrollton; George L. Ragsdale, of Dallas; Joshua S. Mann, Fairburn; William K. Carmical, of Moreland, and Malcolm V. Leach, of Newnan.

Warren W. Gates Jr., of 680 Juniper street, has been promoted to second lieutenant in the cadet corps of The Citadel, Charleston, S. C., according to an announcement by Colonel C. M. McMurray, professor of military science and tactics. The Citadel has an enrollment of 1,762, largest in history.

Examinations to fill the position of rural carrier at Fayetteville will be held here approximately 15 days after the application deadline closes November 15, United States Civil Service Commission announced yesterday. Examination will be open only to citizens who have actually resided in the Fayetteville area for six months, the announcement stated.

Restitution in back wages totaling approximately $12,500 was made during the week ending Saturday to 932 employees of 28 Georgia firms, J. R. McLeod, regional director of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor announced here yesterday. Payments in Florida and South Carolina for the same period were approximately $13,750, he said.

"Beyond Reason," a mystery farce, will be presented by the faculty of the Murphy Junior High at 7:45 o'clock tonight at the school auditorium. First performance was given last night.

Study class being conducted by the Atlanta Association of Claim Men will have its seventh session at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce. E. R. Rails and Oils in Fore of Good Times Parade, Up 100 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Profits of the first 240 companies to report for the third quarter of 1941 were 38 per cent greater than the same period a year ago, a compilation by the Associated Press disclosed today.

Many companies, hit by heavier taxes, showed smaller earnings than a year ago, but the vast majority reported bigger profits, even after deducting huge taxes and substantial reserves for contingencies. Total earnings for the 240 companies were $383,906,000 compared with $278,471,000 in the third quarter of 1940.

Among the major industries, petroleum companies and the railroads showed startling gains. Profits of 16 oil producers and refiners mounted to $23,673,000 against $10,345,000 in the same period last year.

Nineteen railroads reported aggregate net income of $63,665,000 for the July-September period, nearly double the $33,918,000 earned in the same period of 1940. Profits of 20 steel companies disclosed that the industry was petering out. Net income for the group totaled $45,068,000 against $43,295,000 in the third quarter last year, a gain of only 4.1 per cent.

Charges 'Control' Of Safety Figures

Georgia's highway death toll for 1940 was "kept down" by the failure of the Rivers-appointed State Patrol officials to record all of the year's fatalities, Major W. Price Reed, deputy commissioner of public safety, charged yesterday.

At least 40 more traffic fatalities occurred in the state last year than were revealed in totals released by former Commissioner Leon Sullivan, Major Reed said.

Present tabulations show 133 deaths for 1940, whereas Sullivan's figures showed only 799 were killed, he declared.

Major Reed admitted some death reports on 1940 accidents have come in this year, but he said most of the additional 40 were found in the files when the present administration came in, but had not been recorded on the total.

Little Farmers Must Aid U. S., FSA Head Says

Production of More Food, Feed Needed, A. P. Jones Asserts.

The small farmers of Fulton county—the ones with little farms and low incomes—have their part to do in producing more food and feed for the nation and its allies, A. P. Jones, county farm supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, asserted yesterday.

The minimum production for every FSA-aided family in the county will be: Three acres of wheat; a 12-month garden of one-third acre; a quarter acre of Irish potatoes; one-half acre of sweet potatoes; three acres in oats and barley; six acres of hay; two acres in grain sorghum, and five acres in soil improvement crops, Jones said.

Each family will increase its poultry to 100 chickens, with accent on egg production, and each will have two cows and at least five hogs, one of them for the market, Jones pointed out that increases in cash producing crops will be assigned according to county quotas. Object of the increases is to produce more food for the farmers and their families as well as for shipment overseas.

American Rolling Mill Votes 35-Cent Dividend

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The American Rolling Mill Company yesterday declared a dividend of 35 cents a common share, payable December 12 to stockholders of record November 12.

The company has paid $1.05 in common dividends so far this year.

Wage-Earners Contributing More Than Ever to the Fund

The rank and file of men and women who work for a living are answering the Community Fund appeal more generously and in greater numbers than last year, but the very thoroughness of the canvass is requiring more time to yield full benefits, General Chairman R. H. Rich said yesterday.

With half of the $575,000 quota pledged as the second week of the drive began, hundreds of volunteers have been bending their energies toward winding up the big task before they assemble for tomorrow's 12:30 o'clock report luncheon at the Ansley hotel.

"I glanced over returns today from 200 concerns, large and small, where miniature campaigns have been completed," said Mr. Rich, "and found a 15 per cent increase in gifts and a 25 per cent increase in number of givers. If this splendid improvement holds good for hundreds of similar drives now going on among other employ groups, victory is assured."

Rich cited a number of examples where more generous giving by both management and workers had swelled returns above last year's level. Among these were the Kay Jewelry Company with $623 as against $153 last year; the H. Kessler Company, $294.70 against $185.60; the Zep Manufacturing Company, $148.50 against $70; Holtzman, Inc., $146 against $34; and Bick's Bowling Center, $283 against $180.

Other firms whose support in terms of dollars and givers has exceeded 1940 by margins ranging up to several hundred per cent are Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, American Optical Company, Associated Seed Growers, Davison-Paxon Company, Southland Coffee Company, Beck & Gregg, the Selig Company, Bon Arts Studios, Southern Waxed Paper Company, Calvert Iron Works, Piedmont hospital, Darling Stores, National Cash Register Company, Glidden Company, J. G. McGraw Company, C. D. Harris Company, Morris Plan Bank, J. B. McCrary Company, F. W. Woolworth Company, Rich's and many others.

"It's impossible to call the complete roll of honor," said Chairman Rich, "and the amount involved is hardly more than a fraction of the total we must realize, but I confidently believe that this fine showing means that more people than ever before understand and are fulfilling their obligations in this grave matter of human welfare."

Dairymen Seek Another Boost In Milk Price

to the women's milk clubs, but the dairymen used this as a springboard to launch into their pleas for further price increases.

Director Duncan said he would recommend to the board that all milk clubs in operation in Atlanta be registered with the board "so that we will know what is going on" and indicated he also would recommend that co-operative associations of retail stores be given similar privileges.

Request Is Declined. He flatly declined a request by Mrs. Walter L. Fleisher Jr., president of the Atlanta Consumers' Committee, to call on Attorney General Ellis Arnall for a ruling on the legality of the milk clubs. Duncan maintained this was not necessary, since the question was one for the board to settle.

All kinds of charges were bandied about the hearing room, including an accusation by Director Duncan that the board was not getting a fair break in the newspapers.

"We have a hostile press," Calvin Castlen, former court reporter for the board, shouted. "They're just pot-shootin' at the present administration."

At this point Duncan stopped the outburst by ruling Castlen's charge as irrelevant to the discussion.

Paul White, wholesale producer, kept springing up in the rear of the room and demanding:

"If we're going to play poker, let's put the cards on the table."

Asks Another Increase. Near the end of the hearing, A. L. Crowe, producer-distributor, proposed that the board grant a further 1-cent increase to be put in effect through the months of December, January and February and that in the meantime the federal government be called on to make a survey to determine the true situation of the milk industry in Georgia.

Crowe asked Mrs. Fleisher if she, as a representative of the consumers, would agree to such a compromise. She replied she could not speak for the consumers, but that she personally would not.

Regent Hunter May Leave Board

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 29.—(AP) Vice Chairman E. Ormonde Hunter, of the State University Board of Regents, said today he soon would enter the Army as a major in specialist reserve, intelligence division.

He said he would ask a leave of absence from the board. If this is not granted, he asserted, he would resign.

Hunter opposed the ouster of Dean Walter D. Cocking and Georgia State Teachers' College President Marvin S. Pittman in a hearing last June.

Walter D. Cocking was guilty and I thought Pittman (Dr. Marvin S. Pittman) was guilty. I know now they are guilty. I believe that southern woman in what she told."

The "southern woman" Judge Jackson referred to was Mrs. Sylvia Hamilton, who testified against Dr. Cocking at the now famous trial.

"We are deeply resentful of the shame and humiliation brought upon our university and alarmed over prospective loss of her accredited rating," the resolution said. "We are in accord with those newspapers, students and alumni who are waging such an effective fight upon forces which brought about this condition."

Jackson's Statement. Informed that a student delegation might visit him, Judge Jackson, of Gray, one of the Governor's most recent appointees on the Board of Regents, declared: "Dern it, no power on earth can make me change my mind. I thought at the time Cocking (Dr.

Many Students Of University Get Positions

Placement Director Reports Best Season in Decade.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 29.—(INS)—The 1941 placement season was the best in a decade for students of the University of Georgia, Mrs. Mary B. Bondurant, director of placement and student aid at the institution, announced.

"Out of 414 seniors and alumni who registered for positions, 348 are now employed, seven are available for positions and six are not available because of military service, marriage and other causes," Director Bondurant said.

Teaching positions were in the greatest demand, according to Mrs. Bondurant. The professions also furnished the greatest single source of employment. The applications of 232 seniors, graduate students and alumni were recommended for a total of 1,026 vacancies reported to the placement bureau.

"All were offered more than one job, some as many as five," she said. "Vacancies reported to the

Nazis Machinegun 1,000 Jews in Poland

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—More than 1,000 Jews were forced to kneel in trenches and were machinegunned by Nazi troops near Lomza, in northern Poland, and several hundreds were killed in southern Poland, the British news agency Reuters said tonight, quoting Polish reports.

bureau during the month of August, for which there were no applicants, reached 108."

Many of the requests came from high schools and colleges throughout the country.

Openings for 182 business administration graduates placing applications greatly increased this year because of better business conditions, the effect of the selective service and employment opportunities in defense industries, she said.

"The majority of this group were placed in private business and others secured positions with the government," she reported.

Northern Plains Pelted by Snow

By The Associated Press. Snow pelted the northern plains and the northern Rockies yesterday in the path of an advance of wintry weather.

The snow, generally light but the first of the season in some sections, fell in Montana, Wyoming, northern Colorado, western Nebraska, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

A mass of cold air accompanied the flurries and was expected to topple temperatures as it moved south and east. Freezing conditions already were widespread in the snow area and frost was reported in Illinois and Indiana while the nip of autumn was in the air in many northern states from the Mississippi valley to the Atlantic coast.

School Dispute Seen as Issue In '42 Election

Legislators Continue To Spurn Appeals for Extra Session.

By LUKE GREENE.

If units of the University System of Georgia are dropped from the accredited list, this question may become one of the liveliest and most timely issues of next year's gubernatorial campaign.

This possibility developed yesterday as legislators continued to hunt aside the suggestions of students all over the state that an extra session of the legislature be called to take away the Governor's appointive power in the State Board of Regents.

A delegation of students from the Georgia College for Women, in Milledgeville, called on Representative Dawson Kea, of Dublin, one of the administration leaders, to urge a special session, but he favored waiting for further developments.

Delayed Action.

He pointed out he was under the impression that if the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools dropped the University System, or any unit of it, this action would not become effective until next September.

This would bring the university issue into the limelight right at the time of the election as well as serve to keep it alive until that time.

However, Representative Kea expressed opinion there would be plenty of time to straighten the matter out in the meantime, but that if a special session becomes necessary he would favor it.

Strong Resolutions.

While students toured the state contacting members of the Board of Regents and made plans for their statewide conference in Macon Saturday, University of Georgia alumni in Brunswick adopted a sharply-worded resolution in which they declared that "interference by the Governor with the University System bids fair to destroy intellectual freedom and scholastic standing of the university and its branches."

"We are deeply resentful of the shame and humiliation brought upon our university and alarmed over prospective loss of her accredited rating," the resolution said. "We are in accord with those newspapers, students and alumni who are waging such an effective fight upon forces which brought about this condition."

Shorter Today Will Dedicate 2 College Buildings and Chapel

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ROME, Ga., Oct. 29.—Two prominent Atlantans will participate in the "Founder's Day" program to be held at Shorter College tomorrow.

Formal dedication of two of the college buildings and of the chapel will form a major part of the exercises, according to Dr. Paul M. Cousins, president of the 68-year-old institution.

Speakers from Atlanta who will appear on the program include Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, president of the Georgia Baptist convention and of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, and pastor of the First Baptist church; and Dr. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church.

The chapel is to be called the "William Walker Brookes Memorial Chapel" in honor of the late William Walker Brookes, of Rome, and later of Atlanta.

Fourth Annual Housing Site Safety Crusade To Be Selected Launched Here By Group Here

Originated by Davison's, Measure To Aid School Children.

Fourth annual safety crusade has been launched throughout the Atlanta school system by Davison's, it was announced yesterday. Originated by Davison's, the crusade has been praised highly by leaders here and has been adopted widely in other cities as an in a measure to prevent accidents to school boys and girls.

Davison's makes awards to pupils writing the best essays on safety subjects, and last year distributed more than 25 awards to children in 18 different schools. More than 30,000 safety pledges have been signed by children.

Following are the provisions of the crusade pledge: (1) I will cross streets only at intersections; (2) I will only cross with traffic lights or when officer gives signal; (3) I will obey the orders of the school safety patrol; (4) I will look in every direction before crossing the streets; (5) I will help children younger than I am cross the street safely; (6) I will not play in the streets; (7) I will not ride my bicycle, or scooter or skate in the middle of the street; and (8) I will do everything within my power at all times to prevent accidents to myself and other children.

4 State Schools Show Surpluses

Audits of four units of the University System of Georgia yesterday showed they ended the fiscal year in good financial condition, although one barely eased by with an operating surplus of only one penny, according to State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr.

The institution getting by with one cent to the good was the Georgia State Woman's College at Valdosta. North Georgia College at Dahlonega ended the year with $18,953.12 in the operating account and $17,076 in the infirmity account. The University System Center in Atlanta, consisting of the evening school and the junior college, had a surplus of $22,757.65, while Georgia Southwestern College at Americus closed its books with $6,870.91 to the good.

Washing Machine Production Is Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson, OPM priorities director, today ordered the washing machine and ironer industry to reduce its output 17.3 per cent under average monthly sales for the 12 months ended last June 30.

The curtailment order, similar to previous orders covering automobiles and refrigerators, established production maximums for the five months beginning August 1 and ending December 31. At the same time, OPM said the industry had been warned that the government could not guarantee sufficient materials to reach the maximums. The average monthly production limit for the industry was set at 164,410 units, compared with a monthly average of 198,856 units during the year ended June 30.

Project Will Provide 180 Units for Air Base, Hospital.

A site for 180 housing units for enlisted personnel of the Naval Reserve Air Base and enlisted and civilian personnel of Lawson General hospital will be selected by the Atlanta Housing Authority, it was announced yesterday in Washington by John N. Edy, acting federal works administrator.

The project already has been approved by the President, Edy said. James H. Therrell, executive director of the Atlanta Housing Authority, said Washington officials have been studying the project for some time. He said 100 of the units would be for the hospital and 80 for the air base.

The new units likely will be built in DeKalb county, near the camp, Therrell said, adding that the Decatur Housing Authority may be asked to act as agent. The project will consist of row houses and duplexes of permanent structure, he reported. No estimate of the cost was available.

Quigg W. White Succumbs at 63

Quigg W. White, 63, of Rockdale county, died Tuesday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Jackson, in Atlanta. Funeral services were held for him yesterday afternoon at Conyers Presbyterian church, with the Rev. W. C. Sistar and the Rev. S. F. Lowe officiating. Burial was in West View cemetery.

He is survived by his wife; three sons, G. W. Vaden and R. L. White; three daughters, Mrs. Harvey Piper, Mrs. J. B. Jackson, and Mrs. John Fish; a brother, J. L. White; two sisters, Mrs. J. T. Tucker and Mrs. Naomi Langford; 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Defense Material Production Above Demand, Fuller Says

(In the second of a series of articles excerpted from the authoritative survey of America's labor-defense crisis, appearing in the forthcoming November issue of Survey Graphic Magazine, President Walter D. Fuller, of the National Association of Manufacturers, reveals that while more than 4,400,000 man days of labor were lost in defense work alone in the first seven months of 1941, American industry has performed miracles of production.)

By WALTER D. FULLER.

(Excerpted from the November issue of Survey Graphic by International News Service with special permission of Survey associates.)

The rate of acceleration of production of defense material is greater than that of the growing avalanche of demand.

The work could speed faster except for work stoppage and other delays, many of which are beyond industrial management's control.

But, dangerous as delays may be and unpatriotic as some stoppages undoubtedly are, to talk of speeding defense production is to talk only of aggrandizing a miracle which is already an accomplished matter of record.

For on August 31, 1941, American industry completed a miracle of defense production. On that day, defense goods within a few dollars of the total of defense appropriations and authorizations up to the passage of the lend-lease act, on March 11, were finished and delivered. More than double the amount originally authorized and appropriated for defense had been completed and delivered in 14 months.

30,500,000 Man Years.
In terms of labor requirement, a $51,000,000 defense schedule (representing United States defense orders, British orders and lend-lease as of September 1) calls for 30,500,000 man years of work.

The defense program is already greater than the total average production of peacetime durable goods for this country for the five years before the defense period. In the face of such a requirement, it is clear that no man hours in the defense industries should be lost.

There is no question about the patriotism and loyalty of the rank and file of American workers. But more than 4,400,000 man days of labor were lost in defense work alone in the first seven months of 1941, and industrial disputes have been growing in volume and intensity.

Many of these disputes are clearly due to mistaken labor leadership. Anthracite coal workers have struck against increased union dues and assessments. Employers are no part of the dispute.

But this strike closed the mines. Others, like the power strike which endangered Kansas City and shut down a steel plant and other defense work there, are in violation of responsible labor leadership. Others flaunt government mediation boards. Whatever its cause, no strike is in the interest of defense. Damage done by work stoppage in a period of emergency can never be repaired.

One Single Cause.
Basically, all these strikes have a single cause. Government labor policy has been little short of chaotic.

Numerous government agencies with varying authority, some created by congress and others by executive order only, but with no basic governing principles and with very little co-ordination, have their fingers in the most delicate of relations—that between employers and their employees. Under such circumstances, it is not surprising that these agencies cannot command the loyalty of those careerist labor leaders who find it to their greatest personal advantage to fish in a muddled pool.

It is understandable that during these crisis-fueled months establishment of specifications for many defense goods needed has been slow. Now contract placings can be speeded. The need for nondefense goods, as well as defense material, is at last being surveyed.

Speedier specifications, faster order placements, rational taxation coupled with rational price and priorities control will serve to control inflation, centralized production staff work in Washington, and a rationalized labor policy, will help industry to outdo what it already has done, is doing, and will continue with steady acceleration to do.

Free men and free management, working together as free private enterprises despite distractions and delays, already have accomplished more than Hitler's robot legions were able to accomplish in six years under the much-vaunted totalitarian dictatorship.

City Officials Study Police School Plan

Machinery was set in motion yesterday for police department schools to increase the efficiency of officers and men.

Police Chief Hornsby, Superintendent of Detectives McKibben and Detective Lieutenant M. B. Petty conferred at length with Mayor LeCraw.

When the compromise in the row over police administration was reached, the council followed recommendations of the mayor and ordered schools for patrolmen, traffic enforcement officers, detectives and superior officers.

Principals in the conference declined to comment on other matters discussed during the hour-long conference. The mayor's comment was "it was just a routine departmental conference."

SCOUT LEADER.

MOULTREE, Ga., Oct. 29.—W. V. Wahan, local businessman and manager of Swift & Company's Moultrie plant, has been elected district chairman of the Colquitt county Boy Scouts. He announces that a Scout training course for adult Scout leaders will be held in Moultrie beginning November 18 and will be conducted by the chief Scout executive of Suwannee River Council.

U. S. Is Seeking Greater Output Of Magnesium

Common Minerals Yield Vital War Material Reluctantly.

By THOMAS R. HENRY

Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A silvery white metal, which weighs a third less than aluminum and, pound for pound, is stronger, has become a vital war and defense material.

Next year the government will need 400,000,000 pounds of it, approximately 60 times the total national production two years ago. The metal, or rather the minerals from which it is made, are "common as dirt," but few other substances does the earth seem to give up with more reluctance. Only about 25 years ago the first stores were produced in the United States, which is one of the world's most abundant sources of the raw material.

This metal is magnesium, which, because of its lightness and strength, is invaluable for wings, engine castings and landing gear for airplanes and because of the intense heat with which it burns forms the basis of the incendiary bombs which have been showered on London.

Had Limited Use.
Hitherto it had a limited use—in the flash powders used by photographers up to a few years ago, in medicine, in kitchen utensils, and in some parts of automobiles. Metallurgists had found how to make very tough alloys with more easily obtainable aluminum.

But early in 1940 the huge Army, Navy and British aircraft-construction program was set in motion and demand soon overtook all available supplies of the metal. It was essential not only for the government to impose rigid priorities but to find ways to increase its supplies. By last fall the aircraft industry was demanding every ounce produced, leaving none for other vital needs, and since then this demand has enormously increased.

Even with the most efficient processes, Bureau of Mines experts explain, a great deal of magnesium is necessarily wasted. From more than 7,000,000 pounds used in the production of structural materials in 1940 only a little more than 5,000,000 pounds emerged in finished products. Magnesium combines easily with oxygen at temperatures above its melting point so it is assumed that the missing 2,000,000 pounds was mostly burned in the manufacturing process, while molten.

Good Co-operation.

In few other fields of emergency production has there been more wholehearted co-operation with the government. One large company, practically the sole producer up to the present, has set up a special plant to extract magnesium from sea water. Chemists and engineers all over the nation are working on new processes of extraction and new alloys.

Still, in the face of the probability that the demand will be greatly increased with newer airplane designs, the shortage is acute. The increase in the demand is shown by the fact that America's defense needs alone in 1942 call for about five times the total world production in 1940. Last year Germany was by far the largest producer with a total of about 38,000,000 pounds. The United Kingdom came next with a production of 13,000,000 pounds and the United States third with 11,360,000 pounds.

Exports Halted.

Germany was formerly an exporter of magnesium to the United States. In 1938 and 1939 she started hoarding a reserve for the coming war and the establishment and expansion of all plants has been placed under state control until the end of 1943. A great deal of the production is believed to have gone into fire bombs and much experimental work has been carried on by German metallurgists which has been kept secret.

A great deal of magnesium is known to be lying about in the form of scrap. This now is carefully hoarded wherever it is found. It is estimated that in 1940 about half a million pounds of this scrap was consumed by defense industries.

Wider uses are planned as the supply increases to the proportions of the demand. The service record and weight saving of magnesium-alloy wheels on large land planes have been so satisfactory that over 75 per cent of the commercial and military planes now under construction are so equipped. The very low weight of American aircraft engines per horse power is attributed to the use of magnesium-alloy products. Work is now in process on a fuselage using plastics mounted over magnesium-alloy reinforcements and full size wing panels of the metal are being tested.

Actress Ruby Keeler Weds Businessman

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29. (P)—Ruby Keeler, former wife of Al Jolson, was married today to John Lowe, Pasadena businessman, at St. Charles cathedral by Father H. C. Meade. Miss Keeler's sister, Gertrude, was maid of honor, and her brother, Byrill Keeler, was best man. The actress and Jolson were married September 21, 1928, and divorced December 26, 1939.

They are Walter Samuel Bolin, of Americus; Paul Felder, of Retail Credit Company, Atlanta; William Arthur Watts, of Sharpsburg, and William Weaver Hambrick, of Plains.

Federal Reserve System, Foe Of Wage Boosts, Raises Pay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Federal Reserve officials confessed today they were embarrassed because they were planning to raise the wages of hundreds of lower-paid employees throughout the country. Worried about possible inflation, leaders of the Federal Reserve system lately have been preaching about the dangers of excessive wage increases which they say might be a contributing factor to inflation.

But, said the officials, the Federal Reserve banks have been losing so many of their trained clerical help that they had to choose between higher wages and disorganization of the work of these banks, which are the official bankers for the United States Treasury and about 6,000 commercial banks.

Officials said that some increases already have been granted by the Philadelphia and Richmond banks, that a flat raise for employees earning less than $1,800 a year was being studied by the Kansas City bank, and similar studies were in progress in the other Federal Reserve banks and here at the Federal Reserve Board.

One official put it this way: "We are between the devil and the deep blue sea. We are afraid that wage raises will help cause inflation, but we can't stand to lose the experienced employees that we have been losing recently because these people can get better wages elsewhere."

Optometry Group Holds Meeting Here

"Optometry is going to do its share in the national defense program, Dr. Ralph Barstow, of Los Angeles, director of economics of the optometric extension program, told the Georgia State Association of Optometrists Tuesday night as they held their annual meeting here.

"Modern analytical optometry is coming to be recognized as a necessary part of the fitting of a skilled worker, and the highly technical work of the modern mechanized Army and Navy," he said. Following his address, the association decided to co-operate with the national optometric program in appointing a state committee to investigate working conditions in factories. Much time is lost, it was said, and many accidents caused by poor eyesight.

Rumanians Consider War "Over"

By ERNEST G. FISCHER.

WITH THE RUMANIAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION AT OCHAKOV, ON THE BLACK SEA, SOVIET RUSSIA, Oct. 20.—(Delayed)—(P)—Rumanian troops stationed in this area believe the Russian war is over as far as they are concerned.

High Rumanian authorities said the main Rumanian advance had ended at the west bank of the Bug river, which runs almost parallel to the 1939 Dniester river frontier, 50 to 100 miles deep in the Ukraine.

Their statement was interpreted to mean that Rumanian territorial ambitions have been realized.

Now that Odessa has been taken, many of the occupation troops expect to return home.

Among them are General Mircea Dimitriu and his forces, who, after participating in the two-month siege of Odessa, now are resting in this fortress town 40 miles to the east.

One Rumanian cavalry corps operating in the Crimea zone, however, is expected to remain in the field. It may be augmented by two more army corps.

These three Rumanian corps, Rumanian sources said, will continue active as Rumania's "contribution to Europe's common front against Bolshevism." Otherwise, the troops anticipate a discharge shortly.

(The first mention by the German high command of Rumanian troops in action since the date of this dispatch, October 20, was made yesterday. The communique said the Rumanians had captured an island in the northwest corner of the Sea of Azov, probably 140 miles beyond the Bug.

(In the same period, October 20 to October 29, the Germans have praised the action of other allied troops in the southern sector, including Italians, Spaniards, Slovaks and Hungarians.

Heavy Casualties.
(Several recent roundabout Balkan reports, usually by way of Turkey, have mentioned Rumanian unrest and agitation to quit the war. The Rumanians have announced heavy casualties amounting to 111,000, while Russian estimates of Rumanian losses have run as much as 250,000.

(Anywhere from 100,000 to 250,000 men might be included in the three corps remaining in the campaign. Rumania was reported to have mobilized about 1,000,000 men at the start of the offensive.)

Bessarabia, annexed by Russia from Rumania last year, has been earmarked for return to Rumania, but the eventual disposition of the remainder of Soviet territory west of the Bug is uncertain. Rumanians said. About 1,000,000 residents of Rumanian extraction of the latter territory will be repatriated, it was said.

HERE'S THE NEW SUPER-LUBRICANT FOR TODAY'S HARDER DRIVING

"X" safety factors in SHELL X-100 give extra protection to fine motors

EXTREME DRIVING CONDITIONS, created by new highways and today's more powerful cars, punish motor oil.

They may cause chemical changes which lessen its protection... often resulting in engine damage.

"X" safety factors in new Shell X-100 enable this super-lubricant to resist those changes. Recent test runs, totaling 5,000,000 miles, prove that Shell X-100 is safety insurance for your engine.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

A new car is going to be harder to get. It is important to take the best possible care of the car you have now or the one you buy. The regular use of Shell X-100 Motor Oil means maximum protection.

OLD ATLANTA
MERCHANT
TO CLOSEFamous Lew Adler
Store Opened
Doors In 1906

A famous landmark in Atlanta is soon to be lost to the South. Opened in 1906 by Lew Adler, whose Beau Brummel appearance was a familiar figure in all smart fashion byways, the store from its inception was designed to capture the sartorial fancy of Southern gentlemen of means.

And now, this "Tiffany" of haberdasheries and clothing is soon to fold its luxurious tent and steal away—but not quietly, as stealers in the night are wont to do in story books.

New York, London, Paris, Prague, Vienna were only a few of the cities throughout the world that Lew Adler considered his hunting ground in his search for exclusive "wearables" for men of taste and discrimination. Many of America's finest stores paid compliment to his judgment by "copying" his presentations.

But that will soon be a chapter for the memory alone. For the management of Lew Adler's has announced that the store is going out of business. For the past three days the store has been closed while extensive preparations were completed to institute a sale designed to sell out one of the largest and finest stocks of merchandise ever gathered under one roof.

The sales force has been enlarged and extraordinary preparations have been made to handle the huge traffic which is expected to storm the doors Thursday morning.

Attn: Mr. E. M. Jankowski

Dear Mr. Jankowski:

As Counsel for the Board of Directors and Stockholders of Lew Adler, Inc., we call to your attention the resolution passed yesterday and are notifying you to make immediate arrangements for the closing and liquidation of Lew Adler, Inc.

The method used to achieve liquidation is being left to your judgment. You may either sell the entire stock in bulk (including stock, fixtures and all other assets), or you may make immediate arrangement for the carrying on of a going out of business sale to the general public. The Board prefers the latter method as a mark of appreciation for the loyal patronage which this store has enjoyed for over thirty-five years.

Conditions beyond the control of you and the Directors make this action imperative.

Yours very truly,

FINE & HENDRIX

No other reason under the sun could bring you such values!

There are many reasons for legitimate "sales" ... but only when a merchant is forced to go out of business does he cut prices to a fraction of their original, to effect rapid, permanent clearance! This is such a sale!

—And With Prices Going Up—We Urge You to Buy Liberally!

This is an occasion of regret and farewell. We regret to leave Atlanta which for over 35 years has so enthusiastically supported this institution. But conditions beyond our control forces us to take this action. But we'll not make it a sad occasion. As we've lived—happily ... so will we go. We'll make it a sporting good time and give Atlanta something to remember us by. During this event loyal Lew Adler patrons will reap a harvest of values ... thousands of discriminating men who've always yearned to wear Lew Adler "wearables" will now be able to afford it. For this famous stock (every bit of it brand-new Fall merchandise) has been re-priced downward to a point actually lower than ordinary, undistinguished, commercial-type merchandise. The sale is store-wide in scope ... nothing reserved ... everything is included. For 3 days the store has been closed ... we've worked day and night ... we've sharpened our pencil time and again. And we truly and sincerely believe that this will be the biggest event of its kind in Atlanta history. Come early Thursday ... first come—best served.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 30, 1941.

Not the American Way

The sole point at issue in the strike of mine workers in the so-called "captive mines" is that of the closed, or union shop. John L. Lewis has demanded of the operators of these mines that nobody be employed who does not belong to the United Mine Workers, his CIO organization.

In other words, Lewis demands a work monopoly for his union. The worker who prefers not to belong to the union would have only one choice. The choice of violating his principles and desires, or losing his job and its attached pay envelope.

Labor leaders make specious arguments in favor of the closed shop principle. They quote the ancient "in unity there is strength," and declare a closed shop obviates disputes in any plant, is conducive to better and more efficient work and results in higher wages and better conditions for labor.

Even granting these arguments are sound, compulsory membership in the union is not the proper, not the American way, to achieve any purpose.

This country was founded upon faith in individual freedom and that is still the ideal for which it stands. There is no individual freedom for any man who is compelled to become a member of any organization, who must pay dues and render allegiance to union leaders, whether he approves their actions or not.

It is fatuous to say a man can remain outside the union if he wishes, when the penalty for such independence is loss of his job. There is no stronger compulsion imaginable than such a situation, which involves the very bread his children eat, the very roof that shelters them.

It may be for the betterment of conditions of life for all workers to join a union. But the road to such conditions is not the road of force, in America. It is the road of education, of peaceful persuasion, of example. If the unions can show, in orderly, peaceful manner, that union unanimity is the better way, in any industry, let them do so and then depend upon the common sense of the workers to see and to realize it.

John Lewis has, it is evident, allowed his arrogance and hunger for power to carry him too far, at last. He has called down upon his head and upon his union organization the condemnation of an overwhelming majority of the American people. Action will, undoubtedly, be taken to keep the mines in operation, to break the strike which he has called and which he has thrice refused to end, despite repeated pleas from President Roosevelt. Either the President himself, the congress or an outraged people will quickly take action which will end Lewis' defiance.

There are, undoubtedly, some industries in which management has been, and is, at fault in disputes with labor. There are industries in which wages and conditions of labor are still not fair. And the American public condemns alike either labor or management which causes strikes or lockouts in industries vital to the defense program.

There are, however, proper channels for mediation of all disputes. Not one channel, but many. And there can be no excuse for either party to such a dispute which refuses to accept such mediation, or abide by the findings, and thus forces a stoppage of work.

The one thing the nation, as a whole, demands in this period of emergency is that there shall be no stoppage of work in any defense industry, for any reason.

Lewis made his initial error in calling a strike in the essential mining industry for a reason with which the majority of free Americans have little, if any, sympathy.

He made his second mistake when he arrogantly defied the wishes of President Roosevelt.

For those errors Lewis will most certainly pay. Regardless of his own exaggerated opinion of his importance and strength, neither he nor any other man can successfully defy the United States through its President, the commander-in-chief. Especially in a time of emergency that demands, first of all, national unity and national devotion to one cause, the defense of the nation and the destruction of the vicious forces which menace it.

Last words: "If you had it all to do over again, Duce, is there anything you would do differently?"

The Public Be Damned!

The whole issue of radio time for isolationists happily is being brought into the open by a flat demand of the America First Committee for a nation-wide hookup at a time of its own choosing. The demand is presented to the Federal Communications Commission in connection with speeches being made in New York tonight by Senator Wheeler, the Montana demagogue; Charles Augustus Lindbergh, of mechanical heart fame, and John Cudahy, the honest, if naive, former ambassador to Belgium.

It first should be made plain that the America Firsters were offered radio time—on a 62-station network from 10:30 o'clock to 11 o'clock—for Senator Wheeler. The time did not suit the committee, and was rejected.

There is a very definite and serious question whether Lindbergh, whose home address is given as a Nazi-occupied island off the French coast, should be permitted on the air at all. He has been airing anti-Semitic views in his speeches and certain it is that the people of the United States have a just complaint if he is permitted to use the free radio facilities of the country to stir up racial strife—to sing Hitler's hymns of hate.

Cudahy has presented his views in detail. It is questionable whether his public stature is sufficient to justify use of radio time.

The committee also charges the radio networks are interventionist and are not giving isolationists an opportunity to express their views. Any radio listener will immediately recognize the absurdity of these charges.

Another consideration is that of the public. The country over, Thursday is generally recognized as a "good" radio night, and the weight of the programs presented attests the fact that the listening public expects entertainment on that night. Yet the America First Committee wishes to impose its speakers on the public during this period. The wishes and rights of the public are of no consequence, to it.

The America First Committee brought up the issue. It should be settled for good and all.

So critical is the public unrest in Italy, the Duce has gone back to kissing babies. From his low horse, this is no trouble.

Sobriety Essential

A man on duty, whether he be office worker, store clerk, shop mechanic or public servant, cannot do his job as he should if he is under the influence of intoxicating beverages. This is axiomatic.

It is more important than ever when the duty to be performed is of a public nature. The public servant must, at all times, remain strictly sober.

This is especially true of those men upon whom the public safety depends, policemen, firemen, lifeguards, etc. Thus the warning issued by the Atlanta Board of Firemasters, that severe penalties await any fireman who, in the future, is brought before that board on charges of intoxication, cannot be too strongly commended.

The fire department is presumed to be composed of men at all times ready to take risks, to forget their own safety, in order to rescue persons who may be in danger because of fire. The work of a fireman, whether it be inspecting homes and business buildings, driving through crowded streets on a speeding fire truck or handling hose on extension ladder or safety net below a blazing edifice, demands the utmost in physical perfection and co-ordination of nerves and of muscles. Such physical perfection and such co-ordination cannot exist when alcohol is in the system.

There is a proper place for a social drink. But that place is only when the drinker is not at work, nor will be at work until after any alcoholic effects have passed away.

The fireman, subject to call at any time, should be excessively careful that, whenever that call shall come, he shall be in the finest possible condition to answer it.

A patent is granted on a bathing suit which may be put on or taken off while one wears his street clothes. We were afraid the wartime knitters would come up with something like this.

From a travel article we learn that there are four telephone exchanges in Borneo. Where there are wild men, of course, there must be wrong numbers.

HURRYING HELP TO RUSSIA

(From The Moultrie Observer.)

"What are we going to do about it? It is the cry of the impatient. The fight in Europe is so exciting, the demand for more aid to our new ally so great and there is so much desire to wind it all up like a World Series, that many are unable to restrain their feelings. It is just as well that the nervous people and the excitable ones should calm themselves and wait for the slow-moving procession. It all has to be worked out with blueprints and formulas. It takes more time to prepare for a world war and win a world war than it does to play a game of billiards. Russia is getting a little help from America and from Britain, and this will increase. It will never be a tidal wave. If Russia wins, she will do most of the job with her own resources. A lot of things we would like to give them that we will never be able to get to them in time. We can give them a little comfort and sympathy and we will send them a great deal, first and last, but we cannot send them enough to lick Hitler's armies and his allies.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

LEWIS GONE TOO FAR WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The feeling is all but unanimous in the United Mine Workers (CIO), has finally stuck his neck out too far. Unless he finds some way to make a graceful retreat, there is little doubt now that the President is prepared to crack down on him in a manner designed to show once and for all the administration's determination to brook no interference with the national defense program.

Congress is in a mood to pass any new legislation on the strike situation the President may request. Mr. Roosevelt is in a mood to exercise whatever authority is required to deal with the circumstances. Here are the ingredients of the type of action a large section of the country has been clamoring for. There is nothing in the present outlook to indicate that the country will be disappointed.

The course of events will be determined by a study the President is now making of the legislative situation. It may be that government legal heads will find that he already has sufficient authority to act. If not, there is every promise of a bill being rushed through congress to meet the needs of the hour.

PUBLIC AROUSED In the meantime, Mr. Lewis will have time to ponder the hot spot he has chosen to occupy. If he refuses to accede to the now thrice delivered demand of the President that the strike of some 53,000 "captive" coal miners be called off pending the outcome of negotiations over purely organizational disputes, then he stands the very excellent chance of having heaped on his head all of the vituperation and censure which an aroused public has come to feel toward obstructionist labor leaders.

Incidentally, proper steps would be taken by the government after reopening the mines, vital to continued operation of the defense-laden steel mills.

Mr. Roosevelt has been frequently criticized in the past for failure to use a stronger hand in dealing with defense strikes, although he clearly showed the limits to which he is prepared to go when he ordered the Army to take over one of the aircraft plants on the west coast. The same tendency to criticism has been apparent in his handling of the Lewis situation. Many members of congress thought he should have acted immediately after the former CIO chief's first defiance of the presidential demand for calling off the strike.

POLITICAL INGRATE But a closer appraisal of the situation does not seem to support the criticism. To have moved after the first defiance would have thrown Mr. Roosevelt open to the charge of acting in personal anger against a personal enemy and a political ingrate. Only Mr. Lewis is both of these things. There is little reason to believe the President regards him as anything less than an enemy, and the facts speak for themselves on the score of political ingratitude. After gaining practically every labor concession imaginable under the first two Roosevelt administrations, Lewis turned on the chief executive and threw the whole weight of his support to Wendell L. Willkie in the 1940 presidential campaign.

Good temper and good taste, therefore, dictated that the President not act hastily in cracking down on the defiant labor leader—a foe both of Mr. Roosevelt personally and the administration's foreign policy.

ENOUGH ROPE TO HANG If it is not improper to impute to Lewis the motive to the enough rope to Lewis to let him hang himself. By serving demands on him three times to obey the orders of his government in a time of national emergency, the President seems to have done just that. The Lewis neck is now stuck out so far that it is difficult to see how it can be drawn back without making a full retreat.

The last time he let his head stick out was when he was a labor leader. As it is, he has not yet recovered from the blundering error he made last year in backing the wrong presidential horse—a mistake that cost him the position he held as official head of the CIO. Having pledged himself to resign as CIO chief if Mr. Roosevelt was elected, there was nothing for him to do but step aside when the election went contrary to his guess.

In a sense, it may be unfortunate for organized labor that the whole issue of defense strikes should come to a head under the prodding of John L. Lewis. No leader in the trade union field is more genuinely despised or as little trusted. He has a record of ruthlessness built up over the years that has left him with many enemies in congress, although some profess an outward friendliness, maintained perhaps out of fear of his political power.

Once these forces of resentment are turned loose against him, there is danger of the whole labor movement suffering a loss of some of the important gains it has achieved under the liberal program of the New Deal.

His continued defiance of the President may afford Mr. Lewis an opportunity to find out just what congress thinks of him.

Corroborative Evidence.

When President Roosevelt told, in his Navy Day address, of the secret plans, of which he has a copy, of the Nazis to do away with all present forms of religion in the world and substitute therefor a Nazi form of worship—with Hitler as a sort of god, with the swastika and the naked sword as symbols to replace the cross—many of the listeners were inexpressibly shocked.

Not that they doubted his word. Not that they hadn't been prepared, by other reports from Germany, for some such horror as this. But it was so sacrilegious, so startling, that it could not but be shocking.

There is, however, plenty of corroborative evidence. Take, for instance, a recent report out of occupied Norway, by way of Sweden.

Bishops of the Norwegian church have been told, with German sanction, they must align themselves with the Nazi party under the leadership of Quisling, traitor whose name has become a part of the language, to denote a betrayer of his own people.

It is made clear, says the report, that the Norwegian State church, as well as all other religious groups in this unhappy country, are expected to place party allegiance above religion, that the Norwegian "fuehrer," Quisling, deserves recognition as a sort of supernatural being verging on the divine. (See the resemblance to the German plan for the entire world.)

It is reassuring to read that, though fully aware of the possible consequences for themselves—concentration camps or worse—Norwegian pastors still refuse to take orders from high officials in the Quisling government. As late as September 22, all Norwegian pastors were ordered to discuss "the English crime" in the sinking of two Norwegian coast-wise ships. So far as is known, not a single pastor obeyed that order.

Utter Inhumanity. Germany has taken from Norway thousands of tons of food-stuffs. And Norway, before the war, did not produce enough food for her own people.

Germany, moreover, has forbidden the export to Norway of anything save strictly military supplies.

Germany has taken tens of thousands of blankets from the homes of Norway, to use for the German troops in Russia. When some of the hapless Norwegians ventured to protest that lack of food and blankets would result in much suffering and death, this winter, they were met by this retort by Josef Terboven, Nazi commissioner to Norway: "It is a matter of indifference to Germany if some thousands or perhaps tens of thousands of Norwegian men, women and children starve and freeze to death during this war."

Can humanity conceive of more vicious cruelty, of more outrageous atrocity, than such an attitude toward helpless human beings?

And, furthermore, can those well-meaning but misguided Americans who would send food and clothing supplies to the occupied lands of Europe, place one atom of trust in German officialdom which would express so heartless a view on human death by starvation and by cold?

More About Norway.

Seemingly to have gotten onto the subject of Norway this morning, might as well complete the column in Norwegian manner.

Here is another interesting item of information. Some, not many it is believed, Norwegian women have become pregnant after association with German soldiers of the army of occupation.

Scandinavian authorities have acknowledged the obligation in such cases and have made what they style as a "most generous" offer to these women.

Here's German "generosity."

Such a woman may receive free care and maintenance for one month before and one month after the birth. She must, however, agree to give the child to German authorities to be cared for permanently by them. She must also agree to move to Germany and accept work there.

Incidentally, speaking of "accepting work." Ten thousands Norwegian workmen of all trades have been moved, compulsorily, to work in mines, fisheries and light metal industries. The moves were made without regard to the workers' skills or family situations. And wages, working hours, etc., are arbitrarily fixed by the German.

This is what American workers, now striking, may expect when their interference with American war and defense programs enables Hitler to gain world control. What is it, save chattel slavery?

Real Issue Obscured

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The patriotic uproar over the Lewis strike in the so-called captive mines of the steel companies has completely obscured the real issue, which has nothing to do with national defense and existed even before Hitler received the office from Joseph Stalin to start the war. President Roosevelt's position in the fight is that of an evasive opportunist who is patrioteering at the expense of a fundamental principle.

The fact is that John L. Lewis is a dictator over a great mass of workers, so empowered by the laws and policy of the New Deal which flout the rights of the individual worker and the masses of workers. Under those laws and that policy Lewis has been given a power that no man or group of private individuals should be allowed to possess. As to whether any agency of the government should be allowed to have such power, save, perhaps in times of the most dangerous military emergency, another argument may be waged, but that question is not before the country at the moment.

Private Ruler In the present case Lewis is not a public official and his United Mine Workers is not a government agency. He is a private citizen who rules despotically a private association which has enjoyed a liberal political subsidy from the government under the administration of the Wagner act, the more recent decisions of the supreme court and the policy of the Labor Department and the Department of Justice toward unions.

Unions are supposed to be voluntary associations and even Frances Perkins and Mrs. Roosevelt, within the last year, have made reluctant admissions that such associations, or unions, should be conducted on the voluntary, or open shop, basis. Lewis is trying to compel men to join his union who prefer not to join and to compel the government to compel the employers to compel these men to accept membership and pay dues, or taxes, to a private taxing authority which is a political power with ambitions to become a political party and which does not even pretend to consult the members on the disbursement of their money.

Not Lewis' Money It isn't Lewis' money and he has no moral or political right to use it for political purposes, but President Roosevelt, himself, was a party to a violation of the workers' rights and of morals when he permitted Lewis to contribute, whether as a gift or as a loan, $500,000 out of the Mine Workers' treasury to one of his presidential campaign funds. The President surely knows enough about the practical realities of the mine workers to have known at that time that the men were not consulted and he certainly must have been aware that if even one miner in the entire organization, perhaps a Better publican, objected to this use of his own minute fraction of that $500,000 the deal was tainted.

Even if there had been no war, and thus no national emergency, the Lewis rule of the mine workers still would have been wrong and the national government would have been guilty, and was guilty, of a wrong in permitting Lewis to operate his union as he does under the laws and policies which are mockingly referred to as "labor's gains."

The war emergency does not alter the basic facts and principles of the case, but it is being used to conceal them from the public mind.

Lewis is not the only professional unioner and politician of the kind. He is one of the most powerful of the kind. His power has been enhanced under this government, but he is probably the boldest outside the ranks of the Communists who, openly, and fortunately, now find a motive to help arm the country against Moscow's enemy.

Fault of President Practically all of the big boss union-bosses enjoy, politically, the same powers that Lewis is now employing against the national security in the interests of his own political ambition and it is the fault of President Roosevelt, first, and of the subordinate New Dealers having to do with union affairs, mis-called "labor" relations, that sound remedial laws have not been passed which would have guaranteed the worker's right not to unionize. When this right is established by law, and several such laws have been proposed and stopped by the administration, there will be no strikes either in war industries or in the legitimate works of peaceful commerce for the purpose of compelling them to submit to the will of the ruthless unioner.

There is no question of the administration's fault, even guilt, in creating the present situation, for Senator Bob Wagner, the stooge who guided the labor act to adoption, sought openly against amendments which would have protected the worker equally from coercion by either the union or the employer.

Until the law is amended to trim the powers of the political union, this wrong will exist and this danger will threaten not only the military preparations of the nation but the freedoms for which it is proposed that Americans fight Hitler wherever he can be met in action.

reopened tonight, but Mrs. Brittain is not strong enough to superintend the work, and her physician and friends have persuaded her to wait until Monday evening. It will begin again then."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

ONCE AGAIN COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—

Man and boy, now, I've been coming to Columbus for quite a span of years. This visit is one of the best. It is the first annual meeting of the editors of Associated Press newspapers of both Alabama and Georgia.

Looking as proud as a hen with an extra special brood of chickens was W. F. Caldwell, the veteran southern Associated Press chief who not only had two states in convention but had also an Associated Press member photographic contest. He holds the genuine affection of every newspaper man in the south.

Proudly and efficiently acting as host were the Ledger-Inquirer newspapers on which Nelson M. Shipp and Cliff Tucker are editors. They make one proud to be a newspaperman because of their fearlessness and honest presentation of comments on the news.

Newspapers today are more conscious than ever before of the necessity of presenting the news honestly, without fear or favor. That is part of what we are about to go to war about. It would be an unwise newspaper today which failed to reveal and denounce falsehood and which ignored corruption and malfeasance on the part of public officials. It is a favorite trick of the corrupt when exposed or opposed to shout that the newspapers are persecuting and lying about them.

The public learned in the Huey Long case in Louisiana and in others that the newspapers, after all, had been telling them the truth.

The American press makes human mistakes. But it is the freest press in the world and the best safeguard the people have. Nelson Shipp, Cliff Tucker and their associates here in Columbus are true to the tradition.

A CONSERVATIVE CITY

Columbus itself is a conservative city. It was not always so. Once it was a frontier city with the boats coming up the river from the sea. Once the United States Marines had to march here to help save the city from the Indians. Once the gamblers and the frontier toughs were about to take it over. The state troops cleaned them out and they fled over the river, where some of their descendants still carry on.

Out of that grew a city which was to produce perhaps the soundest business basis in the south. Columbus became, and remains, a conservative city. It was far enough away from the war fronts in the War Between the States to miss most of the fighting. It became one of the manufacturing centers for the Confederacy, producing food and equipment.

There was an iron works here and out of it came the Columbus Iron Works, which has built gunboats for the Navy. It made guns for the Confederacy. It made the first ice machinery ever made in the world. It still is a great company. There came mills and manufacturing plants. It produced 23 millionaires in half a century.

Today its basic businessmen, with the money rolling in from increased business in the mills and in the downtown stores, calmly are doing something few businessmen, if any, are doing. They are calmly salting away a reserve fund, sure in their knowledge that one of these days a slump will come. Columbus businessmen are wise in experience.

Here, too, was written the famous poem, "Little Giffen of Tennessee," by one of Columbus' doctors of the War Between the States. Here, too, lived the famous "Blind Tom," famed Negro musician. Just last week a piano was purchased in his name by the people of Columbus and placed in the Negro slum clearance project community center.

Here, one night, the course of southern and American history might have been changed. John Wilkes Booth was playing in a Shakespearean play and wounded himself in the hip when a pistol held in his hand was accidentally fired. For a while his life was in danger. He lived to kill Lincoln.

It was from here that a manufacturing pharmacist, Dr. John Pemberton, went to Atlanta with an idea in his mind about a soft drink, which was later to be named Coca-Cola.

From here came some of the men who were to help build Atlanta. The story could run on and on.

NEWSPAPER VISITORS

The visiting editors were routed cut early this morning, about 5:30 o'clock. This was all right for the afternoon newspapermen, all of whom have the blood of milk wagon deliverers in their veins and therefore do not mind rising at unholly hours. It was difficult for the morning newspapermen.

The early start was necessary to reach Fort Benning and a full program there. The Army took over the editors with something like a smile of satisfaction.

That story must be told later, or in other columns. It was great to be in Columbus on the greatest state Associated Press member convention yet held.

The Most Ardent of Dog-Lovers

Dudley Glass

Here is an outburst from a reader and paid-up subscriber whose identity is withheld for reasons which will occur to those who peruse it. If anyone is interested—and bold enough—to organize a Married Men's Bill of Rights Club I'll give it plenty of publicity—if he will swear not to reveal my affiliation:

"My brother just phoned to ask if I wasn't your fellow traveler, who was making sure he would be able to start the next day, with a brand-new pair of shoe strings. I told him I had on alibi, as I had bought two new pair week before last."

"I must be a sentimental soul. Your article on shoe strings brought back memories of days gone when I wore garters. What a comfort garters were! You could kick them off at night and slip into them quickly in the morning and be on your way. We old men who have been frosted by time often long for the comforts we knew in our youth, our red flannels are gone; and our woolen socks are rarely ever seen. I mean the heavy home knitted socks, the kind we could unravel and make baseballs out of. Celluloid collars have departed; how I miss cuff buttons and collar buttons!"

"While I am writing, Mr. Glass, I want to suggest that you have an advice column for men who are in matrimonial subjection, men who are becoming set in their wives' ways. The women have mentors to whom they can fly when love goes awry; those who are not satisfied with their drawings at the matrimonial altar and want to be realigned."

"Why can't you establish a waiting hall for men who went to the altar and are now wearing a halter; men who, when they demand their rights, usually get their funeral rites or their court rites and who are condemned to pay alimony?"

"Mr. Glass, now is the time for you to come to the aid of your sex who are gradually becoming insects."

"There are many men whose hearts pant for a chance to wear their own pants, once again."

"Yours for liberty."

RIENZL

Future Bori?

I had intended writing a bit of high praise of the voice of Miss Eleanor Steber, young soprano of the Metropolitan opera, whom I met and heard a few evenings ago as a guest of a circle of musicians and music lovers. But Ralph McGill, who was equally impressed, beat me to it in his Tuesday column and leave me out on a limb.

Like Mr. McGill, I think Miss Steber is going places. She is young, more than good looking, charming. And can she sing! If I'm a judge—and I've heard 'em all, I've seen 'em start, rise—and fall! Some of 'em flopped mighty quick. Some of them kept on going—and climbing.

What surprised me was Miss Steber's range. Not range of voice, from mezzo-soprano to coloratura. But range of types of music. She has sung—and I am sure sung well—operatic roles classed as lyric, dramatic and coloratura—the last, if you follow songsters—meaning the trills and runs and staccato phrases of which Galli-Curci in her prime was the exemplar. "Fireworks," the musicians of the orchestra call them. One reason she was here was that she was a pupil, in Boston, of Buckingham Simson, who has been doing quite well in Atlanta training voices and conducting choral organizations. So she stopped over to pay him a visit.

Well, here I gabble on—though I started out saying Ralph had beaten me to it. Anyway, I hope that when the Met gives its four performances in Atlanta next spring—and I don't know what the opera will be except that Marvin MacDonald has announced "The Barber of Seville" for his number, on his concert series—that Eleanor Steber will have a leading role.

Society in Rhyme

Far be it from me—because I ought to know better than to butt into the women's department—to make suggestions to Sally Forth. But Ernest Camp, of the Walton Tribune at Monroe, has sprung something different in social gossip. Here's a sample:

Miss Lillian Knight is gracious and bright. . . . Miss Elizabeth Deal is cordial and leal. . . . Pretty Frances Stark looks at life as a lark. . . . Mrs. Edna Dorr is charm's legator. . . . Of Eloise Byrd only nice things are heard—svelt, lovely and wise, she's good for the eyes. . . . Mrs. Nina Lockhart is comely and smart. . . . Mrs. Lillian Dial puts lots in a smile. . . . Mrs. James O. Daws finds friends without flaws. . . . Mrs. William Sloan has oomph of her own. . . . Cousin Dorothy (Coot) Mac will always attract. . . . Miss Amelia Nickels only rhymes with pickles, but every one knows she's as sweet as a rose. . . . Mrs. John R. Bell, scintillating and swell. . . . Mrs. Gladys (John) Stowers finds time to strew flowers. . . . Miss Willie Mae Moon thinks friends are a boon. . . . Miss Cedelia House would make a good spouse. . . . Miss Julia Harris wants a fit in gay Paris. . . . Mrs. Lizzie O.K. makes a friend every day. . . . Mrs. Theodore Lee is as nice as can be. . . . Mrs. Florence Boatright, always friendly, forthright. . . . Mrs. Henry J. Stokes admiration evokes. . . . Mrs. Harry J. Horn sees the rose, not the thorn. Go to it, Sally! I'll lend you my rhyming dictionary if I can find it.

100 British Cadets Expected at Albany

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 29.—The first contingent of British cadets for Turner field, an advanced flying school, is expected to arrive here Sunday and will number 100. Some of the number will be coming to Albany for their second stay, having received their primary training at Darr Aero Tech, where some 300 United Kingdom boys are to be found. The group expected Sunday will come from Cochran Field, Macon, where they received their basic training. When they finish the 10-week course here they will be ready for RAF commissions.

With the coming of this contingent of RAF fledglings, the rumor is being revived locally that the entire facilities of Turner field and other flying fields in this section will be turned over to the program of training British cadets. That has happened at Darr Aero Tech here, where nothing but British boys are being instructed. The instructors at Darr are civilian, but the program is under army supervision.

J. L. Wadlow Named to Atlanta Division Executive Post.

W. H. Eaton Jr., Atlanta division manager of Shell Oil Company, has been named general sales manager of the firm with offices in New York, L. T. Kittinger, vice president in charge of marketing, announced yesterday.

J. L. Wadlow, manager of the Indiana division, will succeed Eaton here, Kittinger said. Wadlow is now stationed in Indianapolis. Other appointments announced by Kittinger were: J. M. Parks as assistant division manager in Atlanta, replacing J. C. Munro, who resigned to accept the Shell jobber franchise in Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss.; M. H. Nabors, now in charge of the Atlanta division lubricants department, as assistant manager of the company's lube oil department in New York.

Red Prisoners Treated Too Kindly, Finns Claim

HELSINKI, Finland, Oct. 29.—(P)—Army authorities tonight issued an order branding "the affectionate treatment of war prisoners a crime against the troops at the front," and threatened to deprive over-generous Finnish civilian employers of the further service of the captive Russian laborers. They charged the prisoners were being given illicit privileges, more food than regulations permitted, and other comforts "at a time when the citizens of our own country have to restrict their daily bread."

HORRIFIED BY PICTURE OF GLASSES OF BEER

Editor, Constitution: When I opened The Constitution this morning, my horrified eyes fell upon that miserable spectacle of five British soldiers with their beer-flying cadets "lost" in Atlanta Sunday night. Surely, indeed, they were lost.

I read on about a friendly detective who found them. Friendly to whom, may I ask, but the devil himself? If this is a sample of our aid to Britain, we are only helping them to fail, as we ourselves shall surely do, if we continue to feed them on this slop of the devil himself. Shame on you who are responsible for this from page horror, and shame on the detective who led them to the trough. But the greater shame is upon the voters of this nation, who lay down their jobs as Christian citizens, fathers, mothers, leaders of the people and ministers of the gospel, and share on the Christ. Every day relatives of our boys in the Army, Navy and Air, talk with me about the beer being permitted sale right at the door of the camps, how fine young men who are learning to drink, who never tasted intoxicating liquor before. Do you think this curse will escape you? God says that it will not. Go to His Word and study what He said about "stumbling blocks" and see yourselves as He sees you. Your fight against politics in the state might well be a fight against this most damnable force existing in our nation today. If you have sold out to the devil and his liquor traffic, have the decency to keep it off at least the front page of your paper. It is revolting to even try to read the papers and magazines today when this evil thing is being positively smeared all over every page of every issue.

What has taken place in your thinking? There was a time when you would have scorned such a disgraceful front page. Might it not be well to consider your stand and influence, and how you are using it for the very devil himself? A mother, whose heart is touched, for boys and girls and men who are decent, and who wants to remain so.

CITES EXPOSE OF EVILS ON CONNECTICUT FARMS

Editor, Constitution: An article from The American Photo Engraver, October, 1941, issue published in St. Louis, entitled "Tobacco Road," not as bad as evils exposed on Connecticut farms, describing deplorable conditions, brought to my mind a recent editorial in The Atlanta Constitution on the speech made by Dr. Malcolm Boyd Dana, president of Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., at Providence, R. I., in which he charged Georgia as being infested with Fascist groups and stated that 90 per cent of an entire county suffered from tuberculosis, cancer, and pellagra, and that conditions in southern camps were so bad that he would not want a son of his placed in one of them.

When I read the article, my first impression was: "This man, if a southerner, is a traitor to southern principles and ideals, and if a northerner, he should return north and sweep around his own doorsteps." I cannot understand how these men can come down, share the benefits of the south and southern people, accept their salaries from our educational systems and disparage everything they come in contact with. Surely Dr. Dana has a good dose of the "spirit of Fascism," which he seems to know so much about in the south.

It seems that the young man "Bible," an educator of good parentage from the north, who took his own life and tried to "tie" up ex-Governor Rivers had been fed on the wrong kind of propaganda. From an article in the paper Mr. Bible's mother asserted: "He was told of political rackets that existed here and that must have worried him" and so on. The northern people should start with conditions north and not prejudice the northern people by misrepresenting facts about the south.

This is a time when our country should be cemented together for national defense, and our southern writers and newspapermen should take a hand in trying to "put down" or "cast out" the agitators and antagonists within our midst.

MADNESS ONLY BASIS OF GERMAN BRUTALITY

Editor, Constitution: Noting Mr. Quillen's request for protests against Nazi murder brutality, I am reminded of a quotation: "Thoughts, unexpressed, may sometime fall back dead. But God, Himself, can't kill them after they are said." God is life, and His followers promote life. Since the Nazi regime seem determined to crush all but themselves, we have no trouble placing them in the proper category.

We find in the Scriptures also "Resist the devil," so the attitude of "none of my business" and "I

A Three Days' Cough is Your Danger Signal

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permits rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. Not so many years ago, in a market that was strictly the buyer's, a lot of people read advertising for "price." Ads talked about "drastic reductions" and "new low prices" and "sacrifice sales." People were interested in saving money, and merchants knew that they had to meet public demand if they hoped to stay in business.

There was a widespread effort to market merchandise at the lowest possible retail price, because many people believed that the item with the lowest price tag on it would be the item that would sell.

One merchant of my acquaintance knew that nobody buys cheap or shoddy merchandise from choice, and he couldn't see that there was any necessity for it. He didn't want to lower the quality standards which had made his store successful, but he had to either do that or convince his customers that they could afford to continue buying good things.

His solution to the problem was to undertake an extensive advertising campaign in which he explained that "low cost" and not "low price" determines whether or not any merchandise is a bargain.

This was reasoning that everybody could understand, and the advertiser's customers, some of whom had been drifting toward bargain huts, came back to him. Sometimes we are apt to be stampeded by "price appeal," but price alone should never be enough to make us buy. Let's always remember that value and not price determines the status of a bargain.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"ACTION. AND MORE ACTION."

I listened to every word of the Presidents' great Navy Day speech with gratitude and enthusiasm. I don't see how he could have made it stronger. The strongest word in his strong address was the phrase "which we are told was thrown in promptly." Yes, from every coal mine. And, judging by the applause, the people in the immediate audience agreed absolutely with what he said; and I believe that the nation as a whole concurred in that applause.

By the way, did you hear the President singing at the close of his speech? A group of us who listened to the speech, in the midst of a game of checkers, were convinced that the voice that was heard clear and strong above all the other voices was that of the President. I liked that. He could make a front row position on any glee club.

Back to that phrase, "Yes, from every coal mine." I have heard on every side this question, since Monday night, "What will the President do about Lewis?" And it is the question of the hour. Before this column appears Thursday, it will have to be answered. I am hoping, and I firmly believe, that the President will link with this insolent attitude of Lewis his words back yonder when he declared a national emergency "What is called for now is action and more action, courage and more courage."

The only way to deal with John L. Lewis is to frankly and quickly and boldly deal with him as a hindrance in our national defense program. If it means drafting every man in every coal mine, with Lewis facing imprisonment, that should be done, and without delay. If he is allowed to go on talking back to the President, the morale of the country is seriously endangered. Discipline in every branch of the national defense will be weakened. If one man can tell the President of the United States to jump in the Potomac, any man in the nation can tell him to jump in the Potomac.

I don't believe for a moment that the President will let Lewis get away with any such defiance any more than I believe he will let any other man get away with it, be he a labor racketeer or an industrial tycoon. The country will not stand for it.

Lewis has had his way for a long time, but it is a long road that doesn't have a bend in the right direction, and I believe the hour has struck when the Communistic influences in the CIO and the subversive influences all along the line in this country are so clearly defined and understood that something will have to be done about it. The President has talked for a long time about "action and more action, courage and more courage," and I believe he is now ready to do something about this frightening menace of folks like Lewis. He must act or accept the consequences. I believe he will act.

Love Will Come Again

Gay Promises To Tell Curt De Witt That Hill Must Take Care of April

By Alma Sioux Scarberry.

SYNOPSIS. En route home from Reno where she has just secured a divorce, April Hillier, executive, April has divorced her husband, Kent Hillier, former, amateur golfer champion, because he has decided to settle down to a steady job to support his wife and child. Hillier is jealous over April's association with Curt De Witt, a wealthy and notorious divorcee, Druggilla Bayne. During April's absence in Reno, Cherry, her 15-year-old sister, has left college, broken her engagement with Pat Hastings and come to live with April and Gay Lorraine. April's life-long friend and companion and associate in the Hillier-Lorraine School of Music and Dancing, Curt and Gay arranged to get April a radio audition. She became a radio star. Curt is in love with April and proposes marriage. April refuses him but after knowing him for some months she changes her mind. Cherry goes to a party where she meets a young girl who attempts suicide. Cherry saves the girl after a struggle. The police come and Cherry is arrested. April's radio fame spells headlines for Cherry and when she is released she is ordered to bed. April arrives and comforts Cherry and Curt gets him a job with his steel company. He also gets Cherry a job. April is seriously injured in an automobile accident. She is in the hospital with Curt and Gay and Cherry waiting anxiously in the reception room when Hill arrives. Curt orders that everything possible must be done for April without expenditure of cost. Cherry berates Hill for his treatment of April but Gay soothes her with him. Curt and Hill meet in the hospital. April requires a blood transfusion. Curt is not the right type but Hill is and he gives the transfusion. April's life hangs in the balance. Dr. Halling, a famous Boston specialist, has been summoned.

INSTALLMENT XXIX. "I'll tell him," Gay nodded, feeling suddenly ill with dread of talking it over with Curt. "Mr. De Witt should be back any moment now."

Hill got up and took his hat from the table beside him.

"Then I'll leave for the time being, so that you will be clear. I'd tell him myself, only I might lose my temper."

"You must stop feeling that way," Gay warned. "Or even if you are jealous of Curt you must hide it and be decent when you meet him. Always bear in mind that he didn't have anything to do with the breaking up of your marriage. And remember, too, that you announced your engagement to Dr. Bayne the night April came back from Reno."

Hill exploded: "I wouldn't have done it if I hadn't been at La Guardia field and seen her coming out of the air liner with De Witt! I had to pay her back somehow for leaving me flat and riding away like a prima donna in his limousine with him. She high-tailed me as though I were dirt under her feet."

"You were tight," Gay reminded him. "She just stood on her dignity and put you in your place."

"Oh, I know that," Hill shrugged. "But I saw red at the time. I went to Dr. Bayne's apartment to a party and before I knew what had happened our engagement was announced. I was kidding, and she took me seriously."

"Really?" Gay's eyes flickered with amusement. "Well you certainly played a joke on yourself, didn't you?"

Hill realized suddenly he hadn't revealed too much that he hadn't meant to reveal. He said abruptly:

"That remains to be seen. Well, I'm going to have some dinner and do a little more thinking. I've got to figure this thing all out. I'll be at my apartment if you need me. And remember, not one word to April—ever, about all this."

Gay nodded: "I promise."

When Hill had disappeared down the hall Gay herself got up to pace the floor. Never in her life had she ever dreaded any ordeal so much as telling Curt De Witt that she thought it advisable he withdraw to the sidelines and let Kent Hillier assume the responsibility of taking care of April. But she knew it was useless to defy the new Hill.

Curt arrived a few minutes later. He said sinking into a chair wearily:

"Fortunately, I met Hillier in the elevator. They need him for another transfusion. April is sinking. Dr. Halling is afraid."

Finally word came from Dr. Malcolm that after the second blood transfusion, April had revived.

Hill did not go back to his apartment that night, but upon the insistence of the doctor was put to bed in the hospital. It was apparent he was cracking under the strain of giving so much of his blood to save April's life, and worry over whether it was to be all in vain.

Gay could not bring herself to talk with Curt about Hill's outburst until after dinner, when they were sitting dejectedly over the demi tasse in the restaurant across the street from Channing hospital.

Curt seemed so depressed that Gay almost decided she would wait till next day, but she knew if she slept over it the ordeal would be only the more difficult.

Then, too, there might be an unpleasant encounter with Hill, which she dreaded almost worse than anything else.

Finally Gay put down her demi tasse cup and said hesitatingly:

"Curt there's something I must tell you. I don't know how to begin."

"What is it, Gay?" Curt looked up tiredly. "Don't be afraid to tell me anything it is necessary for me to know. I think by this time I ought to be able to take it. Don't you?"

His attempt to smile was a very poor one. Gay's eyes filled.

"You've been through so much, Curt, and you've been so wonderful. I don't like to add to your worries. It's about Kent Hillier."

Curt stiffened. "What about Hillier?"

"I had a long talk with him this afternoon," Gay sighed. He seems to have awakened quite suddenly to a belated sense of responsibility toward his family. He demands that you withdraw from the scene and let him take things over. Financially, I mean."

Curt said amazed: "Has he the money? I thought he was broke."

"He has been," Gay said. "He spent all his inheritance within two or three years after he and April were married. But he sold Hillcrest, the family home in Virginia, this afternoon and took the $15,000 and deposited it at the hospital with Dr. Malcolm."

Curt crushed out his cigarette: "So that's why Malcolm wants to see me early in the morning. I thought he looked confused when he asked me to come to his office at 9:30."

Curt ran his hand over his face nervously. "Fifteen thousand dollars won't take care of the bill if April has to stay in the hospital for months. With specialists, a staff of day and night nurses, oxygen tents, all the things she must have if she is ever to be normal again. Oh, what the devil is the man thinking about?"

Gay smiled wryly. "He even threatens to go to work. Then she sobbed. 'The poor darling means it too. I feel sorry for him. He's almost crazy. I'm sure he loves April just as much as ever. It took this awful accident to wake him up."

Curt said shortly: "It's high time something did. But it's unfortunate he had to discover he has obligations right now. Just in time to interfere with what we are trying to do for April."

Gay sighed: "It certainly is the wrong time. But I don't know what we can do about it."

Curt lit another cigarette, his face grim. Then he said heatedly:

"I won't have it! I have the right to take care of her. She is going to be my wife, and looking after her is my job. He had the chance once and he made a mess of things and broke her heart."

Gay said unhappily: "I know how you feel, Curt. I'm so sorry to have to tell you this."

Curt's eyes hardened: "Well he's not going to get away with coming around after all this time and making a grand gesture! I'll punch him in the nose if he doesn't get the hell out and stop his heroics. You can tell him so. Or I'll tell him myself."

Gay was surprised at Curt's vehemence. He was usually so cool headed. She reminded him:

"Don't forget there is Kenny. Curt. Kenny is a bond between April and Hill that no divorce can change. I'm sure Hill loved his son a great deal more than we realized. He told me the reason he has stayed away from the house is because he couldn't face the realization that he had lost his son. It's perfectly natural that April's helplessness would rouse the paternal instinct in Hill."

Curt said shortly: "Which I doubt."

"He's human, all right. He just hasn't grown up. He's still a boy. I want you to promise something, Curt."

"What is it, Gay?"

Gay said: "I think Hill should have a chance to help April. If he can prove he is capable of swinging this thing financially, I think it would be the best thing that could ever happen to him. Money has always grown on trees for him. I don't believe he has the faintest notion how much of a job he will have on his hands taking care of these hospital bills. Promise me you'll step aside and let him find out."

When Curt looked grimly hesitant, Gay urged:

"Please do it. I'll keep you informed of every move. Everything that happens. I won't let him make a change in doctors, or interfere in any way with April's care. Just let Hill think he is doing it all."

"I don't know what to say," Curt ran his hand through his hair nervously. "But since you put it that way, I guess there isn't much I can do but let Hillier step in and play the big shot."

"Don't worry about it," Gay was relieved. "Just leave it to me. It really won't make a particle of difference. It's just an experiment. A chance to show Hill what responsibility means."

"All right," Curt nodded. With a deep sigh of resignation. "Tell him I'm stepping out of the picture. I hope it's what April would want us to do."

Baering Down on the News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer.

Now that Oriental affairs are getting as complicated as Horace Greeley's handwriting it might be well to gander back 20 years when I wrote:

"Under the 5-5-3 pact Japan will scrap the cruiser Missyu but will bill the battleships Hitsu and Sinkyu."

There's a pleasant little prescription I wrote in 1921 and it has matured like a pumpkin in a frost.

I admit I wrote it as a gag, but it was kidding in earnest.

I didn't understand the 5-5-3 pact then, but I can see it was a slow note on trouble.

Well, live and learn, but you'd better learn first so you will live.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The best aspects of the day operate previous to 12:45 p. m. favoring dealings with the opposite sex and for out-of-the-ordinary affairs. Aggressiveness should be curbed during the entire day, but those things which require energy and enthusiasm may meet splendid and quick results.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The entire day does not especially favor new beginnings. Handle electrical equipment and motor vehicles especially carefully today. The day does not especially favor signing papers, and use caution in dealings with relatives.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The entire day and evening does not especially favor new or important undertakings. An excellent day to stick to routine and finish those things already started.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—An excellent day to put your best foot forward. The day favors consultations, financial interests, educational matters, experiments and sociability.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—Before 11:41 a. m. you may be filled with nervous energy, a desire to do things quickly, which can go into much aggression. Keep a careful check on your impulses. After 11:41 a. m. favors general business activities and seeking favors.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—An excellent day for dealing with the public, literary matters and contacting superiors. A good day to ask for a raise. The best aspects of the day operate before 3:30 p. m.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—Before 9:33 a. m. and 8:14 p. m. are the better parts of the day. After 9:33 a. m. conferences of agreements can be made with great rapidity.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The combined influences today supply inspiration that is favorable for financial interests, making personal decisions as well as general business activities. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3 p. m.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The entire day and evening does not especially favor new or important undertakings. An excellent day to stick to routine and finish those things already started.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—The hour previous to 1:48 p. m. favor attention to customary correspondence, routine matters and appointments and mental interests. However, avoid confusion and deception. After 1:48 p. m. appointments and contacts with others, as the influence at this time are such as allow for an ease in dealing with people, and for successful diplomatic relations.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—The entire day is apt to be a busy, active time when you may feel unsettled, have difficulty in making yourself properly understood, or you may have an unfavorable standpoint. This will be a day to be careful of contracts and everything of a written nature and guard against hastiness or impulsiveness.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—During the entire day and until 7:30 p. m. favors attending to old matters and affairs under consideration. After 7:30 p. m. favors writing, communications and literary matters.

So large a cast is used for the NBC-Blue Network "March of Time" program that all actors and actresses are seated in rows of chairs, each numbered, directly in the center of the studio, and with-in good view of the production director. With a chart, similar to that used by a football announcer, the producer knows the position of each person at all times to simplify the task of throwing cues. An assistant stands by the cast, and warns each actor in advance.

Production of Jack Benny's forthcoming picture, "The Widow Wouldn't Weep," has been set back until January. The script requires rewriting.

Entertain Radioites

Baby (Spooks) Snooks, known without the burnt cork as Fanny Brice, will move Halloween ahead a day when she steadies a shaking, heaving finger long enough to break a pumpkin over daddy's head in another daddy-daughter maelstrom of mirth on the Coffee Time program tonight at 8 p. m. over WSB.

Meanwhile, "Honest" Frank Morgan having been foiled at fencing, will erupt before emcee

John Conte and the Coffee Time cast with a thumb print biography of Footpad Morgan, his famous great-uncle. For Morgan affirms that he has degenerated from a long sluice of sleuths.

KING GETS SWORD—Knights in gleaming armor and ladies in royal, sweeping robes portrayed in a realistic manner the age of chivalry Tuesday night at Bessie Tift College at Forsyth, when King Arthur's court was depicted by members of the senior class. After being crowned King, Sara Hall, of Lavonia, left, is being presented a sword by Lady of the Lake, Jean Hendricks, of Woodland, right, while Merlin, Linda Horton, of Guyton, witnesses the event. This is an annual event at the college.

Bessie Tift Class Re-enacts Court Scene

King Arthur's Round Table Depicted by Seniors at College.

By MRS. FRED R. STOKES, Constitution Correspondent.
FORSYTH, Ga., Oct. 29.—King Arthur's Court, in all its magnificence, was vividly depicted Tuesday evening when the senior class of Bessie Tift College, following an annual custom of some 25 years or more, again re-enacted the colorful ceremony of the Round Table. Knights in gleaming armor and ladies in royal sweeping robes, portrayed in realistic manner the age of chivalry.

The pageant, which is one of the most important events of the school year, was directed by Miss Eugenia Stone, faculty member. It is enacted each year during "senior week" and on the evening before senior investiture. The "inner court" of knights and ladies is composed of members of the senior class, with the heralds and bodyguard from the "sister" class of sophomores.

Those who formed King Arthur's Court last night were: King Arthur, Sara Hall, of Lavonia; Queen Guinevere, Norma Boyette, of Morris Station; Merlin, Linda Horton, of Guyton; Lady of the Lake, Jean Hendricks, of Woodland; Dubin, Marcelle Wright, of Canton; Three Graces, Faith, Hope and Love, Bess Edge, of Doerun; Evelyn Mitchell, of Thomaston; Marie Moses, of Egypt; Launcelot, Catherine Newton, of Atlanta; Sir Galahad, Mary Frances Blount, of Vidalia; Class Mascot, Pat Smith, of Forsyth.

Knights and Ladies, Dixie Nicholson, Dorothy Harlow, Deborah Hendrix, Geraldine Reeves, Vera Campbell, Mary Joines, Helen Johnson, Louise Ward, Virginia Moore, Kathleen Deck, Louise Davidson, Avis Wynne, Christine Harkness, Edna Dickson, Mable Alford, Sarah Freeman, Lila Rice, Coleen Jones.

Jester, Caroline Hood; Herald, Betty Joe Smith, Lucy Little, Esther Martinez, Mary Beth Cline, Cona Lobach, Evelyn Weatherly, Agnes Carder, Sara May Calloway; Body Guards, Martha Walder, Frances Horne, Mary Frances Carter, Evelyn Frankum, Mary Jane Williams, Alice Norway, Miriam Owens, and Claire Williams.

Colorful Scene.
The ceremony took place in the college dining hall, one end of which held the immense Round Table, around which were seated the Knights and Ladies. The walls behind the throne of King Arthur were emblazoned with shields and other insignia of heraldry, and the Holy Grail above his throne came aglow with a radiant light during the ceremony. Guests for the occasion came from all parts of the state.

On Wednesday morning following the pageantry of the evening before, the investiture service took place, and at the hands of Miss Flora Walraven, dean of women, the members of the class received their arms and with them their full senior privileges. Ushers for this occasion were Mary Wilma Evans, Carolyn Smith, Jean Ingram, Polly Ann Mays, Margaret White and Edith McIntyre.

Jury in Blount Case Is Locked Up Over Night

Body Will Resume Its Deliberations Here This Morning.

The federal jury deliberating the fate of George C. Blount, former assistant chief highway engineer for Georgia, was locked up in a downtown hotel shortly after 9 o'clock last night and will resume deliberations this morning.

The jury received the Blount case at 1:58 o'clock Saturday afternoon after listening to testimony the greater part of nine days and hearing the three-hour long arguments of attorneys for the government and the defense.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood completed his charge and sent the jury to lunch. Deliberations started at 3 o'clock.

Defense attorneys Hal Lindsay and William Schley Howard described Blount as a "faithful, honest, hard-working" public official, whose commissions from the American Road & Builders Builders' Oil sold in Georgia were paid to him over a period of years and on an equitable basis for sales he made prior to his connection with the state.

United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, who was preceded in arguments for the government by Assistant United States Attorney Aster Merritt, brought heated objections from Lindsay by asking the jury to notice in the records already introduced that new customers appeared and Blount's commissions increased after he went to work for the State Highway Department.

Carroll Farmers Urged To Get Winter Peas

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
CARROLLTON, Ga., Oct. 29.—Carroll county farmers, as well as those in other counties of the state, who need Austrian winter peas or phosphate should make request for the materials immediately, according to Alton D. Estes, secretary-treasurer of the Carroll County Agricultural Conservation Association, who declares that peas must be planted before November 15.

Application should be made at county AAA offices. Closing date for ground limestone to be used in the 1941 program will be November 1, he said.

New 9,600-Ton Vessel Turned Over to Britain

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The new $2,277,000 American freighter China Mail, constructed at Chester, Pa., for the American Mail Lines' Pacific trade, has been turned over to England under the lend-lease act, Marine circles said today.

The 9,600-ton, 16-knot ship, launched last May 24, completed her trial runs October 13 and will make her maiden voyage in war service. She has been renamed the Empire Peregrine.

Gamma Phi Delta Sorority Plan Dance on Nov. 8

The Gamma Phi Delta sorority holds its first script dance of the season at the Biltmore hotel on November 8, "Sadie Hawkins Day," from 9 till 12 o'clock. The pledges will arrive at this dance unescorted, dressed as "Daisy Mae." And will be initiated as the dance goes on, from 9 o'clock until intermission.

Officers and escorts include Misses Bettie Freeman, president, with Mac Stewart; Dorothy Robinson, vice president, with Lloyd Harris; Minnie Will Storey, secretary, with Cy Coulon; Mary Wilkins, treasurer, with Ed Ryckley; Betty Sill, scribe, with Elwood McLaughlin, and Peggy Gregg, sergeant-at-arms, with Warren Baker.

The pledges are Misses Dorothy Boulinau, June LaHatte, Tommie Megee, Mary Ann McKissick, Betty McMullen, Ruth Taylor, Mary Martha Williams. Members are Misses Sarah Banks, Lucy Barnett, Mary Katherine Beers, Amy Lou Bishop, Nell Goodman, Jane Harris, Mary Frances Hayes, Mary Frances Hill, Betty Jordan, Jewel Lanford, Coley Kellam, Jan Meredith, Josephine Owen, Margaret Register, Martha Roper, Nelzeta Sullivan, Betty Thomason. The chaperons of the dance are Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Freeman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. Hodges Sill and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Storey.

Miss Lillian Jakes Weds Mr. Queen.

Miss Lillian Rose Jakes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Lee Jakes, became the bride of William Franklin Queen at a ceremony solemnized Wednesday at 9 o'clock in the morning at Kirkwood Baptist church, Rev. Robert S. Cooper officiated.

Bill Cook was best man, and groomsmen were E. Lamonte Jakes, brother of the bride, and Andy Cox. Alvin Queen and Dan Queen, brothers of the groom, were ushers.

Miss Phyllis Jakes was her sister's maid of honor, wearing rose brocade satin. Her flowers were rose dahlias arranged in a bouquet.

Mrs. W. D. Jordan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a costume identical with that of the maid of honor, and her flowers were similar to hers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Haslett and Mrs. J. D. Nelson, who wore aqua brocade and carried rose dahlias.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her lovely wedding dress was fashioned of white brocade satin with a graceful train. Her lace-trimmed veil fell from a tier of seed pearls, and her bouquet was of peach gladioli and tuberoses. A pearl heart necklace suspended on a gold chain formed her only ornament.

The bride's parents were hosts at a reception following the ceremony at their home on Boulevard drive, after which the bridal couple left for Norfolk, Va., where the groom is stationed on the U. S. S. Lassen.

Mrs. McCall Speaks On Founders' Day.

Mrs. Howard McCall spoke on "Founders' Day" at a recent meeting of Atlanta A. R. held at Craigie House. "The Surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown" was the theme of the talk given by Mrs. Robert Perkins. Mrs. Reuben Garland spoke of "Navy Day." Mrs. Henry J. Baker, the chairman, presented Mrs. Fred C. Reed Jr. in piano numbers.

Mrs. John W. Rice, the regent, was in the chair and Miss Byrd Blankenship, who has worked untiringly at Hospital 48 with Miss Willie Fort Williams, spoke of the ward work sponsored by Atlanta chapter. Mrs. James A. Erwin, with her co-chairman, Miss Eloise Pittman, told of the Red Cross work and reported $11 given at the meeting. Mrs. Rice announced the appointment of Mrs. William A. Bugg as president of the Children of the Revolution.

Pictures of the organizing regents, Mrs. Walter B. Duncan and Miss June McKinley, have been placed on the walls of the chapter house.

Mrs. J. C. Robards presented a Benjamin Hawkins plate dated 1806, which came through her husband's family. Benjamin Hawkins was sent to Macon in 1785 to make a treaty with the Indians.

Mrs. J. O. Wynn presented a silk flag made in Japan and presented to Mrs. Wynn at a dinner given in 1933 in Chicago at the World's Fair.

Punch was served by Mesdames W. B. Beckham, Ben Wylie, J. Stanley Moore and members of the hospitality committee.

Fidelis Class Installs Its New Officers.

The banquet of the Fidelis class of West End Baptist church took place recently in the Berean classroom. Officers were installed. Mrs. Frank Wells talked, and imitations were given by Harry Hutchins. Mrs. J. T. Edwards and her committee served dinner.

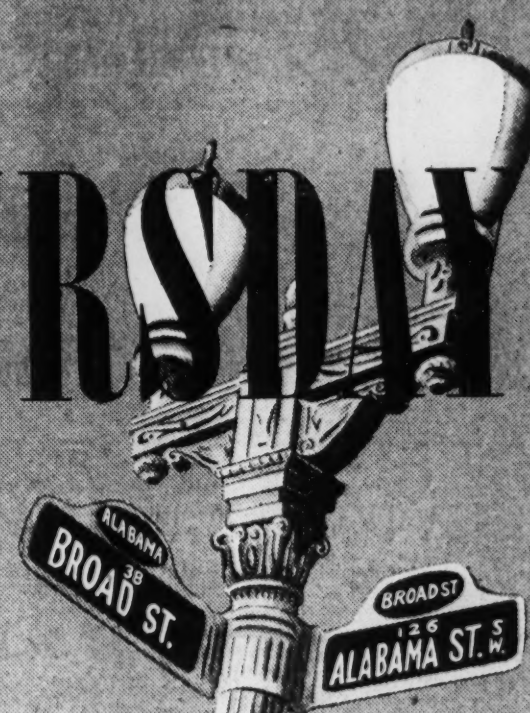

Installed were: Teacher, Mrs. Norman Poole; assistant teacher, Miss Margaret Callaway; president, Mrs. E. E. Nolan; first vice president, Miss Kate Alsbrook; second vice president, Mrs. H. M. Furr; third vice president, Mrs. H. C. Bagwell; fourth vice president, Mrs. F. A. Wall; fifth vice president, Mrs. A. Edwards; associate fifth president, Mrs. O. B. Hellzapoppin Theme Planned For Junior League Cabaret

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • "SLAM!!!" BANG!!!" Boom!!!" (???) Screams! Shots!!—More screams!! Oscar!!—Mrs. Jones!!—Gorilla!!—Breakaway beds!!—In other words—HELLZAPOPPIN and POPPIN JOHNSON tiptoeing over the Mason line into the land of pecans, cotton, Coca-Cola and GONE WITH THE WIND.

"Due to a lot of copyright restrictions and involvements, we are rather reluctant to permit the use of the title HELLZAPOPPIN, our little brain child. But we have so many fine friends in Atlanta who have been most generous to us when we played there and also when they visited New York, that we feel we would be a couple of Swedish meenies if we didn't say OKAY... go ahead and christen your 'den of iniquity' HELLZAPOPPIN CAFE."

And that, my pets, is a portion of the letter received by Ann Alston (Mrs. Jack) Glenn from Broadway's famous team, Olsen and Johnson, granting the Atlanta Junior League a much appreciated favor!

All of which means that the league has been able to forward super-colossal plans for the "HELLZAPOPPIN CABARET" to be held at the Piedmont Driving Club on December 5, following the opening performance of the Silver Jubilee Follies. The Follies, you know, are being presented as a part of the Atlanta League's twenty-fifth anniversary celebration, and are creating the keenest enthusiasm.

You can let your imagination run wild where the cabaret is concerned, for the title is the only one that could adequately describe the fun, in store for those in attendance. A frolic in every sense of the word, the entertainment will carry out a similar theme to that which has made "HELLZAPOPPIN" an unusual and outstanding Broadway hit and road show.

Hilarity will be the keynote, so if you are an old sororist, or have an unbending ramrod in lieu of a backbone, you are given fair warning to stay away! All sorts of spectacular ideas are being developed in the way of a floor show, decorations, etc., to create a real night club atmosphere. Davidson's is lending a helping hand on the decorations, so you know they're bound to be delightfully out of the ordinary. An important factor, of course, is that the cover charge includes a midnight supper.

Only a limited number can be accommodated in the club's ballroom, so call Joyce Smith (Mrs. Jack) Boykin, Hemlock 0892, IMMEDIATELY. Otherwise you might be disappointed. And, remember, covers at each of the tables will be limited to 10 persons.

Ann Glenn, the recipient of the Olsen and Johnson letter, is chairman of the cabaret, and is being assisted by Louise Calhoun (Mrs. Roby) Robinson. And when it comes to getting splendid results, these two make as good a team as the Broadway one, who wrote in closing:

"Every good wish for the success of your cafe, and we hope that some day we may come down during your Dogwood Festival... Cordially and merrily, HELLZAPOPPIN Olsen and Johnson."

If you would like a good-looking young naval aviator as a guest for dinner on Sunday, don't forget to call Mrs. Wilmer Dutton, Hemlock 1467, chairman of hospitality for the Young Matrons' Circle of Tallulah Falls School, which sponsors the boys at the Naval Air Base at Camp Gordon.

• • • MRS. WALTER GEORGE will entertain at a house party next weekend at her home in Vienna, her guests to include her classmates at Southern Female College in LaGrange, which, in case you don't know, is the second oldest chartered college for women, and is now known as LaGrange College. The house party will begin Saturday morning and will continue through Sunday.

For the past ten years, it seems, the members of Mrs. George's class have managed to get together annually for a reunion, sometimes in each other's homes, and at others in some hotel. You see, the group is extremely congenial, and the members like to keep in touch with each other. They meet frequently at Indian Springs, and once they were Mrs. George's guests there, this being the first meeting in her home.

The class members, most of whom will be Mrs. George's guests, include Mrs. D. F. McClatchey, of Atlanta; Mrs. Lee Hand, of Seneca; Mrs. J. C. Owen, of Griffin; Mrs. Ethel Dallis Hill, of LaGrange; Mrs. H. D. Chapman and Mrs. E. J. Jacobs, of Macon; Mrs. Will Morgan, of Cochran; Mrs. J. O. King, of Hampton; Mrs. R. E. L. Jones, of Whitesburg; Mrs. Louise Connolly, of Brunswick, and Mrs. C. E. Baker, of Standing Rock, Ala.

• • • THE EXQUISITE ivory sole original model to be worn by Karen Norris when she makes her bow at the Halloween ball Friday evening, was loaned her for the occasion by her roommate at Sweetbriar College, Betty Weems, of Houston, Texas. Betty, you see, wore the gown last winter in Houston, and she wanted Karen to wear it at her presentation to Atlanta society. Betty planned to fly down for the ball, but unfortunately at the last minute her plans were changed, because on Saturday, Founders' Day will be observed at Sweetbriar and she can't "get leave."

Karen, however, who obtained permission to come, arrives this evening to remain until Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Jack Norris, at their home on Peachtree Battle avenue.

• • • NOT LONG AGO a group of youngsters, whose parents are members of the Tuxedo Hunt Club, announced that they planned to organize themselves into a junior club of their own. Their idea was not just idle prattle, either, for at the Halloween party given them by their elders on Saturday they elected officers and made definite plans for the future.

Winifred Shackelford heads the group as their first president.

MRS. C. RICHTER SMITH JR.

One of the most beautiful brides of the season, Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Peggy Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jones, of Canton, her recent marriage to Mr. Smith having been brilliantly solemnized at the First Baptist church of Canton. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are residing at the St. Andrews apartments in Atlanta. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Richter Smith, of Concord.

Garden Club News of Interest

The Virginia Avenue Garden Club met recently at Monroe Nurseries, after which a tour of the gardens was made and refreshments served by Mrs. Henry Bauer, hostess for the month.

A recent dish garden display was held by the Adair Park Garden Club. Mrs. Mary Harkins won first prize, with a striking desert scene. Mrs. W. J. Agnew won second prize, with an all-green farm scene.

Atkins Park Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. W. H. James on St. Charles Place. Miss Erin Hayes, Mrs. E. B. Kern, Mr. Dr. Louise Pratt and Mrs. Joel Pasley were co-hostesses.

dent and, undoubtedly, she will make them a splendid one. The other officers are Ann Arkwright, vice president; Marilyn McClung, secretary, and Sam McConnell, treasurer.

They will hold their meetings the first Saturday of every month in the form of wicker roasts, riding parties, with indoor games providing the entertainment on rainy Saturdays. You will recall that the group recently planned and executed a horse show in a most professional manner. A considerable sum was realized from the event, and was used to purchase a ping-pong table for the clubhouse. This first venture was so successful and so much fun that the juniors are now making plans for another to be held in the very near future.

• • • CAROLYN HOWELL'S executive ability, which made her an outstanding leader among graduates at Washington Seminary last spring, has continued at college, according to latest information received from the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Howell. Carolyn, who was "The Spirit of the Seminary," the highest award accorded a student, is now a student at Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans. When she pledged Chi Omega, she was elected president of the freshman club of the sorority pledges, another distinct honor for the young Atlanta.

In addition to her school activities, Carolyn is having a grand time in New Orleans. Last week she was among the belles enjoying the river party given by the D. K. E. fraternity of Tulane. The affair was a boat trip 12 miles up the Mississippi, with dancing and supper on board.

• • • HAVE YOU HEARD that Mary Sue Martin, of Tifton, a Chi Omega pledge at the University of Georgia, has been elected the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" at Georgia and her picture will be in Life magazine this week?

Compton-Roberts Rites Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Mae Compton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Compton, to Avon C. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Roberts, of Chieley, was solemnized Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the groom's aunts, Misses Nina and Myri Thompson, in Decatur. Rev. S. M. Miller and Randolph Cochran officiated at the ring ceremony.

White and yellow chrysanthemums and candelabra holding lighted white tapers formed the decorations for the improvised altar.

Jack Roberts, only brother of the groom, was best man, and Mrs. E. E. Wallace was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. The bride wore a smart model of defense blue, featuring tunic lines with accessories of wine. Her costume was accented by a shoulder spray of tuberoses.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The linen-covered table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. During the evening the bridal couple left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Atlanta.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. John J. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wallace, of Logansville; Mrs. Brady Smith, of Roberta, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roberts, of LaGrange.

Miss Printz Weds Joseph T. Brown.

The marriage of Miss Frances Claire Printz and Joseph T. Brown Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Brown, took place recently at The Temple on Peachtree street, with Dr. David Marx officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father, David Printz, and wore a becoming gray wool suit trimmed with mink. Her flowers were orchids and she wore black accessories.

A breakfast was given at the Standard Club after the ceremony. J. H. Kautrowitz, of Dayton, Ohio, uncle of the bride, attended the marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are spending their honeymoon in New York city, and upon their return to Atlanta they will reside at 878 Briarcliff road.

Miss Stevens Marries Edwin Carlton Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. David Nixon Stevens announce the marriage of their daughter, Carolyn, to Edwin Carlton Jr. The ceremony took place on October 5 at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Lloyd in Covington. Rev. Lloyd performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

The bride is the daughter of S. G. Gurley and bridesmaids were Mary Elizabeth Stevens, only sister of the bride, and Frances Carlton, sister of the groom. Charles Crews was Mr. Carlton's best man. Other attendants were S. G. Gurley and Herbert Elder.

The bride is a descendant of prominent Georgia and Kentucky families. Her mother was before her marriage Elizabeth Meredith, daughter of Matilda Butler Meredith and Joseph Peyton Meredith, of Kentucky. Mrs. Carlton is the granddaughter of Mrs. Julia Stevens, of Ashburn, Ga.

She graduated from Commercial High school last June and was an officer of the Alpha chapter of Tau Delta Phi sorority.

Invited are Misses Marguerite Wooten, Evelyn Davies, Annette Baker, Hazel Benton, Martha Miller, Mary Taylor, Jane Lewis, Shirley Ann Smith, Jean Beutell, Ruth Jackson, Peggy Willmon, Frances Butt, Martha Jane Mack, Bobbie Powell, Audrey Weeks, and Claire Bennett, June Lanier, Carolyn, of North Carolina.

His sisters are Miss Frances Carlton, Mrs. Edwin Upton, of Moultrie, and Mrs. Harry Thomas, of Ocala, Fla. Mr. Carlton graduated from Moultrie High school, he enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps, receiving his A. M. degree at Champaign field in Illinois, and is stationed at Gunter Field, Montgomery, Ala.

For Mrs. Reeves. Mrs. J. M. Reeves Jr. is being feted at a number of parties following her recent marriage. Mrs. Reeves is the former Miss Bernice Harrison. Miss Mary Ellen Summers and Miss Evelyn Thresher entertained at a shower at the home of Miss Summers on Maryland avenue and Mrs. D. H. Starr and Mrs. I. A. Erwin entertained at a buffet supper at the home of Mrs. Starr on Virginia avenue.

Miss Juliette Smith will entertain at a bridge party at her home on Rosewood drive at 8 o'clock on November 3. Miss Evelyn McCain and Mrs. Jimmy Brannon will entertain on November 15 at a luncheon.

Orr-LeBar Wedding.

Miss Sally Orr, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pressly Orr, became the bride of Francis James LeBar, son of Mr. William LeBar and the late Mr. LeBar, of Medina, N. Y. The ceremony was performed on October 7 at 8 o'clock by Father John Emmerth in the rectory of Sacred Heart church.

The bride had as her attendant her sister, Mrs. R. H. McLarty, and Mr. LeBar chose as his best man his brother, John LeBar, of Toledo, Ohio.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a street model of defense blue with matching hat and accessories of brown alligator worn with Kolinsky furs and purple orchids.

Mr. LeBar is connected with the Pennsylvania railroad in Philadelphia where he and his bride will reside following their wedding trip to points in the north.

TO EASE MISERY OF CHILD'S COLD RUB ON VICKS VAPORUB

Miss Dorothy Mae Compton, of Orlando, Fla., who was Miss Alidene Bruner, of Fort Myers, Fla., before her marriage on October 4. Mr. Winn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Winn, of Atlanta.

Emory Sigma Chi Break 105-Year-Old Tradition

Miss Dottie Groome, "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" for 1941, will introduce the 10 new contenders for Sigma Chi hearts on Friday evening at the Emory chapter's annual Halloween Harvest ball. The fraternity will break a 105-year-old tradition in giving the first organizational dance in an Emory University-owned building, following the approval of the board of trustees for campus dances.

The five sororities who nominate candidates announced representatives early last week, and include: Phi Pi, Misses Boudie Budd and Palmour; Holmes; Sigma Delta, Misses Lane Winslip and Betty Rayfield; Pi Pi, Misses Betty Brown and Marian Braungart; Theta Beta Chi, Misses Jean Cantwell and Roslyn Ison, and Sunev, Misses Charlotte Thomas and Betty Lou Neely.

The Emory Little auditorium will be transferred into an old-time barn with cows, hogs, goats, chickens, "possums" and other farm animals for the affair. Haystacks, cornstalks, pumpkins, apple cider and bales of hay will complete the harvest theme. During the intermission the candidates will be introduced by Miss Groome, who was chosen queen of the freshman class at Duke University this fall. Miss Merkle Becomes Bride Of Mr. McGowan on Nov. 8

Miss Marie Merkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Donohoe, whose engagement to Clement Leo McGowan Jr. was recently announced, reveals the date of their wedding as November 8. The ceremony takes place at a nuptial mass at 9:30 o'clock in the morning at Sacred Heart church, with Rev. Martin Barrett, S. M., officiating. A program of sacred music will be presented by Miss Rosina Asmus, organist, and Mrs. Ernest Trotter, soloist.

John E. McGowan, brother of the groom-elect, will be best man, and ushers will include Max Bips, Frank Burger and Joseph McGowan and Joseph Conally, cousins of Mr. McGowan.

Mr. Donohoe will give his daughter in marriage. The bride has chosen as her attendants Miss Mary Kathryn McGowan, sister of the groom-elect, as maid of honor, and Miss Harriet Coyle.

After their marriage, the young couple will reside in Newark, N. J., where Mr. McGowan is associated with the Department of Justice.

Miss Merkle was feted recently at a lingerie shower given by Miss Harriet Coyle at her home on Fourth street. The table was covered with an ivory lace cloth and beautified with a bowl of flowers. From the chandelier streamers of white crepe paper in shower effect were caught to each present.

Mrs. Emmett Robertson was hostess at a linen shower for the bride-elect at her home on Pasadena avenue. Guests included: Misses Rose Riorden, Eloise Clark, Ines Fornara, Ray Anna Ellis, Rose Mary Corniglia, Hilda Johann, Helen Fowler, Margaret Mary Weymouth, Catherine Tietz, Shirley Owens, Peggy O'Shea, Harriet Coyle, Mary Kathryn McGowan, Rita Demby, Marie Burtchell, Stella McFadden, Mary McFadden, Evelyn Robertson, Mesdames Martin Donohoe and C. L. McGowan.

A kitchen shower complimenting Miss Merkle was given by Mrs. Rene J. Martin Jr. On November 1 Miss Mary Kathryn McGowan entertains at a seated luncheon honoring the bride-to-be. Mrs. W. A. Gerick will be hostess at a luncheon at her home in Decatur feting Miss Merkle on November 4.

Miss Merkle will honor her bridesmaids at a luncheon in the Paradise room of the Henry Grady hotel on November 6. Covers will be laid for Mrs. C. L. McGowan, Mrs. Martin Donohoe, Miss Harriet Coyle and Miss Mary Kathryn McGowan. The evening of November 6 Mr. McGowan will also give a stag party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Donohoe will entertain the bride party at a buffet supper at their home in Decatur preceding the wedding rehearsal on November 7.

Elaborate Tea and Luncheon Given for Popular Debutantes

Two hundred guests assembled yesterday at the Pine Valley road residence of Mrs. Mark Pentecost and her daughter, Miss Jean Pentecost, who entertained at an elaborate tea in compliment to Misses Margaret Harmon and Keeker Newton, popular debutantes.

A Halloween motif predominated in the decorations in the dining room and in the reception rooms, a profusion of gold chrysanthemums having adorned the house.

Miss Pentecost received her guests wearing a black velvet gown topped with a pink velvet collar encircled with seed pearls. Miss Harmon chose for the occasion a sky blue silk jersey model fashioned with a tufted jacket, and Miss Newton was gowned in red, white and blue printed crepe. Miss Pentecost was attired in a gray crepe. Shoulder sprays of orchids accented their gowns.

Mrs. H. E. Newton, of Forsyth, and Mrs. Howard Harmon poured tea and coffee from handsome silver service, and assisting in entertaining were Misses Helen Randall, Margaret Winslow, Josephine Harrison, Marjorie Macon, Mesdames Paul Randall and S. E. McConnell. Miss Ann Penicost received cards at the door.

Rust, pink, and white chrysanthemums arranged in a white Lenox bowl formed the centerpiece yesterday at the luncheon given by Mrs. William Akers Jr. at the Piedmont Driving Club for Miss Virginia Dulaney, debutante. Mrs. John Oliver, mother of the hostess, and Mrs. L. Cobb Dulaney, the honor guest's mother, assisted in entertaining the guests, who numbered a few close friends of Miss Dulaney.

Among parties not previously announced for the debutantes is the small tea at which Mrs. Mason Lowance will be hostess November 17 at her home on West Wesley road for Miss Margaret Peavy.

Mrs. Bolling Jones will compliment Miss Mary Hodgson at a luncheon on December 11, the affair to be held at the home of the hostess on West Pace's Ferry road.

Misses Larue Mizell and Karen Norris will share honors at the breakfast to be given by Miss Beverly Adams and Mrs. Pat Dobbins on December 28 at the home of the latter on Dellwood drive.

For Miss Cosgrove, Mr. MacGregor

A number of parties are being given in compliment to Miss Mary Cosgrove and her fiancé, R. Bruce MacGregor Jr., whose marriage will be an important social event of November 11 at the Cathedral of Christ the King.

Mrs. Godfrey Hoch entertained yesterday in compliment to Miss Cosgrove and her fiancé. The date selected by Mrs. Joseph E. Collins Jr. for the luncheon at which she will entertain for the popular bride-to-be. The party will take place at 1 o'clock at the hostess' home on Briarcliff road. That evening the bridal couple will share honors at the party at which Miss Mary Bean will entertain at her home on Piedmont avenue.

Mrs. Arthur Connolly will be hostess at a steak fry in compliment to the engaged pair on November 9 at her home on Kingsboro road. Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. MacGregor, parents of the groom-elect, will entertain at the rehearsal party, which will be in the nature of a buffet supper preceding the rehearsal on November 10. Guests will be limited to the bridal party and members of the two families. Mrs. Charles E. Rushin will entertain the bride-to-be at a luncheon in the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel, the date to be announced.

Tau Delta Thetas Hold Rush Parties.

Tau Delta Theta Sorority held rush functions recently. A co-captain party was held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Cochran, 1292 Gordon street, S. W., with Miss Mary James, secretary of the sorority, as hostess.

Reducing Comes Easy If You Look Ahead

By Ida Jean Kain

Just by a simple flick of psychology, you can reduce without having to call too strenuously on your will power. All that is necessary is for you to appreciate how much slimming can mean in the way of having fun. When you do that, you begin to acquire a natural distaste for the extra calories or the faint streak of laziness that might prove a stumbling block.

It seems that once a woman makes up her mind what she wants, any means justifies the end. Nothing can stop her. In this particular instance, it is a more attractive personality she wants. Otherwise, she would not undertake such a disciplinary program. And once her possibilities as an attractive woman are fully realized, she would choke before taking a calorie over the 250 or 350, or 500 allotted for a particular meal. And she would make herself exercise daily.

Such logic in a nutshell fairly well sums up the views of M. E. Muniz, New York career consultant. Mr. Muniz' observations have not only given him an almost uncanny insight into the somewhat intricate workings of the feminine mind, but have convinced him that these workings can be directed to advantage.

He insists that slimming should, from the beginning, be recognized as both a psychological and physiological change.

It is his belief that the introverted woman, the one who tends to withdraw into herself and read and eat chocolates, is the one who has the greatest struggle against fat. Her decision to slim down is rooted in a longing for a more active social life.

So, from that point on, she is different. She wants to mix more with people, and to have them like her.

If you take Mr. Muniz' advice, then, the first time you go to a party after you have made up your mind to slim down, you will start getting away from yourself. When you enter the room, you will not say, "Here I am—please start approving me!" instead, you will say, "Well, hello! What goes on here!"

The "Twenty-One Day Diet," planned by Ida Jean Kain, may be repeated over and over until your weight is down to normal. Send stamped return envelope for it to Miss Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Shirtwaister Classic Has Latest Details

By Lillian Mae

Pattern 4812.

Perfect Teeth in a Drafee Is News

By Dr. William Brady

All the flubdub and inspired propaganda carried on in Yankee-land these last four decades, in the name of oral hygiene, dental hygiene, or conservation of the teeth, with acquiescence or active support of the rank and file of the dental profession and no audible protest or criticism from the rank and file of the medical profession, has proved what I have long contended it is—a lot of hokey.

The evidence on which I base this conclusion is to be found in the alarmingly defective teeth of the youth of the country today. Faulty and defective teeth head the list of causes of dereliction under the selective service act.

Indeed it was nationally newsworthy when a young man with a full complement of good sound teeth was discovered in a group of draftees somewhere in the east. The young man said he never had brushed his teeth and had always eaten what he liked, and that was all.

I doubt that any real progress in conservation of the teeth will be made until the dental profession of the country gets back into the medical profession, whence it came a hundred years ago and where it belongs and must eventually resume its proper place.

The first step in this direction was taken by Harvard this year—hereafter Harvard will require dental students to obtain the degree doctor of medicine, to be physicians in fact, before they can graduate from the school of dentistry—that is precisely as it should be, but an editorial outburst in a dental journal indicates the sullen attitude of the old timers in dentistry. Graduates of the new course at Harvard, said the dental journal, will be neither physicians nor dentists, but a breed disowned by medicine and dentistry.

A proposal is now made to supply either directly through government agencies, such as the dental service in Army, Navy, etc., or through civilian dentists at government expense, whatever dental treatment may be necessary to restore to these young men with poor teeth a degree of physical efficiency which will make them fit to serve as soldiers or at least in some useful capacity in connection with national defense. It would seem good economy to do so, not only for young men within draft age, but also for all the youth of the land.

Governmental health service authorities believe that until dental caries can be prevented, this excessive need for fillings, bridges, etc., can best be obviated by regular care by the dentist, through inspection and whatever treatment may be necessary every six months from the early years of childhood, when dental decay first appears.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Family of Fans.

We are a family of Dr. Brady fans. I have just taken off 18 pounds weight, without any discomfort or trouble, by following the instructions in your fine booklet. (Mrs. A. W. H.)

Answer—I am happy to hear it. Any reader who has some reducing to do may have a copy of the booklet "Rules for Reducing"—inclose 25 cents and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Well, It Is Stupid.

You say it is stupid to suffer from piles. I have been operated on twice and am no better. I lose considerable blood and am quite anemic. (G. W.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for pamphlet "It Is Stupid to Suffer From Piles."

Units.

What is the difference between International Units, U. S. P. Units and Gammas, in regard to vitamin potencies? (M. H.)

Answer—One gamma is a microgram, equal to 1-1000th of a milligram, which is equal to 1-1000th of a gram, which is equal to 15 grains (approximately) or say one-fourth of a teaspoonful. Approximately 333 International Units of U. S. P. Units in a milligram (1000 gammas or micrograms) of vitamin B1 (thiamin). At least that is the way things stood as we went to press. All terms and figures subject to change without rhyme or reason. You see, this is all new knowledge and we are learning more and more day by day.

Giant Hives.

Daughter aged 24 years suffers a great deal with giant hives. She thinks you suggested some new remedy for this condition, but she cannot remember what it was. (R. C.)

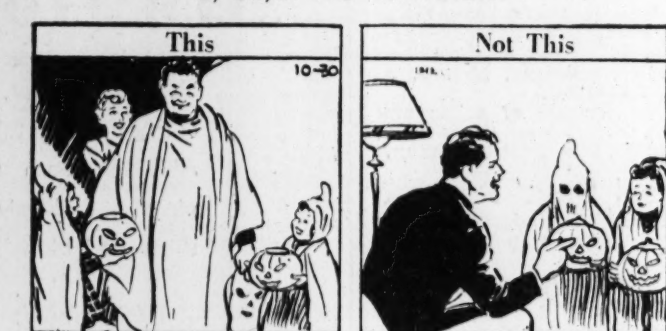

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address. Ask for pamphlet "Hives" and one on "Relief for Allergy." Twenty-five-dollar name for giant hives is angioneurotic edema.

Today's Charm Tip

A good many nice friendships are lost to persons who disregard the importance of first impressions. Better turn on all the charm and graciousness at that first meeting. You may not have a second chance.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace

"Jean: 'Daddy makes a great ghost, doesn't he?'"

Bill: "We'll have fun, won't we, Daddy? And you can hold me up when the windows are high, can't you?"

Father: "Now remember, you are not to do anything but hold your lanterns up to some of the neighbor's windows. Don't you do anything else, even if the other children do."

Planning so that children are not subjected to too-great-temptation on Halloween will be more effective than repeated reminders.

Zanuck Forks Out Eighty Thousand For Exclusive Services of Vic Mature

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.—(INS) Eighty thousand dollars is a lot of money—and that's the amount it took to buy Vic Mature's contract from Hal Roach. Vic must feel very happy when he realizes that his future to pay that amount for his exclusive services. He has returned from Louisville where he was called by his father's death, and is on the lot at 20th Century-Fox making scenes in "Song of the Island" with Betty Grable.

This is Vic's second picture with Betty and "Hot Spot" brought him many words of praise. RKO, I hear, will accept loanout deals from 20th for the two pictures he owes them. It is Darryl's intention to build the handsome Mature into stardom which shouldn't be difficult for he already has built a terrific following. Interesting that Vic's career has had such a marvelous turn for in his first picture "One Million B. C." I thought he was typed for life as a "Tarzan."

One of Rosalind Russell's wedding gifts is a five-year contract for two pictures a year at Columbia. Ros, who left M-G-M, because she said she wanted to free lance, of course will not be tied down at Columbia since her contract with them permits her to make pictures elsewhere. The deal was arranged by her bridegroom, Freddie Brisson, who is also her agent. Ros's first at Columbia will be "My Sister Eileen," the stage play for which Harry Cohn paid a record price. Gail Patrick, who was rumored as signing a contract with M-G-M to take Rosalind's place, has not signed as yet.

The much discussed "Mr. Skeffington," rumored as being made with Tallulah Bankhead, Gloria Swanson and Norma Shearer as Mrs. Skeffington, probably will never be made on the Warner lot. I heard through the grapevine that M-G-M is buying it. It should be a lot easier to cast Mrs. Skeffington on the M-G-M lot, as there are many more femme actresses there.

Few deaths in Hollywood have caused as much genuine grief as the sudden passing of Victor Schertzinger, one of the nicest, kindest men in our town. Vic was more than a director. He was a great musician and composer and his "Marquita" will live forever. The picture he made with Grace Moore, "One Night of Love," brought her a fame on the screen that she was never able to repeat. Dorothy Lamour, who probably was the last person to talk to him Saturday night when she discussed a song she was to sing in "The Fleet's In," wept like a child when she telephoned to tell me that Vic had passed away. He knew more about music than any director in Hollywood and he was able to put some of that knowledge into motion pictures.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Martha is a little girl suffering with infantile paralysis. She has a small part in the new Technicolor Community Chest short "Dr. Kildare's Baby" which will be shown at all the studios November 3. Carey Wilson, who wrote the story, told Mickey Rooney about the little girl who was lying stretched out in bed on one of the stages. Mickey visited Martha and made her laugh at his jokes. Lana Turner, Judy Garland and Eleanor Powell also called on her. "Just think, Mr. Wilson," she said, "How lucky I am! I meet the picture stars!" Carey turned away so she wouldn't see the tears in his eyes.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Herbert Marshalls, his reported on excellent authority, will welcome the stork in the late spring; June Collyer Erwin was summoned east by the death of her father, a well known New York attorney; Janet Gaynor, who has been a redhead for years, is now very blonde and the new color is tres becoming; Katharine Hepburn has rented Mrs. George Fitzmaurice's home in Beverly Hills and will remain there until she goes east; Gail Patrick gave a birthday party honoring Maggie Elinger, Baron Polak and Jack Edwards. An impromptu floor show was one of the events of the evening with Fibber McGee and Molly and Dennis O'Day, who sings on the Jack Benny show, as the stars; who was the unknown blonde with Roger Pryor at Slapsie Maxie's? Stirling Hayden, as we told you, planes in Wednesday morning and out again Thursday night to join the Canadian convoy headed for England.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

To be sure you're getting the most for your meat money, buy for nourishment, buy for thrift, buy for flavor. Three meats which answer all three requirements are Wilson's Certified Bacon, Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash, and MOR. Clip this column and take it shopping with you for a memory nudge.

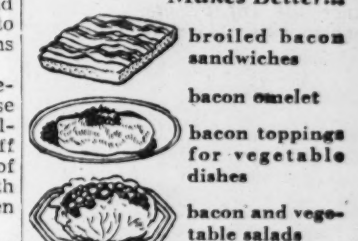

George Rector
Food Consultant
Wilson & Co.

FLAVOR AT LITTLE COST

Bacon is nutritious, healthful, easily digestible. But some bacons are more richly flavored than others. All Wilson's Certified Bacon, whether in the piece or sliced, whether in pounds or half-pound cartons, in cellophane rolls and layers or in the money-saving two-pound Family Style Pack... all Certified Bacon, I repeat, has a richer flavor because the flavor is smoked right in with fragrant hickory and hardwood.

A Bit of Better Bacon Makes Better...

IF HE LIKES BACON SLICED THICKER...

(And what man doesn't?) then get the Family Style package of Wilson's Certified Bacon. It's sliced in slightly thicker he-man slices that hold their flavor and lie flat in the pan, requiring less watching as they fry.

"MOR" THRIFT

Arrange in a buttered casserole, 3 cups cooked and seasoned lima beans, 1 cup lima bean liquor, and 1 loaf of MOR, cubed. Lay over this 3 slices of Wilson's Certified Sliced Bacon. Bake at 350° F. about 30 minutes.

HALLOWEEN DINNER

And here's another easy-to-fix thrift dish. Serves four.

Chill one can of Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash. Open at both ends. Push out the hash roll and slice into six rounds.

Arrange the slices on a baking platter with 4 cooked parsnips cut in halves, 6 tomato slices (sprinkled with grated cheese and salt). Brush with melted butter. Bake till brown in a 365° F. oven.

You'll appreciate the superior, rich, meaty flavor of Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash.

Rector Recommends that you ask your dealer to show you the many thrifty meat cuts he is now featuring. See you next week. G. R.

MY DAY Rain Dampens Girl Scout Ceremony

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—Yesterday afternoon the rain came down and made the ceremony at the Girl Scouts' "Little House" a trifle damp for everyone. We went out to the garden and watched the girls cooking under real difficulty, but the girls were very good. I took a taste of each thing and then passed my plate along to Father Moore, who had left the NYA advisory committee meeting with me to see the girls at work.

We visited all the different branches of work, saw the first aid class in action, girls knitting, making pottery, cooking and, finally, returned to the living room, where a group of colored Girl Scouts were singing charmingly. After listening to one or two songs, and admiring their chart for health and morale, Mrs. C. Leslie Glenn, representing the National Girl Scouts, presented Father Moore with the Girl Scout medal.

We have given the medal to four men who have been of great assistance to the organization, and one of their officers has been designated to present it. In this case, since Father Moore was here yesterday, Mrs. Glenn, who had been chosen to present him with this medal, pinned it on his clerical coat.

He was really touched and came back with me to the White House, wearing it proudly. Even though I gave him my plate of food, because he had worked through his luncheon hour and had had no food, I found that he was quite ready to have a cup of tea with us on our return. By the time we came back to the NYA advisory committee meeting, they were nearly finished with their afternoon session and adjourned until the evening.

We had a very pleasant small group of people gathered together for dinner. They were shown a ten-minute film of the taking of a poll, which was interesting in showing the variety of people who are sampled in trying to arrive at an accurate estimate of public opinion.

Then, with the President, I went over to the Navy Day dinner to hear him deliver his speech. A little while back, he had shown me both of the documents which he mentioned in it. I must say that the map was truly impressive, the boundaries so efficiently laid out and the names of the countries all changed to German.

Neighbors' Morals Are Their Own Affair

By Dixie George

Dear Dixie: This problem is not one of my own, but it has me worried. I am a married woman 30 years old. I have a number of young friends who like to confide in me about their love affairs and problems.

I always try to talk with them and advise them in the way I would want some woman to talk to my little daughter. Married men are my subject of worry. It is surprising to know the number of married men right in my community who are constantly annoying girls ranging from 16 to 19 years of age.

Four girls have come to me worried about these men. The same married man has handed these same four girls the same line. I gave him an opportunity to tell me his "line" and then I preached him a sermon. But it did not stop him. I know the girls have stopped having anything to do with him. I have thought of exposing those men to their families, but it would only make trouble. I am worried about these girls whom I love so much. The men can make them believe anything. These men are supposed to be upright, decent men, but they insist upon encouraging these girls to do the things they shouldn't do, and it has me worried. What can I do and what is your opinion?

WORRIED.

If you have the confidence of these girls, I think you should explain the mistake they are making in encouraging married men. If I were you, I would make no move in regard to these men and their attentions toward the girls. Such situations always create their own disastrous ends. If you must do something, tell the girls that they are making a mistake and let it go at that. I do not think you set them a very good example by allowing these men to hand you a line.

FAMILY SHOULD KNOW OF SECRET MARRIAGE

Dear Dixie: I have been going with Henry about a year, and we really love each other. In August, we were secretly married. The trouble now is that my father does not like him, and does not allow me to go with him. I always have to slip out. Can he have my marriage annulled? We are planning to go to California on our wedding trip. Should I tell my parents beforehand or just walk out? Henry is 20 and I am 19.

UNHAPPY AND BLUE.

I think I would tell my parents of my marriage if I were you. Unless you and the boy have lived together as man and wife, the law can provide annulment of the ceremony. If you walked out on your family I think you would live to regret it.

Tenth Anniversary Of Garden Club

The Neighborhood Garden Club met recently to celebrate its tenth anniversary at the home of Mrs. Shepard Bryan, where the club was organized on October 28, 1931. Mrs. Bryan and the late Mrs. W. D. Ellis Jr. were the founders, and there was a charter membership of 20 women, all living in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Shepard Bryan, the first president, read a delightful paper, "Ten Years of Neighborhood Garden Club History," which was of interest to every member. The progress of the club in personal, community and state garden work was given under the leadership of the following presidents: Mesdames Shepard Bryan, the late George M. Brown, John Spalding, A. D. Adair, Charles Rice and J. N. Brawner.

The new yearbooks are designed in celebration of the tenth birthday of the club, and decorated in drawings of birthday cakes with 10 lighted candles. The book also contains a beautiful tribute to the late Mrs. Hal F. Hentz.

The new president, Mrs. John E. Sanford, presided. Other officers are: Mesdames Lee Bivings, first vice president; William Warren Owens, second vice president; Austin Emerson, recording secretary; T. J. Hightower, corresponding secretary; John H. Boykin, treasurer. Committee chairmen are Mesdames Charles F. Rice, program and speaker; W. L. Funkhouser, civic planting; F. Brock, garden center; John A. Hynds, yearbook; William E. Matthews, publicity; S. B. Turman, plant exchange; John A. Hynds, hostesses; John S. Spalding, conservation; and James N. Brawner, flower show.

Miss Stixrud To Wed Rev. Alex McCutchen.

Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Stixrud, of Luebo, Belgian Congo, Africa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Stixrud, to Rev. Alex McCutchen, of Forest Park, Ga. The wedding will take place at the Second Presbyterian church in Charlotte, N. C., on October 31, at 6 o'clock p. m.

Miss Stixrud is the daughter of missionaries of the Presbyterian church, U. S., in Africa, and is a graduate of Peace College, Raleigh, N. C., and of Agnes Scott College, Decatur. She has recently been pursuing graduate study in St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. McCutchen is a native of Birmingham, Ala., and a graduate of Howard College in that city. He received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, this year, and under fellowship awarded by the seminary he is pursuing study this year toward his Master's Degree in Theology while he continues as minister of the Philadelphia Presbyterian church near Forest Park.

Invitations Recalled.

Invitations to the tea at the Atlanta Woman's Club on Sunday, honoring Mrs. Gertrude Harris, president, National Association of Women Lawyers, have been recalled on account of the death of the father of Miss Eunice Johnson, one of the hostesses.

Garden Division.

Garden division of Boulevard Park Woman's Club will meet next Tuesday at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. A. Selman, 760 Penn avenue, N. E. Mrs. John D. Evans will speak. The trophy will be awarded for fruit arrangement.

Agents Are To Discuss Farm Plan at Americus

Representatives from 19 counties will meet Thursday morning in the Sumter county courthouse to fix and release county goals or quotas for increased production of eggs, chickens, butter and eggs.

Every federal agency in the district working with and for the farmer will be represented.

Chairman H. R. McGee, of the Sumter Agricultural Defense Board, will preside. A state defense board representative is expected. The problem of making the contemplated farm-to-farm survey before Christmas will be discussed. The survey, according to the county agent, is to determine what each farm in the county can produce in larger quantities in the drive for greater food and feed crops and other food commodities.

5th District Members Give Tea at the Mansion Nov. 4

Members of the Fifth District of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will be hostesses at a tea on November 4 at 3 o'clock at the executive mansion on the Prado in Ansley Park. Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, first lady of Georgia, and Mrs. Chester Martin, fifth district president, Mesdames John F. McDougald, Z. I. Fitzpatrick, Ralph Butler, Albert Hill will form the receiving line.

A playlet entitled "And You Shall Know," written by Mrs. Alva Maxwell, and revolving around the late Mrs. Ella F. White, will be featured. Mrs. White was president of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs and died while in office. As a memorial to the deceased club leader a memorial known as the Ella F. White Endowment was formed in 1913 by Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick and such prominent women as the late Mrs. Passie Fenton Otley, the late Mrs. W. P. Pattillo, the late Mrs. H. O. Granger, the late Mrs. Hugh Willet, Mrs. C. J. Haden, the late Mrs. H. H. Tift, Mrs. J. E. Hays, Mrs. Howard McCall, the late Mrs. S. Lindsay Johnson, the late Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, Mrs. Harvie Jordan, and the late Misses Isma Dooly and Rosa Woodberry.

They formed the Ella F. White Endowment Fund, which has been modeled by Mrs. White to meet similar needs in the general federation, for a strong, steady income which enables the federation to carry out its work more effectively.

A goal of $25,000 was set, and the interest to be used from the investments of this amount. The first movement launched to raise this amount was done through editing a special edition of The Atlanta Constitution on June 4, 1913, when the sum of $3,100 was cleared.

Taking part in the playlet will be Mesdames John W. Burroughs Jr., Howard Pattillo, Thomas A. Suttles, Walter Arch, Clifford Peterson, James E. Bradley, C. C. Nichols, John F. Echols, Conway Hunter, Adele Bonham, William J. Okel, H. F. Hodges, L. L. Hoover, Louis Arotlin, Q. L. Palmer and Miss Eleanor Brumblow.

Serving tea and coffee will be district officers, including Mesdames W. L. Thomson, H. L. Perryman, Hinton Blackshear, Hinton Blackshear, John G. Lewis, W. L. McCall, Burton Bankston, Kate Green Hess, Miss Sue Methvin.

Others receiving will be the members of the Atlanta Junior Woman's Club, Mesdames E. E. Bengston, W. S. Taylor and Beverly Johnson. Clubwomen and their friends are invited to attend. Mrs. Luther Bridges is in charge of the music.

For Miss Miller And Mr. Ray.

Honoring Miss Regina Miller and Burton Ray, whose engagement was announced recently, will be a barbecue to be given by Miss Mary Grove at the country home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grove on Saturday.

Those invited include Miss Tilly Silay, Ninnon Bridges, Jane Leiding, Tommie Wells and Joe Close; George Willingham, Buster McAllister, A. Hubbard, Arthur Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parks, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gurley and Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Clark.

Double Wedding Unites Couples.

A double wedding ceremony united in marriage Miss Annie Mae Allen, daughter of W. L. Allen, of Forest Park, and Oscar Frederick Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Ellis, also of Forest Park, and Miss Lula Beddington, daughter of James Beddington, of East Point, to James H. McKown, son of Mrs. Homer McKown, of Forest Park.

The marriages were solemnized September 20 at the home of Rev. and Mrs. John Melton, of Rome, Ga., and were attended by the parents of the couples.

The brides were dressed alike in navy blue suits worn with white accessories. The grooms are first cousins.

Upon their return from Brunswick the grooms' mothers, Mesdames Homer McKown and O. F. Ellis, entertained with a buffet supper and shower at the home of Mrs. Ellis.

Honky-Tonk Party Set For Friday.

Of interest to members of the high school and college set this weekend is the "honky-tonk" party at which Misses Barbara Gedney and Sara Scott will entertain Friday evening. The affair will be held at club on Power's Ferry road. Costumes, portraying the dress of the low-class "juke-joint" will be worn by the guests.

Chaperons will be the parents of the hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Gedney and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Scott.

Miss Beatrice Burke, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Burke, who won a scholarship to Fontbonne College in St. Louis, Mo., where she is majoring in music. Miss Osburn, Mr. Chapman Wed at Cathedral Nov. 15 Interest centers today in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Jane Osburn, only daughter of Mrs. L. J. Osburn and Edward M. Chapman, whose engagement was announced several weeks ago.

The ceremony will be a quiet event taking place on November 15 at the Cathedral of Christ the King. The Rev. Father Joseph Moylan will officiate at 5 o'clock with only the immediate families and the out-of-town guests in attendance.

Miss Jean Campbell Statts, of Huntington, W. Va., will be the only attendant for her bride-elect cousin and Dan Franklin will be the best man for Mr. Chapman. The ushers will be Robert T. Jones, Jackson P. Dick, Charles Black Jr. and John Westmoreland.

Although the wedding will be a very small and quiet event, it will be preceded by a number of social affairs for the young people. Inaugurating the series will be the dinner party to be given for the couple this evening by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Black Jr., who will entertain at the Grant home on Habersham road. A limited number of the younger social contingent have been invited.

Next Tuesday Miss Osburn will be honored at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Strother Fleming and her daughter, Mrs. Strother Fleming Jr., who will be co-hostesses at the home of the former on Habersham road. Sharing honors will be Mrs. B. S. Horack, who recently came to Atlanta to reside.

Miss Constance Knowles has planned a luncheon for November 10 for Miss Osburn, the affair to take place at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Boys' High Faces Test In Strong Jordan Eleven Here Tonight

BY JACK TROY

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Statistics One of those football statistics bureaus started the whole thing by sending Uncle Bill Alexander a letter, asking for the Georgia Tech-Auburn statistics.

"Huh," the Old Man grunted, tossing the letter in the waste basket of the coaches' dressing room. "Statistics don't mean a thing. Suppose a team gets two or three touchdowns ahead in the first half. It doesn't keep running the same plays which have been gaining. The coach doesn't keep his best boys in there and the team is more or less content with holding its own rather than running up a big score."

"The team that's behind starts trying all its tricks, and because it has the ball more than its share of the time, gains a lot of ground and completes a lot of passes against an inexperienced defense."

"Statistics are good to make the losing team feel better, but otherwise they don't mean a thing."

All of which is a pretty good argument. And yet you would be surprised at the number of people who want to put the game on a statistical basis.

In other words, they want to do away with touchdowns and figure the team which gains the most ground, makes the most first downs, completes the most passes and does the best punting the winner.

"Heck," the Old Man grunted, "it would take a separate team of statisticians for each football team to figure the outcome of a game."

"Me, I'd rather have one touchdown than 100 first downs. And I'd just as soon score it on an intercepted pass as a 75-yard run."

Support The Old Man's argument was pretty well supported in a couple of recent games in our section.

Auburn made 14 first downs to Tech's nine, gained 295 yards to 217, but the final score was 28-14 in the Jackets' favor. And the Tigers were never in the ball game after the first quarter.

Georgia made 17 first downs against nine for Alabama and gained 145 yards rushing to 95. But the Bulldogs were beaten, 27-14, and didn't have a chance after the first quarter.

The same thing happened in the Tech-Vandy game. The Yellow Jackets led in first downs, 17-9, and outrushed the Commodores, 209-181. But it took a last-minute drive against substitutes for the Techs to get a touchdown.

It would be a heck of a note if Georgia, Auburn and Tech were declared winners of these games just because of the statistics.

Take-a-Chance It's about time some credit was given Ol' Take-a-Chance Charley Treadaway, ex-Georgia quarterback and now backfield coach at South Carolina.

When Sterling Dupree entered the Army, Rex Enright gave Charley a three-month trial contract to coach his backfield. Now, especially since the Gamecocks defeated Clemson, Take-a-Chance Charley seems set for a long time.

His backs have been blocking like he used to for the Red and Black. And he was one of the wildest and best blockers the Bulldogs ever had.

He got his name for his reckless signal calling, such as passes from behind his own goal line, fourth-down plunges

Georgia, Tigers Are All Square In Grid Series

Both Teams Have Won 20 Games With Five Scoreless Ties.

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 29.—The oldest and the closest football rivalry in the deep south is the one between Auburn and Georgia, traditional Southeastern Conference foes, which will be renewed at Memorial stadium in Columbus Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock (E. S. T.). Their feud was launched in 1892 and each team has won 20 blue ribbons.

Five games in the 49-year-old series ended in ties. And all five were scoreless stalemates. The no-decision affairs were fought in 1899, 1901, 1911, 1914 and 1937.

Since meeting Georgia on the gridiron in 1892 in their inaugural athletic contest, the Tigers have missed clashing annually with the Bulldogs only four times, 1893, 1897 and during the first World War years of 1917 and 1918.

Auburn's first football mentor in 1892, Dr. George Petrie, is now Auburn's graduate school dean and history department head. It is not very likely that he will view the 1941 scrap between the Tigers and Athenians, but he plans to listen to the game over the radio and he will read all about the classic in all of the leading newspapers. He's still an ardent football fan.

Only advantage held by either Auburn or Georgia in their ancient grid series belongs to the Tigers in the points scored column. By the count of 411 to 399, the Bengals are ahead in points amassed.

As their complete series count indicates, Auburn and Georgia have been pretty evenly matched in a majority of their 45 scuffles. And their inspired performances against each other have caused the game to be upset numerous times. Auburn followers are hoping and praying that Saturday will be one of those days.

A 44-0 win by Auburn in 1900 is the most one-sided conquest registered in the long list of games. The Bulldogs' most impressive triumphs were in 1925, 34-0; 1927, 33-3; 1929, 24-0, and 1930, 39-7. The 1929 scrap was fought in Athens and all of the other scuffles since 1916 have been played in Columbus, which has been host to 22 Tiger-Bulldog bouts.

Under Coach Jack Meagher, the Tigers have chalked up four victories and lost twice to Georgia. Georgia and the Meagheners tied in 1937.

LOOKING BACK

Army and Notre Dame battle again, Same old spirit and same old flare, Same hard play in the same old way, Over the turf or up through the air, Same big mob that is packed in close, Splitting the echoes with vocal sound, Same big game with its old-time flame— But I wish Rock was around.

You'll hear "The Spirit of Notre Dame"— You'll hear "The Brave Old Army Song, You'll catch the zip of the dash and the flip, You'll see the clash of the swift and the strong, You'll see it all that I saw before, Clinging for even inches of ground; But the years march by to a sunset sky— I only wish Rock was around.

Soph Stepped in Against Lions When Keuper Was Hurt.

By F. M. WILLIAMS. ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 29.—Most improved football player on Georgia's squad is dashing Dick McPhee, one of three sophomores yet to crash the Bulldog first team this year. Dick will open his third consecutive game Saturday when the Red and Black meets Auburn in Columbus.

McPhee, with only one year of high school ball behind him, was encouraged to attend Georgia by an uncle, who is football coach at Cheney High school, Youngstown, Ohio, where Frankie Sinkwich was a prep star.

Coach McPhee came to admire Wallace Butts while the Bulldog head man was successfully talking Sinkwich into coming to Georgia.

Dick was no great shakes as a football star in high school, but his admirers proudly told the Georgia coach he was the finest basketball player in Ohio.

Now Coach Butts is convinced that the only reason Dick wasn't a sensation on the gridiron is because he didn't have time before they handed him a diploma.

Probably no sophomore in the south ever broke into a first string

Method to Stop Duke Worrying Tech Coaches

Epidemic of Wingback Injuries Will Hurt Passing Attack and Running Game.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. This business of figuring out some way to stop Duke's powerhouse attack in addition to gaining a little ground themselves is just about to drive the Georgia Tech football coaches nuts.

Take yesterday's practice, for instance. The Techs started it off by running signals and then scrimmaged on defense against the Red Devils, who were armed with Blue Devil formations.

The varsity would stop the Reds' cold for a few plays, but then a pass would click or a reverse would work for a long gain. When you consider this was done by Red Devils, it makes you wonder just what will happen when Steve Lach, Tom Davis and some of the other Duke backs get hold of the ball.

BOSCH, SHELDON HURL. The Yellow Jackets, who hold little hope to doing much ground, gaining through the big Blue Devil line, have been working hard on their passing attack with Johnny Bosch and Bobby Sheldon throwing the ball.

Both have been accurate with their passes and the ends have been making some nifty catches.

But an epidemic of wingback injuries has hit the squad and since these backs are on the receiving end of a lot of passes, the aerial attack has suffered. Davey Eldredge was the only varsity wingback in good shape during the scrimmage and little Joe Edwards was called up from the Red Devils to help him out.

NO WINGBACKS LEFT. Both Pat McHugh and Jack Hancock, who play the position, are out with minor injuries. The former has a charley-horse and the latter a bad shoulder.

Both are expected to be ready to play Saturday but, as Coach Bill Alexander put it, they are badly in need of work.

Two or three other members of the squad are not in good condition, especially Jack Helms, the big sophomore tackle, and Jim Wright, veteran center. Helms is handicapped by a bad shoulder and Wright reinjured his bad leg in the scrimmage. Both will play but how much or how effectively is not known.

The drill ended all pregame rough stuff. Blocking, tackling, pass defense and offense will be stressed today. Friday's drill will be the usual warmup.

Pollard and Bailey Are 'Met' Winners

Mrs. Warren Pollard and Mrs. M. K. Bailey shared honors in the one-day tournament of the Metropolitan Women Golfers yesterday at James L. Key course. They had net 79's.

Mrs. W. M. Robertson, with 29 putts, took first prize, with Mrs. Henry Hubbard, Mrs. L. H. Beck and Mrs. C. C. Clower tied at 32. Second division low was the net 74 turned in by Mrs. Mobley Shepard. Mrs. Pollard's 93 was the low score.

Other special prize winners were: Mrs. Ralph Force, Mrs. Mark Larned, Mrs. J. J. Garrett, Mrs. W. A. Dodge, Mrs. Riley Eakin, Miss Peggy Gude and Mrs. Ed Callahan.

Billy Rutland Is Main Threat To Purple Club

Speedy Clint Castleberry Must Shine To Over-shadow Visiting Star.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS. "Better than Clint Castleberry." That is really a mouthful, but that is what Columbus football fans are saying of Billy Rutland, Jordan High ace back who will lead Coach Red Jenkins' team into action against Shorty Doyal's Boys' High eleven at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park.

Rutland may not be better than Mrs. Castleberry's scampering son, but he is making quite a name for himself and the duel between the two leading G. I. A. A. scorers should be quite a highlight of tonight's scrap in which the Purple scourge will be seeking its 19th consecutive victory. Young Rutland, who had tallied 47 points before his team's game last week, is runner-up to Castleberry, who ran his total to 84 with his four touchdowns in last Benedictine College last week.

Jordan and the Hurricane will be pitting enviable records against one another too, which fact should have the lads trying even harder. The G. I. A. A. champs have won 29 of their last 30 games and Jordan has dropped only three times in their last 31 outings. This year Jordan has captured five decisions while bowing only to the stout Richmond Academy gang, 13 to 7.

The unbeaten, unscored on charges of Shorty Doyal will be pitted against a big, fast outfit sparked by the 170-pound Rutland; Bazemore, a lightning fast charger at end, and Milstead, an 185-pound tackle, who, they say, reminds one of Charlie Furchgott, Boys' High All-G. I. A. A. tackle who is the most brilliant defensive light the conference has had in many a moon.

Riddle, brother of Cincinnati's great pitcher, Elmer Riddle, is another shifty, dangerous back Coach Jenkins has to send scouting from the Jordan single wingback formation.

If the Purple horde is not thinking ahead to that big intersection game with Chicago Austin High here next week they should be able to take care of themselves, however, as the 44-point percentage average of their speaks might well for Castleberry, Kenimer, Magbee, Gordon, Buck Miller, Billy Haas, Don Paschal, Tommy Freeman and their other ball-toters, not to mention the magnificent blocking line they have been getting from the whole team in general and Magbee, Kenimer, Freeman, Gordon Clay and Charlie Furchgott in particular.

Charlie Furchgott sustained a chest injury last week, and Kenimer had his already hurt leg re-injured. Both have been working out in sweat clothes all week, however, and probably will see some service.

The United States has never lost a war, nor the U. S. Navy a fleet action.

Race Sunday Set To Benefit Seay's Parents

Benton Loans Track Free; Many Drivers To Donate Purses.

Tender-hearted daredevil race drivers in Atlanta and vicinity, led by Harry Taylor, have arranged for a benefit race meet at Lakewood Speedway Sunday at 2:30 p. m. for the benefit of the aged parents of the late Lloyd Seay, who won the 100-mile stock car race at Lakewood on Labor Day. The couple were left without the support of their dashing son when he met his death on his native heath within a few hours after winning the Lakewood speedway classic.

The net proceeds of the 50-mile stock car race next Sunday will be presented to Seay's parents in front of the grandstand at the end of the race. Many donations have been received for the purse money and many drivers have volunteered to run free. The services of several officials have been offered without charge in the conduct of the race.

Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, has donated the use of the Lakewood speedway to the drivers.

Among the entries already received are Joe Littlejohn, Spartanburg; Bill France and Bob Baker, of Daytona Beach; Bill Snowden and Skimp Hersey, of St. Augustine; Jap Brogdon, Chamblee; Fontelle Flock, Bob Flock, Hoyt Anderson, Carson Dyer and Harley Taylor, of Atlanta.

TENNILLE 7; LOUISVILLE 0. LOUISVILLE, Ga., Oct. 27.—Louisville's football team met defeat on the home field last week at the hands of the Tennille squad by the score of 7 to 0. It was a hard-played game with both teams showing up well. The Tennille boys in a previous game defeated Louisville 13 to 0.

Druid Hills Meet Enters Semi-Finals

Semi-finals in the Druid Hills ladies' golf tournament will be played Friday. In the championship flight, Mrs. S. C. Heindel will meet Mrs. M. K. Bailey and Mrs. H. M. Hubbard will play Mrs. Mark Larned. Other pairings: Championship consolation, Mrs. W. S. Eakin-Mrs. L. H. Beck; first flight, Mrs. H. M. Stephens-Mrs. T. R. Staton, Bailey and Mrs. Kaiser vs. winner of Martin-Weideman match; first flight consolation, Mrs. Max Mentzer-Mrs. Francis Adams; second flight, Mrs. A. C. Baird-Mrs. Frank Shipp, Miss Catherine Welling-Miss Alice Given.

It also will be visitors' day, and members are urged to be on hand with their guests.

North Fulton Bees, Marist Vie Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock North Fulton's "B" football squad will meet Coach Louis Lesko's Marist "B" team on the North Fulton field.

This marks the third game for the North Fulton Bulldogs. In the previous games the Bulldogs defeated Hapeville's "B" team by a score of 8 to 7 and lost to West Fulton's "B" team.

Atlantan's Kin 'Saved' Famed London Abbey

British Paper Cites Bravery in Fire of September 28.

The cousin of an Atlanta woman was described in a London newspaper as "the man who saved Westminster Abbey" during the great fire September 28.

Mrs. S. J. Arnold, of 641 Hobart avenue, S. E., was born in London and came to this country after the first World War. Until the war came she went to England every two years to visit relatives and friends but now her only contact with them comes through letters which often arrive many days late.

She recalled yesterday her years in London and the three brothers who are her cousins. Most of the information about them came from friends and other relatives, not the brothers themselves. They say little about their deeds, Mrs. Arnold said.

The "British Mercury" in reporting a decoration for bravery awarded Henry George Davies for his valiant work as a fire fighter explained that he "understood the weak, draughty spots of the Abbey because he was in charge of fire prevention there at the time of the coronation. He was in a fortunate position, being perhaps the only man in London that night who could have kept the fire from spreading. He knew the structure of the building and by directing his men to tackle what he knew to be the danger areas saved it."

Gallant Conduct. "Sometime ago Davies was honored for gallant conduct "on a night when, by his leadership, initiative and tenacity he saved an artillery headquarters from destruction by fire bombs. He also holds four certificates for life saving, including one signed by the Duke of Windsor.

His brothers also have been decorated for distinguished fire fighting during the severest raids. Edward Howell, youngest of the three, "dug singlehanded beneath great masses of debris to rescue 17 firemen." John Richard, the eldest, was decorated during the first war.

Mrs. Arnold was a member of the Prince of Pilsen Opera Company that toured the United States after the first World War. She played here at the old Bijou theater and later came here to live. She was a dancer and singer.

Dried Bananas Favored By London Food Men

Britain is taking to the idea of dried bananas. They probably will be sold at five for two cents, and a pound would provide a nourishing meal for one person. Before the war, dried bananas were considered a delicacy and London stores stocked them at 40 cents a pound. The import of bananas was banned in November because they made too bulky a cargo, and they are rotting on the trees in banana countries. The plan is to skin, sundry and pack them in the same manner as figs.

Bus Must Haul Ticket Holders, Court Decides

Not Required to Provide Seats for All, Appeal Body Rules.

A bus company must transport a passenger with a ticket but is not required to provide him with a seat, the Georgia court of appeals ruled yesterday. The high court reversed a judgment obtained in the Gwinnett superior court by Leatus J. Berry against the Atlanta Greyhound Company for damages resulting from missing a business engagement in Athens.

The plaintiff said the bus driver told him he did not have room for another passenger. But the bus driver contended all he said was that he didn't have anything except standing room from Lawrenceville to Athens.

For months a physician in Ascona, a little town in southern Switzerland—with the mistaken notion that letters could be sent to occupied France—patiently wrote letter after letter to friends in Paris. Casily, he omitted his return address and name. But one day he inclosed a small snapshot of himself.

A few days later he was surprised and chagrined when he received a large parcel from the postal authorities at the Swiss frontier. It contained all the letters. On the wrapper was simply one word: "Ascona"—and the photograph.

Picket Line Vanishes' Following Relief Trick

There was a slight lapse in the picket line at a shoe repair shop, but nobody can explain exactly what happened.

A picket on duty surrendered his umbrella and sign when a man approached and said he would relieve him for awhile. When Union officials later discovered the picket missing they investigated.

There was no "relief" picket assigned and the false "relief" man simply took to his heels, with umbrella and sign on his shoulder.

Sage Hobby Becomes A Thriving Business

In Oskaloosa, Iowa, war in Europe has turned L. H. McCall's herb hobby into a profitable business. Wild sage from Yugoslavia has been the principal source of the seasoning for turkey stuffing up to now. But the war has cut off all imports and its former price of a nickel a pound has skyrocketed to 75 cents.

McCall estimates that his crop this year from 12,000 plants will total 1,500 pounds and gross $1,000.

"After you once have sage started," he says, "all you have to do is to sit back and let them grow and hand cultivate the plants after each rain to keep the weeds from growing. The sage picks up weed flavors."

Four New Pictures Open Engagements Here

George Olsen's Band Will Top Capitol's Bill

'Gay Falcon' To Feature Screen Fare Starting Tomorrow.

By DUDLEY GLASS.

More new pictures starting in Atlanta theaters today than you could shake a stick at—if you wanted to shake a stick. Let's see:

"Sundown," at Loew's Grand. "It Started With Eve," at the Fox. "Harmon of Michigan" at the Rialto. "Wild Geese Calling" at the Roxy.

And then, starting tomorrow, the Capitol presents "The Gay Falcon," though the drawing card is George Olsen's orchestra—with singers.

"Citizen Kane" switches to the Paramount and "International Lady" to the Rhodes.

'Sundown' at Grand.

The Saturday Evening Post published some time ago a fine series about stranded patriots in Africa called "Sundown." Scene is in Kenya colony, little outpost of the British empire. And a girl—daughter of an Arab trader. Brave Britisher holding down the fort.

Friendly Frenchmen just across the border. Evil natives, backed by the enemy. Attack on the post. Machineguns. All that.

The serial had all the makings of a good movie. Walter Wanger directed it and chose for his principals Gene Tierney, the exotic heroine; Bruce Cabot, getting a bigger role than usual; and George Sanders.

'Started With Eve.'

Excellent notices have been given in national magazines to the picture, "It Started With Eve," which opens its engagement today at the Fox.

It presents Deanna Durbin, Robert Cummings and—especially—Charles Laughton, who hasn't been seen here in some time.

Miss Durbin and Mr. Laughton are co-starred in the billing, which is a concession for both of them. Deanna has five songs, all brief. Which seems odd, because Deanna sings so much better than she acts.

The story is about an old and supposedly dying man—Mr. Laughton—who yearns to see the fiancée of his son. She isn't available at the moment, so the son, Robert Cummings, hires a half-check girl, Miss Durbin, to play the role. Mr. Laughton immediately starts getting well, even to the extent of a night club party and a try at the conga dance.

'Harmon of Michigan.'

Tom Harmon, late of the University of Michigan and believed to be the greatest backfield ace of recent football history, is starred in his first motion picture, "Harmon of Michigan," which opens a week's run at the Rialto today.

In spite of its football stars, "Harmon of Michigan" is not just another football picture. Filmed against a stirring background of collegiate life, the story dramatically deals with an All-American star. The way in which he meets the propositions offered him by the gamblers and promoters furnishes the basis for the yarn.

There is plenty of comedy in the picture, chiefly supplied by Chester Conklin. And, for the romance angle, there is the lovely Anita Louise.

Not only Harmon, but many other gridiron greats are to be seen. Perhaps chief of the entire supporting cast is Forrest Evans, who was Harmon's running mate at Michigan and chief contributor to the Harmon saga. As an added attraction there is Hal Roach's first streamlined attraction "Niagara Falls," starring Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts.

'Wild Geese Calling.'

"Wild Geese Calling," starring Henry Fonda and the cuddly Joan Bennett, begins a week's run at the Roxy theater today. In the cast are Warren William and Ona Munson—the Belle Watling of "GWTW," and Barton MacLane, the old reliable.

It isn't exactly a "western" but it's a story of the great outdoors—up Seattle way.

Monda is a lumberjack. Warren William is a card sharp. Miss Bennett is a dancer in the saloon honky-tonk. MacLane, of course, is the heavy villain of the story, trailing the girl.

Just how everything comes out you must wait and see—if you can wait.

George Olsen at Capitol

The American radio audience is familiar with the dance music presented by George Olsen and his orchestra which appears in person on the Capitol stage for three days, starting Friday. In addition to the band, Olsen brings with him a group of entertainers which will present an hour's stage show at every performance.

networks from nearly every city in the country.

His smooth darsanpation was so original that the late Florenz Ziegfeld brought the band all the way from the Pacific coast, where it was formed, to New York, where it was featured in half a dozen Broadway musical shows before returning to the dance field. Since then it has played from coast to coast in the finest hotels, ballrooms and theaters.

On the screen the Capitol will offer "The Gay Falcon," mystery feature, starring George Sanders, Wendy Barry, Allen Jenkins and a host of others.

Roping Champ to Twirl Here

Billy Keen, who was crowned world champion trick rider and roper at Madison Square Garden in 1938, will be one of the featured cowboys and cowgirls to ride in the first Atlanta annual rodeo to be held November 10-14 at the Ponce de Leon ball park, it was announced yesterday.

The rodeo is being sponsored by the Young Matrons' Circle for the benefit of the Tallulah Falls School, and tickets are now on sale at Muse's, 52 Peachtree street.

Keen is now a spotlighted performer in the rodeo going on in the Madison Square Garden and has appeared there for the past five years. He is known, says C. L. McLaughlin, producer of the Atlanta Championship Rodeo, as the only cowboy in the world who can do the Roman jump—a stunt in which, riding two horses standing up, he leaps over the top of an automobile.

Keen also has a horse which jumps over a car while free of rider, bridle, and saddle. A performing horse of this kind is known to the trade as a "liberty horse," McLaughlin explained.

Mrs. George Beattie, chairman of the ticket committee for the Young Matrons' Circle, said the advance sale of ducats has been unexpectedly large.

Housing Row Before Senators

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(P)—Controversy over the defense housing program exploded before an investigating committee and on the senate floor today, with one government official accusing another of "criminal" delay while senators disagreed as to whether Sidney Hillman should be blamed for his part in the so-called "Currier case."

Administrative dissension over the housing program was brought into the open by Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority, who testified that an effort to use "new and untried devices" for administering the program had produced a dozen agencies, "more or less competing with each other."

Name Atlantan Treasurer of Dixie Druggists

M. A. McCullough, Official of Lane's, To Serve Coming Year.

M. A. McCullough, official of Lane Drug Stores, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Southern Drug Stores Association, it was announced yesterday.

He was named to serve for the coming year at a convention held last week in Memphis.

The association is composed of 10 of the representative drug chains in the south and southeast. Druggists discussed store operations and the effect of the national emergency on drug products and merchandising policies.

ocrat, Missouri, took the senate floor to declare that if Hillman, associate director general of the Office of Production Management, "can't or won't protect the interests of the United States, I am in favor of replacing him with some one who can or will."

He made the assertion while reviewing the committee's investigation of the failure of the Federal Works Agency to award a Wayne, Mich. defense housing contract to the Currier Lumber Company of Detroit, the low bidder.

Truman related that Hillman recommended against an award to the Currier Company, employer of CIO workmen, because he feared labor trouble from "irresponsible elements" of the American Federation of Labor.

Senator Mead, Democrat, New York, of the committee, however, contended that Hillman had "acted in good faith" and had "very logical reasons to support and substantiate his attitude."

ELECTED OFFICIAL—M. A. McCullough, of Lane Drug Stores, was elected secretary and treasurer of the Southern Drug Stores Association at its meeting last week in Memphis, Tenn.

Germans 'Clearing Out' Prague's 48,000 Jews

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(P)—Transport of 48,000 Jews from Prague to resettlement areas in Nazi-conquered lands to the east has been started, and all Jews are to be cleared out of Bohemia-Moravia cities "within a short time," Dienst Aus Deutschland disclosed tonight.

The authoritative commentary declared that Jewish transports were leaving regularly but did not give their exact destination. Of the 200,000 Jews in the protectorate when it was taken over by Germany in March, 1939, only 90,000 are left, Dienst stated.

Secrecy-Shrouded Fleet Hunting Britain's Butter

For North American Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A phantom fleet now is entering the iceberg-strewn Antarctic. The ships are what are left of Europe's whalers, and upon their success depends much of Great Britain's "butter" for the next year.

RESIGNS—Edward L. Ryerson, Chicago steel executive, has resigned his American First National Committee membership in a letter dated September 17 to General Robert E. Wood, committee chairman.

Officers Named By Nurses at Gainesville

Miss Grefe Is Re-elected President of State Association.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 29.—Miss Freda Grefe, of Savannah, was re-elected president of the Georgia State Nurses' Association at the final business session here today. Mrs. Mae M. Jones, second vice president, and Miss Jane Von de Vrede, treasurer, were also re-elected. Terms of Miss Carrie Spurgeon, first vice president, and Mrs. Esther Watts, secretary, do not expire now.

Two new directors, Mrs. Lucile Kemp, of Milledgeville, and Miss Genevieve Warren, of Atlanta, were named. Other officers chosen by affiliated groups are:

Atlanta Named. Georgia League of Nursing Education: Miss Lucy Harris, of Atlanta, president; Miss Alma Brown, of Atlanta, first vice president; Miss Ruth Pendley, of Atlanta, secretary.

Georgia State Organization for Public Health Nursing: Miss Vera Mingleford, of Griffin, president; Miss Palestine Coleman, of Tifton, secretary; Miss Mable Brown, of Macon, and Mrs. Sarah English, of Sandersville, directors.

Private Duty Section: Mrs. William Price, of Albany, chairman; Miss Ruby Smith, of Gainesville, vice chairman; Miss Mattie Jeffers, of Savannah, second vice chairman; Miss Katherine O'Conner, of Waycross, secretary.

Industrial Section: Miss Margaret Curry, of Gainesville, chairman; Miss Vada Hannah, of Savannah, vice chairman; Miss Florence Richardson, of Columbus, secretary.

Miss Lillian Cumbee, of Atlanta, was elected a delegate to the national American Red Cross convention in Washington.

Augusta was named as the next convention city.

At the new G. S. N. A. executive board meeting, committees were named and the program outlined for the ensuing year.

Concluding Session.

Concluding the four-day program was the Nursing Council for National Defense meeting this afternoon, at which Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, chief of Emergency Medical Services for Civilian Defense, was heard, together with Dr. Edgar Greene, chairman of the medical preparedness committee of the Medical Association of Georgia; George Burt, president of Georgia Hospital Association; Miss Lucile Mae Kirkland, field representative of the American Red Cross.

Resolutions which termed the convention "most inspiring, instructive and entertaining" and expressing thanks to individuals and organizations contributing to its success were unanimously adopted by the assembled groups.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 1 pint a day. When function of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or empty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Honor Students At University Hear Dr. White

'True Education' Is Defined by Emory Professor.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 29.—(AP)—"True education is to be sought and valued, not because of its own material success, but because it raises the level of living," Dr. Goodrich C. White, vice president of Emory University, told a University of Georgia honors' day audience.

Guest speaker at the 12th annual exercises honoring the students who have done honor to themselves and to the University, Dr. White said that the fight being made by educated men and women today is the fight for the right for ideals to live. This fight becomes a mockery if we do not hold to ideals, he continued, if freedom and justice die without our trying to save them.

One of the greatest values of education is to learn to relax, Dr. White argued, to let ourselves be ruled by our emotions, to have fun because it is fun, to laugh at ourselves.

"We then come back to the serious business of living with new poise, new perspective, and new energy."

FORWARD HAPEVILLE—Leading the drive for civic improvement in Hapeville is the Forward Hapeville Club, which has celebrated its first anniversary and elected new officers. Projects during the past year included Establishment of a health center in the city and work on traffic problems. New officers, left to right, are Woodrow C. Burchfiel, secretary; G. Clint Hawkins, vice president; Frank S. French, president.

NAMED CHIEF.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Oct. 29.—De Witt Bell, 33, has been named chief of police of the city of Moultrie. Bell succeeds L. L. Smith, who leaves the department after 16 years of service. Bell has been with the police department here for three years.

Gum Farmers Are To Erect $60,000 Plant

Turpentine Co-operative Members Inspect Sites at Vidalia.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VIDALIA, Ga., Oct. 29.—Directors of the Gum Turpentine Farmers' Co-operative Association met here this week to discuss plans for a new $60,000 plant which is to be erected for their use at this point and to inspect prospective sites on which the plant is to be located.

Officers of the association are W. C. Rice, of Vidalia, president; George M. Bazemore, of Waycross, vice president, and A. S. Bradley, of Swainsboro, secretary.

The board of directors includes besides the officers, David H. Bennett, of Waycross; J. B. O'Conner, of Soperton, and H. C. Williams, of Adrian.

A meeting of stockholders was called to be held in Vidalia on November 10, at which time plans for changing the charter to provide for a membership association will be discussed.

Jack Rattray, assistant to the president, said today that plans of the co-operative are progressing satisfactorily. The Farm Security Administration is assigning 10

Cedartown Man Killed in Crash

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 29.—(AP) Buck Rainey, of Cedartown, Ga., and Herman Leach, of Faison, N. C., were killed and Charles Jordan, of Mt. Olive, N. C., was injured seriously in the collision of two large transport trucks near here today.

Rainey was on his way east with a load of yarn from a Cedartown textile company. G. L. Sanders, of Cedartown, who accompanied him, escaped injury.

Both trucks caught fire after the crash but firemen from Columbia extinguished the flames.

JUDGE TO SPEAK.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 29.—(INS)—Judge Charles S. Reid, chief justice of the Georgia Supreme court, will be the principal speaker at the annual Cartersville Chamber of Commerce dinner tomorrow night.

ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 30, 1941

ATLANTA'S AUTOMOBILE REPAIR SHOPS

RANK WITH FINEST IN AMERICA!

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.

It's a big industry—this matter of service by the automobile dealers of Atlanta. A recent survey among leading dealers reveals an investment for service equipment in their repair and mechanical departments of more than a quarter of a million dollars.

All are equipped with precision tools and machinery under the direct supervision of their respective factories—equipment expressly designed for service on the type and make of cars they handle, but useful also on others.

Repair service has come a long ways. Not a great many years ago, when automobiles were younger, every repair job was done by hand.

Precision tools were not available. Reliable figures show that around 500 to 600 expert, experienced mechanics are now employed by Atlanta and suburban automobile dealers, with a pay roll of $15,000 to $20,000 a week—close around a million dollars annually.

Every dealer is prepared to do any type of work, from the repair of a slightly smashed fender to a major wrecked repair job—equipped so completely that practically a new car could be turned out. Hundreds of thousands of dollars is invested by them in new and replacement parts. Atlanta motorists are urged to visit ascertain for themselves just the type shop their dealer maintains for their use when service is needed.

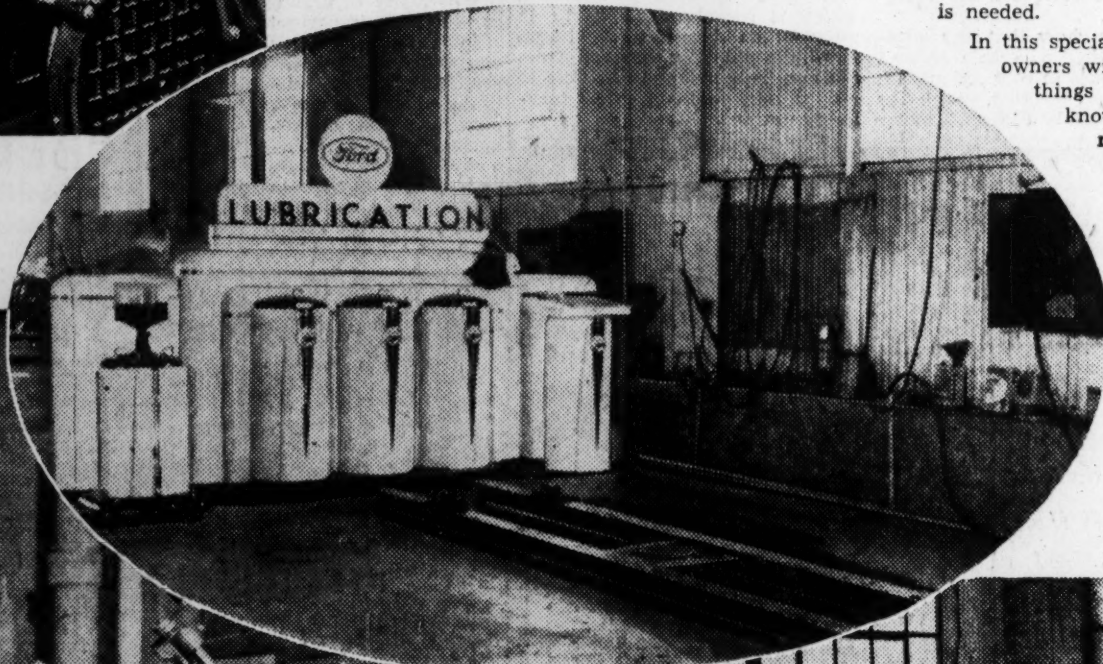

In this special service supplement car owners will find many interesting things they probably did not know existed in automobile repair plants in and around this city. Read it over carefully.

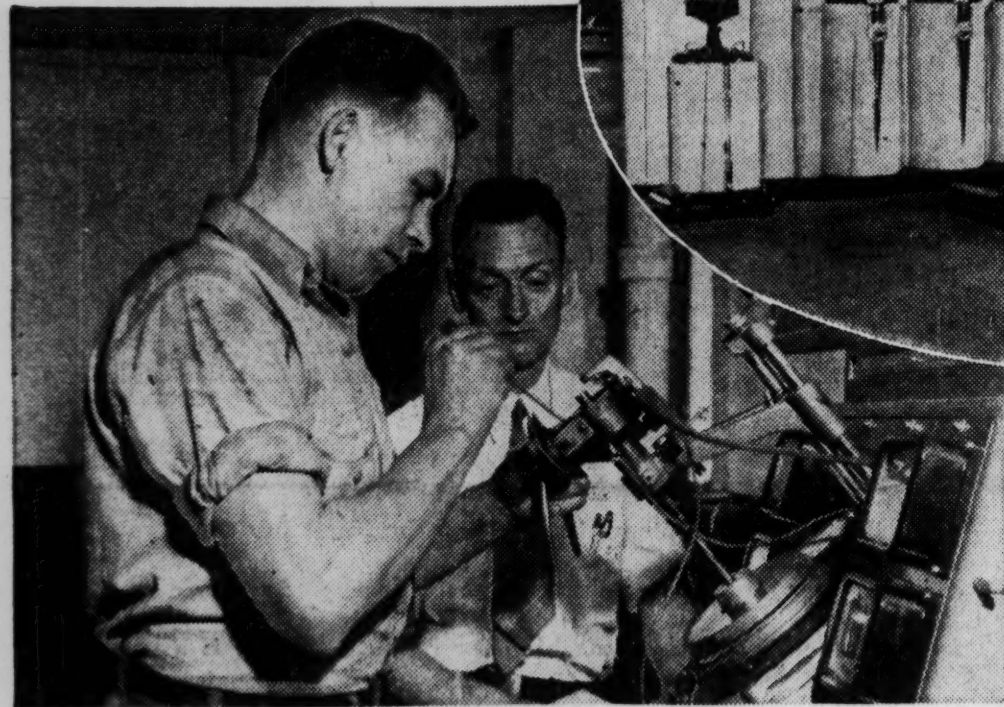

The very latest valve refacing machine. It grinds the valves back to their original shape. Motor heat distorts valves and affects efficiency.

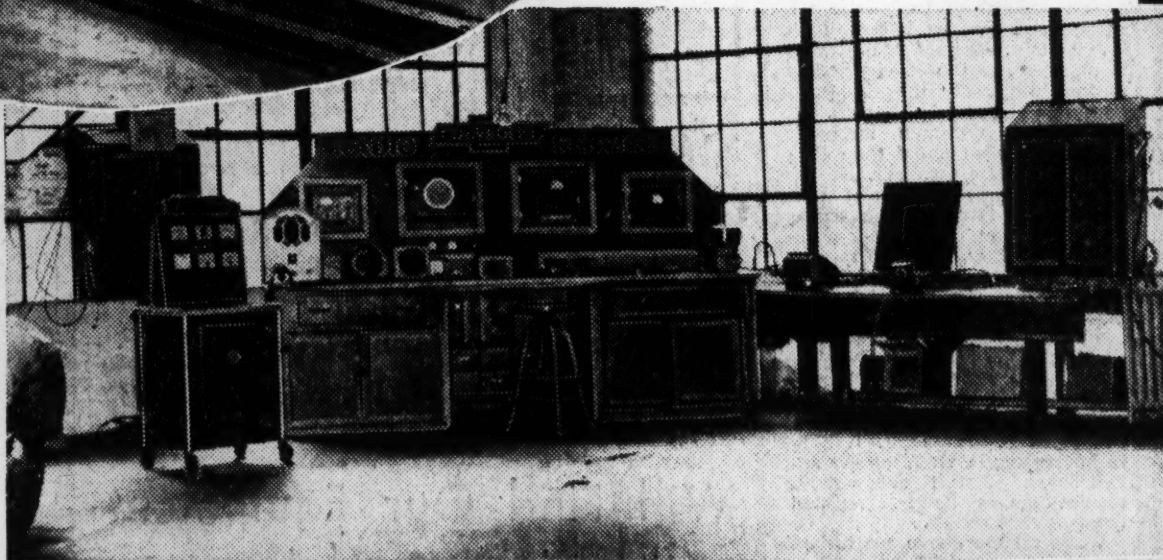

Full automatic wheel balancing machine. This machine, a very new development, checks and indicates where wheels are to be balanced, both statically and dynamically.

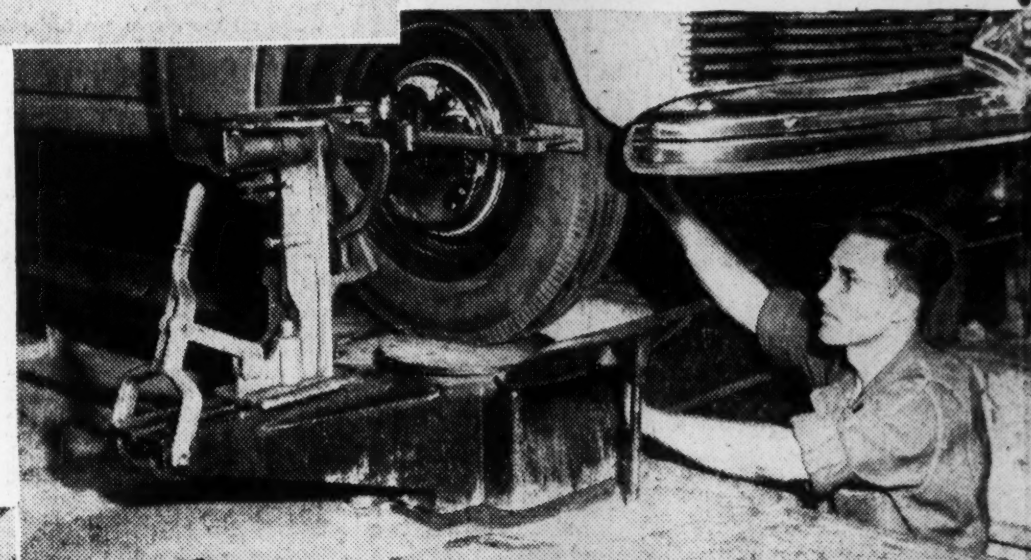

On the left is a typical lubrication department that will be found in all well equipped service stations. The equipment shown in this photo represents a large investment to the dealer, in equipment, besides the seven or eight different kinds of lubricant it takes to grease the present day car.

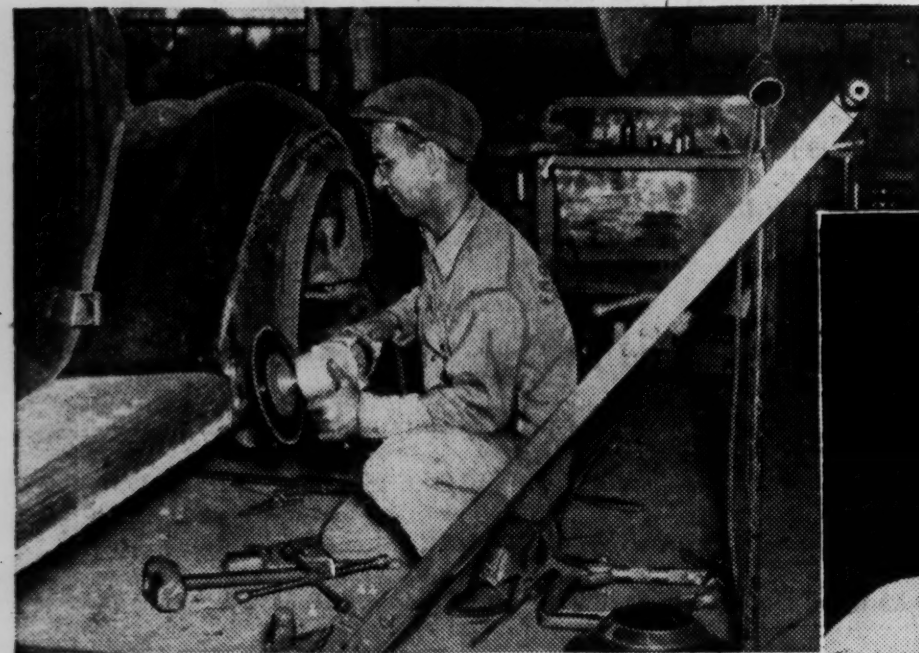

An excellent view of what takes place when the distributor for the ignition on your car. Most Atlanta shops have this latest development that enables them to time the firing before putting the distributor on the motor.

Here is a typical testing bench where it is determined what work is required and then after it is finished rechecked for accuracy. Right, top, a giant hydraulic press is required in most shops. They have a pressure ranging from 20,000 to 80,000 pounds. The press is used for many operations. Bottom, right, an ideal way to check the front end alignment on your car. The machine at the left enables the operator to read the automatic dial for correct caster and camber as well as toe-in.

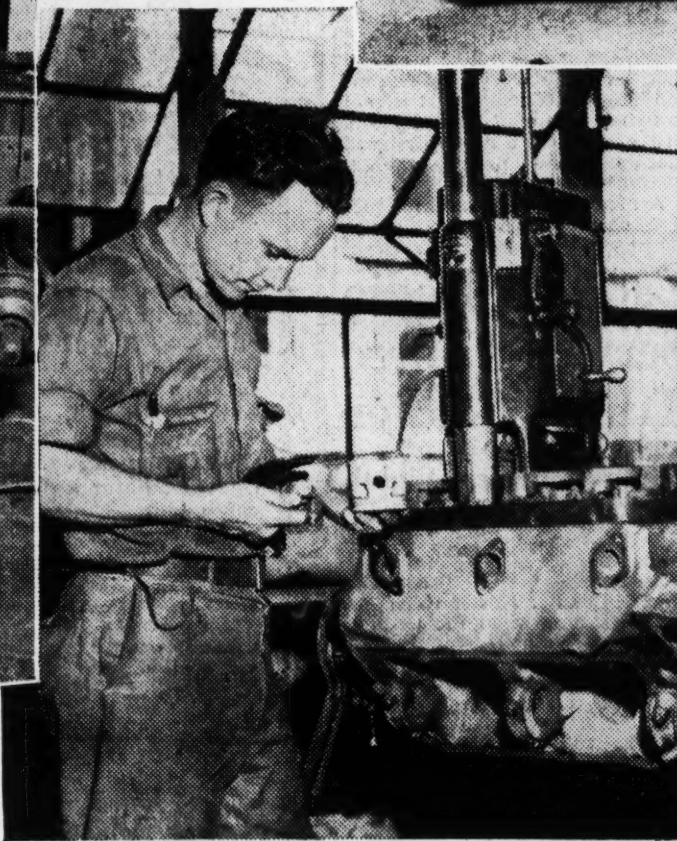

Atlanta's larger super service stations have the very latest equipment for tire retreading. This new feature in the tire business enables an owner to get many more miles of service out of his tires for half the cost of new ones.

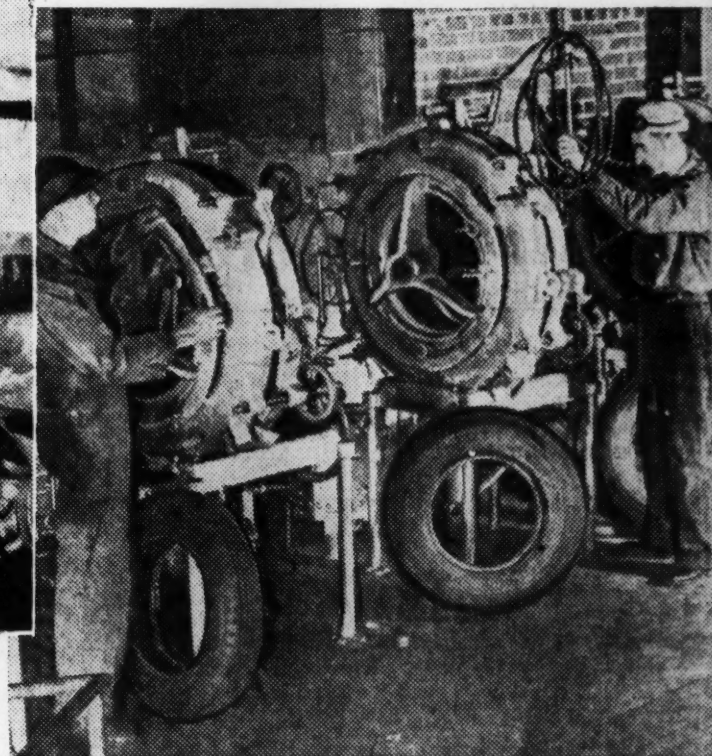

Top, all Atlanta dealers are equipped to repair wrecked fenders and cars. Bottom, the motor analyzer. This machine enables the service man to determine just what is needed to make the old bus run like new again.

Precision tools are found in the shops of every Atlanta automobile dealer. Expensive lathes are kept just for the purpose of turning down armatures for generators and starters needing repairs.

This is perhaps the newest and finest machine tool used in modern automobile repairing. It is the new reboring bar that eliminates all of the human element in such an important operation. The machine is bolted to the block with no chance for even the slightest mistake.

You'll certainly smile again if you use Constitution Want Ads.

MOHAIR FLEECE PRIZED.

The mohair fleece used in today's automobile upholstery was prized by the ancients. The Bible attests that Moses ordered the children of Israel to bring "goat wool" for weaving into altar cloths. The Angora goats that supply today's mohair are descended from these early animals.

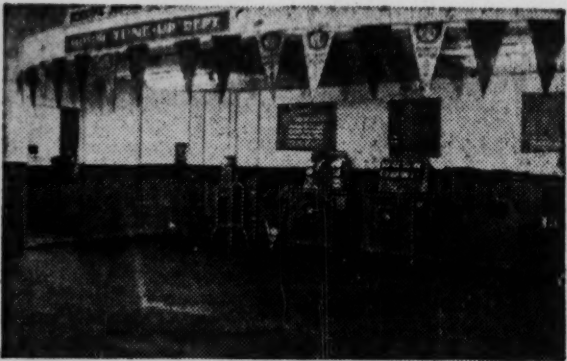

—Service— DESOTO Plymouth

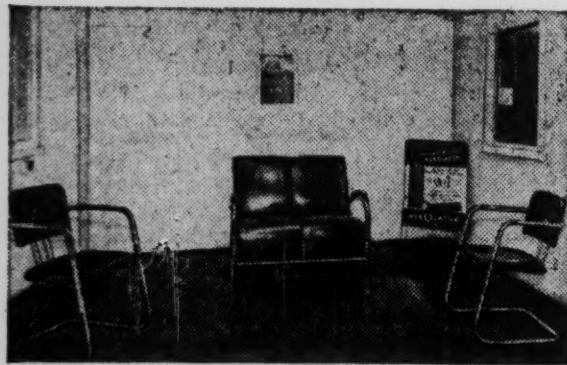

In this dustproof room you will find precision machinery and tools used to work on your car.—Our equipment includes lathe, drill press, valve facing and cylinder block machine, reborer machine, special wrenches and other tools recommended by the De Soto and Plymouth factories.

This is absolutely the finest and newest machine for front wheel alignment made today. Its accuracy can be measured to as little as 100-thousandths of an inch. It enables us to keep your running gear absolutely perfect, saving many miles' wear on your tires, plus easy, sure steering.

Our Motor Analyzer is the newest in design on the market. It has eliminated all of the guesswork as to what is wrong with your car. It is thoroughly and scientifically checked before an opinion of what is wrong is given.

Motorists Are Invited To Call At Wagstaff's

New Concern, But Well Equipped To Render Service.

Although established for only a few weeks, Wagstaff Motor Company, Inc., direct dealers for Atlanta and northern Georgia for DeSoto and Plymouth automobiles, has installed a most complete service department at its convenient location, 449 West Peachtree street.

As a matter of fact, the service department of this new concern occupies large and finely arranged quarters in the big building, corner West Peachtree and Grant place. It strikes one as unusual that in so short a time a company could so thoroughly arrange and equip a service department and build up a force of eight to 10 expert mechanics to handle the repairs and various jobs brought into it—and these are fast growing in numbers, as the efficiency and responsibility of the Wagstaff Company is becoming known.

No more thorough mechanic could have been found than Jack S. Reid, service manager. He has been engaged in this type of work for 20 years, 11 of which has been in the handling of Chrysler products. Jack knows every angle—every bolt and screw. If needed, his experience qualifies him to impart any technical information to any of his force of trained mechanics.

Besides Jack Reid, the service department consists of P. E. Holland, W. C. Johnson, W. C. McDaniel, S. E. Mullins, J. T. Barr, E. M. Helms, D. K. Nunnally and Ted Glass. J. F. Kerlin, veteran service man, assists Mr. Reid with the executive duties.

While all the above are trained mechanics, it might be well to emphasize the work of J. T. Barr, who is unusually skilled on body and fender work. And his knowledge, as is the knowledge of all other mechanics there, not only includes Chrysler products, but cars of any make, type or size. The equipment in the service department of Wagstaff's, while complete with the latest, special tools for work on DeSoto and Plymouth automobiles, yet can render service on any type of car.

Motorists can drive into this newest and most complete service place with the knowledge and assurance that if a motor tune-up is needed, if wheel alignment is desired, if lubrication is wanted, or body or fender service is required, that they will be promptly and reliably served.

The company, to give absolutely accurate service on front end alignment, makes use of a special machine manufactured by Thompson Products Company. It is said to be the only machine of its kind in the city. It is a newly designed machine for alignment by the use of camera light and lenses.

A most interesting and instructive chart, designed by Service

Cadillac Radio Service Course Trails Soldier

Youth Finishes Eighth in School Sponsored by Auto Firm.

Service in the United States Army didn't affect Edward N. Preston's interest in the Cadillac radio service course.

For more than a year he had monthly radio service course questionnaires trailing him to five different locations, from where he fired back the answers.

How well Preston kept up with his classes was shown this week when Cadillac announced him as eighth ranking scholar in the completion of the industry's first company-sponsored radio school.

Originally enrolled from the Montgomery Motor Sales Company, of Battle Creek, Mich., Preston returned questionnaires as well from Fort Custer, Charlotte, Mich., Fort Knox and Fort Sill. Meanwhile, he apparently knew the right answers in the Army, too.

Manager Reid hangs conspicuously in the service department. Circular shaped, as a clock, carrying figures from 1,000 to 12,000, it easily shows what maintenance operation should be performed on a car at the various mileage figures shown.

"Statistics show that any automobile requires a certain amount of maintenance in connection with satisfactory operation, such as lubrication, oil change, motor tune-up, service on hydraulic brakes, recoil air cleaner, and the like, and the chart is a carefully checked guide to motorists," says Reid.

The department also offers a new type of battery charging, which is completed in 30 to 45 minutes, at Wagstaff's, without the battery being removed from the car. This makes it possible to render quick and convenient service to patrons.

A new idea in service for their customers—and one taken advantage of by hundreds of patrons—was that originated a year or two ago by Frost-Cotton Motors, located at 450 Peachtree street, N. E. It is the operation of a station wagon to and from town on a 20-minute schedule, so patrons can leave their car to be serviced by them while the owners can continue on to the city for shopping, and then return later for their car. This has been—and is—particularly attractive to women patrons.

Frost-Cotton Motors are dealers for Ford Cars, and have one of the largest and finest equipped service plants in the south, it being under the direction of Jack Frost, C. M. Daniel and W. S. Paris. Their checking and rechecking department is one of the features of their service work and insures their clients a doubled checked service job before the car leaves the place.

The concern was among the first to purchase and install all of the latest precision machines and tools for working on cars. Every service operation is carried on under ideal conditions, in a full day-lighted service plant, with jigs developed by the Ford factory to install motors on while working on them. This latter feature enables them to overhaul motors under ideal conditions, eliminating the necessity of crawling under a car for such important task.

In this shop one will find such equipment as reborer tools, valve refacing machine, automatic brake lining machine, motor analyzers, distributor time setters, wheel balancing machines, lathe, drill press, a 20,000-pound hydraulic press, and many other smaller tools too numerous to mention.

They can take care of any type work, from the biggest overhaul job to upholstery and making of seat covers. In their big plant are employed more than 50 people who specialize in various operations.

Heading up the various departments are Bill Sayne, paint department; J. O. Morgan, paint department; Ralph Hardin, service superintendent; Fred McJenkins, parts manager; John Aldridge, used car manager; Otis Watkins, foreman used car shop. A. P. Boston and Jim Reeves head their service sales activities.

Frost-Cotton Motors offer a one-to 12-month payment plan for service work. This plan includes all labor cost and parts used to fix whatever is needed.

Service men and motorists who act as their own mechanics will appreciate the redesigned hood on the new 1942 Chevrolet. Because hood side panels are now integral with the top panel and are raised with it, access to the engine compartment is greatly facilitated. Since the hood now extends back to the front edge of the front door eliminating the former cowl side panel, it is now possible to prop the hood open much wider than in 1941.

Auto Service At Beaudry's Always Good

Been Ford Dealer Here
for 25 Years.

Ernest G. Beaudry, who heads the motor company bearing his name, has been a Ford dealer in Atlanta for 25 years.

Hundreds of customers of the old-established auto house know and appreciate the fine equipment and elaborate service department maintained for them.

To walk through their shops one would think they are really visiting one of the big factory plants of the Ford Company.

This concern has all of the latest gadgets known for automobile work, no matter what they are called upon to do. Their equipment includes all of the latest precision tools and equipment. It includes reboring machines, valve refacing machines, reamers, drill presses, brake machine, wheel balancing machine, and a brand new machine which enables them to recharge a battery while still in the customer's car inside of 30 to 40 minutes. This feature means a saving of hundreds of dollars to their customers each year. It eliminates using a rental while the old battery is being recharged.

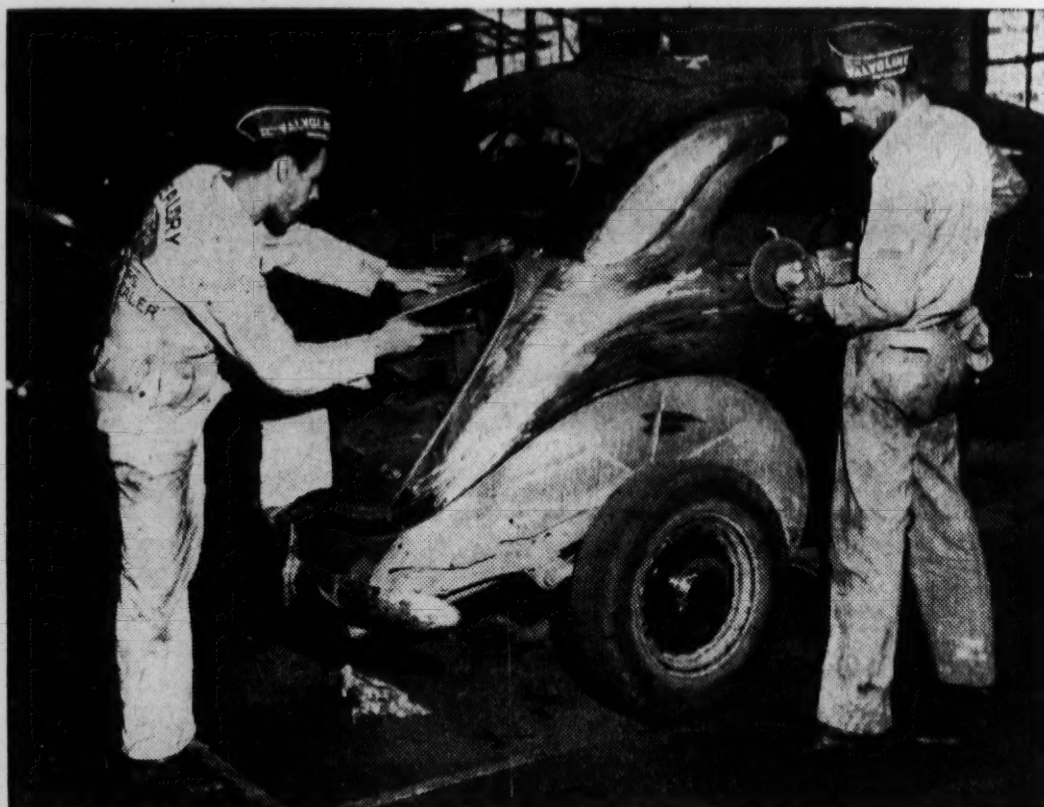

The service department, under the direction of W. W. Jones, a veteran Ford service man, is considered one of the most widespread and active in the entire Atlanta Ford branch territory. Their facilities are used by factory officials when service schools are being taught to dealer service men from out of town.

izes in fender and body work and has at times finished like new cars that might have been abandoned as total losses.

H. F. Phipps, service foreman, is also a veteran Ford man, and has been with the Beaudry organization for many years. All of the service activities are under his direct supervision, including regular work as well as the body and finishing departments. Thirty-eight men are employed in the service department alone.

SELECTIVE BREEDING. Blood-lines of the silky-haired Angora goat are guarded as carefully as those of thoroughbred race horses. Selective breeding and careful raising of the animals improves the quality of the fleeces used for the better types of upholstery in the 1942 automobiles.

Latest Type Machinery Has Ralph Cannon

Popular Garage Man Has 31 Years of Repair Experience.

"In the business since 1910," said Ralph Cannon, president of the Ralph Cannon Service, which means that 31 years of growing through active experience in the business constitutes the backbone history of this concern.

The Ralph Cannon Auto Service is located at 212 Spring street. It is three years old in its present location and management. Approximately 15 employees work in various departments, with W. F. Moseley as assistant to Mr. Cannon.

The latest type of equipment is used in making exact adjustments on automobiles. Some of these include a motor analyzer, wheel alignment machine, dynamic and static wheel balancer. A careful use of this machinery takes all guess work out of making the correct adjustments on automobiles.

Some of the departments include brake, electrical, motor-overhaul, lubrication, body and other modern service equipment. The various automotive parts used by these departments are of United Service Motors, which guarantees genuine, first-class material. "Our customers have the satisfaction of knowing that the parts used in making repairs are of the best," said Mr. Cannon.

Chapman Tire Company Sells For Cash Only

Independent Tire Concern Is Building Up Fine Business.

Although the Chapman Tire Company, located at 197 Spring street, N. W., is one of Atlanta's oldest independent tire distributors, its present policy of doing business only for 100 per cent cash has been in operation for a little more than a year and a half.

Before entering upon the "cash only" tire business the Chapman Tire Company made definite plans, and today can truly claim success in its present business.

Recognized quality first and the lowest competitive prices second are admitted to be essentials to a cash tire business. Therefore, motorists can find leading automobile tires at the Chapman Tire Company at slightly lower prices.

This is done by selling only for cash and giving each customer exactly the particular brand of tire he thinks is best.

The Chapman Tire Company has also brought to Atlanta the Ajax Super Squeegie tire. The company gives a definite 25,000-mile guarantee against all road hazards.

Although the Chapman Tire Company features Ajax tires, it also realizes the value and extra quality of other tires, such as U. S. Royals, Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone, Pennsylvania and many others.

This company, now operating a

Smart Upholstery Feature of Fords

Rich interior effects are obtained in the 1942 Ford line through the use of smartly striped upholsteries of long-wearing mohair velvet. The Super De Luxe models use a subtly shaded mohair velvet of tan set off by small two-toned stripes of brown, strengthened by a pin-stripe of a darker shade. De Luxe models are finished in a tan mohair traced with small closely-set irregular pin stripes of brown.

Ford mohair velvet upholstery is specially woven for long wear and ease of cleaning.

CHECKING A MOTOR SCIENTIFICALLY—This analyzer used in the shop of the Yarbrough Motor Company, Studebaker dealer, enables them to put a thorough check on work before and after it is done.

Fine Service For Motorists By Yarbrough

For Over 20 Years Distributor for Studebaker Line of Cars.

For over twenty years the Yarbrough Motor Company, 560 West Peachtree, N. W., has been distributors for the Studebaker line of cars in Atlanta.

The company, headed by J. E. Yarbrough, president, is one of the oldest Studebaker automobile distributors in America.

Riley Camp, service manager, is well known to hundreds of Studebaker drivers and users. We supervise all of the repair work for the company. Under his direction the company has won national recognition several times in working out service problems and improving methods on particular operations.

The Yarbrough shop is manned by veteran automobile repair men, who have devoted many years to constant study of every phase of the service business. They are specialists in various operations required in an automobile service shop.

Assisting Mr. Camp are the following: Gordon W. Bennett, assistant service manager; H. F. Daves, tester; W. A. Camp, shop foreman; Herman Norris, T. G. Cowan, L. M. Goodridge, Dave Dunton, Dave Palmer, Eddie Price, W. W. Scoggins, H. D. Crain, W. H. Watson, W. M. Price, and T. W. Moore. Lubrication experts: body department, Roy Berryman, J. L. Richardson and R. S. Mobley.

The company has a complete line of parts and accessories, the department being under the direction of H. L. (Shorty) Corley, Louis Davenport, assistant, both of whom are thoroughly familiar with this line of work.

The shop, office and administration force includes Mrs. C. S. Collier and Douglas Chipman.

In the Yarbrough shop can be found men doing work with all of the latest tools and machinery developed to repair automobiles. These machine tools enable them to finish all repair work with absolute factory precision. The equipments includes reboring machine, valve refacing machine with motor block attachment; wheel-balancing machine, wheel alignment equipment, light focusing machine, motor tester and analyzer, complete lubrication department, battery repairs and recharging—in fact, every tool made to complete a shop.

Briscoe Offers Car Owners Good Service

Number of Expert Mechanics Employed by Him.

A well recognized service department, where any type of work can be secured on any make of car, is that of J. L. Briscoe & Co., at 381 Peachtree street, N. E.

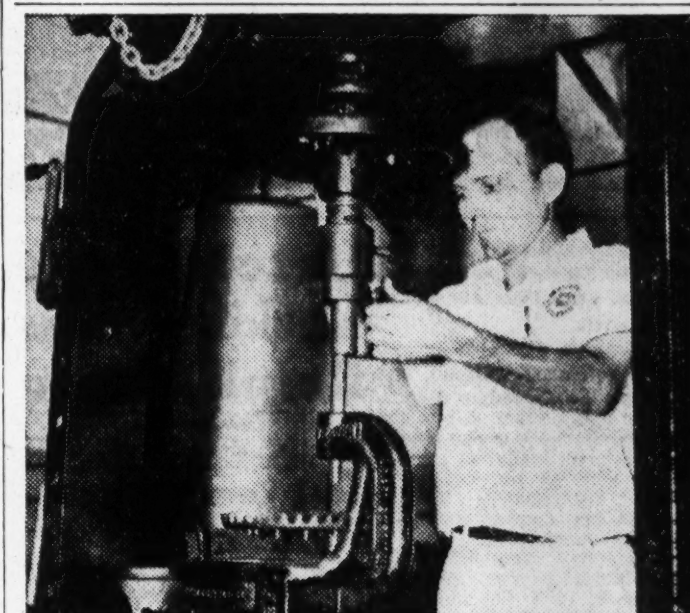

Not only is the equipment just as modern as can be found anywhere, but the mechanics who render the service for Briscoe patrons are among the best known and most experienced in the city. As service manager one finds Whitley Roberts, a trained mechanic of 18 years' experience. He knows just exactly what a motorcar needs in a repair or service way just as quickly as he can lay his experienced hands and his close observing eye on the car.

Other well-known service men employed by the Briscoe Company are Red Singleton, Hugh Raney, Joe Mitchell and J. E. Mims. The parts department is looked after by Ed Griffin, and with a large stock of replacement parts on hand, it can readily be seen how prompt and reliable auto service can be rendered there.

The Briscoe shop is amply equipped to take cars of any type, make or size of car. Added to its service department is all the late machinery and other equipment to give factory precision work, with special attention and service to the popular American, handled by the Briscoe Company.

Not only repairs of all kinds, but the company claims to be among the best in this city and section on lubrication and steam cleaning. Its work in this line is as fine and serviceable as can be found anywhere.

MASSIVE EQUIPMENT—A giant 80,000-pound hydraulic press used in the shop of the Downtown Chevrolet Company. This press is quite a necessary piece of equipment for up-to-the-minute shops.

Downtown Chevrolet Equal To All Service Emergencies

A trip through the big plant of the Downtown Chevrolet Company's headquarters, 329 Whitehall street, S. W., would convince anyone—if convincing were needed—of its thorough preparedness to render the highest quality of Chevrolet service.

The company occupies a large building, with wide frontage on Whitehall street, where Spring and Forsyth streets join. About 45,000 square feet of space is covered with its building, which includes offices, mechanical shop, and some dozen other important departments. It was designed and built for the Downtown Chevrolet Company, of which Hal Smith is the president. Perhaps the most inviting and convenient arrangements appreciated by Chevrolet owners—and drivers generally—is the spacious receiving room. Any driver can easily turn into the entrance doors, 18 feet wide and extra high. The floor accommodates 12 customers at one time. Ceilings throughout are 13 1/2 feet high, to accommodate any size or height truck. Entrance and exit are separate and there are no posts to dodge in the entire building.

To make Chevrolet service absolutely complete the company employs between 15 and 20 expert mechanics—every man factory trained—not a single mechanic with less than six years' Chevrolet experience. All are required to take yearly examinations given by Chevrolet Motor Company, and are trained constantly by schools, monthly service films and bulletins.

The company is proud of its paint department. It was specially built to underservice specifications. Its modern rooms are built for fine work. Floodlights, with also plenty of daylight, exhaust fans and fireproof doors make the room dust free.

Another feature with the company, and one in which it can always guarantee satisfaction, is the body repair department. Six Fisher body experts here have complete equipment for rebuilding wrecks or the smallest repair including welding. Paint matching is a specialty.

In the lubrication department there are one finds all equipment of the latest pneumatic type. Only factory approved lubricants used. All lubrication is done by mechanics specially trained by the factory. Lubrication is one of the most important services rendered by the company.

The various services mentioned above are only a part of the service rendered by the company. It does the very best of steam cleaning and high-pressure washing, making cars look spic and span before leaving its doors. It is prepared to practically make over wrecked cars, and does considerable of this type of work. The company carries at all times an enormous stock of Chevrolet parts. They can rebuild a motor, transmission, rear axle or other parts of the car to precision factory standards.

Constitution Want Ads are go-getters for speedy merchandising results.

WE ARE PROUD of the part we play!

OUR OWN RECORDS of sales and orders is all we need to consult to convince ourselves of the fact that no city in America offers finer automobile repair and overhauling facilities than is offered by the shops in Atlanta. Fine workmen demand fine materials—and our years of providing materials gives us intimate knowledge of what our local dealers, service stations and garages use in their work.

National defense has not only made it vital that we give more attention to our automobiles—business and pleasure—than ever before, but it also puts an obligation on us to insist on quality in whatever new parts and repairs we find necessary. When your repairman deals with King's—you may be sure he is using the best—and, as a consequence, is giving you conscientious service.

J. M. Harrison's Machine Shops Most Complete

Gives Service on Dodge and Plymouth and Other Cars.

One of the largest automobile distributorships in the south is J. M. Harrison & Co., located at 17 North avenue, N. E., where is maintained and operated one of the most complete and modern repair shops throughout this entire section.

In the company's mechanical department alone is employed 48 people, many of whom have been with the company for long years of service. Its large parts department, with ample supply of parts, enables it to repair cars with a minimum of lost time to its customers.

The company, under direction of Howell and Cook and W. A. Posey, have been awarded plaques several times for ownership percentage and high type of service work turned out. Its methods are thorough. W. H. Davis and J. L. Beverly, two experienced service men, are on hand to test and advise motorists at all times. They analyze the trouble and take care of the necessary instructions to the men who actually do the work. Herbert Green, cashier, and O. T. Mooney round out the executive staff.

In the shop of the company one will find all of the latest precision tools and machinery for working on Dodge and Plymouth cars. There is a complete machine shop where experts check and re-check every part before it goes into a repair job. The equipment includes rebaring bar, valve refacing machine, wheel alignment machine, which checks both camber and toe, and brings back to factory requirements, dynamically and statically, perfect wheel balancing—an operation so necessary this day and time, when quick getaway and speed are required; lathes, drill press, automatic reamers, 20,000-pound hydraulic press, welding equipment, motor analyzer, and a machine for setting time on the all-important spark-firing on a car.

The staff of the company, includes such mechanics as W. D. Arrington, D. K. Allgood, H. S. Breitz, C. E. Clackum, P. E. Ivey, M. B. Dunn, F. S. Phillips, W. A. Phillips, W. W. Weldon, E. E. Bragg, A. SPEED UP TO 100 M.P.H.—Correct wheel balance is very important this day and time. Quick getaway and high speeds make perfect balance necessary. This machine used in the J. M. Harrison Company shop checks them statistically and dynamically for accuracy both ways.

NO GUESS WORK HERE—This scene made in the shop of the Capital Automobile Company, Cadillac and Oldsmobile dealer, gives a good idea of the test laboratory found in well-equipped shops this day and time.

Capital Automobile Company Gives Every Needed Service

In large and well arranged quarters at the corner of West Peachtree and Fifth streets, the Capital Automobile Company, dealers for Cadillac and Oldsmobile cars, maintains a large, completely equipped service department for the convenience of its clients.

If, however, there is work or repair of any consequence to be done, the car is promptly checked, turned into the proper repair channel, and when the job is completed it passes again through the hands of the original tester, who checks to see that every detail of the work has been carefully and correctly executed.

Radio service, motor analyzing, electrical service, specialized lubrication (operating three electrical lifts), headlamp correction, shock absorber service, steering and front end alignment, car washing and polishing under high pressure.

Regardless of the type of job needed, the mechanics at the Capital know what to do for any given trouble—and they do it promptly and reliably. Equipped as they are, you are assured of a correct test of your radio; they know the balancing of wheels statically and dynamically, done with the help of modern machines—and the proper balance on your wheels means much to a car, saving tires and making driving easy; they use seven different kinds of lubricants to give your car a proper lubrication, knowing exactly where each type of lubricant must be applied; they use an internal motor cleaner for cleaning inside crankcase, which, by pressure, removes sludge and dirt that accumulates there; they have a complete valve grinding set-up, bringing back to original shape valves and motor blocks. The department is large enough and has space enough to take care of 200 cars at one and the same time.

Capital service department is its rebuilding of wrecked cars. Regardless of its condition—if there's anything left to start with—these expert mechanics can rebuild an ugly wreck into a useful and good-looking car.

Prior Tire Company Serves Atlanta Motorists 21 Years

Prior Tire Company is as much a permanent institution in Atlanta as the famous Peachtree street on which it is located, at the corner of Pine street.

It has been honestly and efficiently serving Atlanta motorists for more than 21 years. "Don't Cuss—Phone Us" has been the Prior Tire slogan over the many years, and is as popular among motorists in this territory as the institution itself.

Prior Tire Company is as near you as the nearest telephone. Just call, and one of a fleet of service trucks will be at your service in a jiffy to fix a tire, replace a battery or supply you gasoline.

The front of each of the service trucks bears the words: "Here Comes Help," which is more than just a phrase, for it really means relief for the motoring public. Twenty-four-hour service has been their policy since the beginning of the Prior Tire Company.

Prior Tire recommends to the motoring public for money saving, as well as conservation of rubber in connection with the national defense program, their new and modern equipped retreading and recapping plant. And further, they suggest that you have your wheels checked in their expert wheel alignment department on the latest "Bear" equipment, or your brakes tested and adjusted on the "Cordrey Brake Testing Machine." The concern is also equipped to do generator and starter work, motor tune-up jobs, install and repair home and automobile radios, and has a complete body and fender shop.

Pure Oil products and a complete line of automobile necessities are sold by Prior Tire in addition to their line of nationally advertised Hood tires and Exide batteries, which they have handled for the past 20 years. This is truly one of Atlanta's largest and finest one-stop service stations.

Abe Goldstein, president of the organization, is proud of the service record of his company. He employs 55 people, whose terms of service average nine years. Three of his service men have been with him for more than 20 years, and six service men now in his employ are brothers. Abe Smith is service manager, and W. P. Price Jr. is sales manager.

Expert Mechanics 'Know What To Do' for a 'Sick' Car.

"Know what to do—how to do it—then do it."

The opening sentences here briefly tell the story of the splendid service performed in the service department of John Smith Company, Chevrolet dealers, located at 530 West Peachtree, N. W., with special service emphasis on Chevrolet cars.

Further explaining the three-sentence slogan, it is an attractive sign in big letters, and hangs in the office of Service Manager H. W. Kidd. It represents not only his idea and way of doing things in connection with auto service, but it is a slogan that has impressed itself on a group of 22 trained and experienced mechanics, who make up a large fleet of men who "know how, and who do it."

As foreman of the group stands D. I. Hightower, with long and practical experience. In addition, there is L. G. Stevens, parts manager, in whose care some $40,000 worth of Chevrolet parts is placed; there is also J. M. Field and L. G. Leggett as service analyst. With this large and trained group of expert mechanics, who keep constantly schooled in Chevrolet policies, changes and improvements on their cars, it is not to be wondered that Chevrolet owners know a most desirable and dependable place to drive in when service is needed.

This department renders all types of mechanical service. It is finely equipped with modern tools and appliances. As an instance, it operates on wheel-balancing and alignments with a machine that tests up to 120 miles per hour. In its radio service it has mechanics that "know, and then do it"—going back again to the slogan in Kidd's office.

The department is recognized as one of the most efficient in electrical service of all kind, in body and fender work and painting. Its lubrication and washing facilities are complete. It operates a Diamond-boring bar for motor work in reboring cylinders. The shop is equipped with lathes, brake drum turners, valve facers and hydraulic 80-ton presses.

In fact, with its large and modern equipment, the department is a miniature auto factory in itself, with tools for service on any type and size of car or truck, but with all the standard working tools for Chevrolet service.

The John Smith Company is located in a large two-story and basement building, running through from West Peachtree street to Spring street. It can handle and care for 150 or more cars at one time, and its location and easy access brings scores and hundreds to its service department seeking the type of dependable work Service Manager Kidd and his force are accustomed to give.

Chandler Inc. Offers Service In Decatur

A. M. Chandler, Inc., Ford dealer in Decatur, is an agency that maintains and operates a service department said to be far above the average found in a city the size of Decatur. Their shop space and service facilities cover many thousands of floor space. H. A. Lanford is service manager. He has been with Ford for the past 17 years as a service man and service manager. He is well known throughout Atlanta and Decatur service circles, and his supervision of the company's shop has brought it up to the highest standard, as set up by the Ford Motor Company.

Working under Mr. Lanford are men representing many years of Ford service experience. Many of them have had years of experience in this line of work and are considered first-class in every respect. They are: Glenn Chewing, L. E. Phillips, A. J. Sheppard, Edmond Pounds, W. H. Webb, Willie Skelton, H. C. Johnson, R. T. Burden, R. L. Welden, Leroy Mathews and Theo Lanier, lubrication expert. As car reconitioners, R. E. Teagle is foreman, with J. B. Beam, W. E. Abercrombie, J. W. Pounds, Robert Hunt, Luke Aiken, foreman paint shop, and the following porters: Booker Usher, J. H. Jones, Andrew Jackson, Lomnie Buchanan and J. V. Ebbols. The concern offers its patrons a service most complete. The equipment maintained includes motor conditioning, tools and machinery, laboratory testing machines, equipment for front-end maintenance, electric and acetylene welding, radiator repairs, body shop for wrecked fenders and bodies.

The large parts department carried by the Chandler agency enables them to keep on hand at all times a complete line of parts and accessories. This causes only a minimum amount of loss of time for their customers while work is being done to their cars. This department is under the direction of H. H. Holley, another veteran in the Ford parts and repair field.

In addition to the regular repair shop for pleasure cars and trucks the Chandler agency operates service to the new Ford tractor. They are also sales agents for this item, handling the tractors, plows and equipment for DeKalb county.

Decatur Has Fine Service For Chevrolets

The Decatur Chevrolet Company, located on West Ponce de Leon avenue, in Decatur, has long been known for its thoroughness in service on Chevrolet cars.

This important department is under the direction of P. R. Porter, service manager—a man with 14 years' Chevrolet experience behind him. Several times in the past he has received national recognition for working out service problems which have been adopted by dealers in every section of the country.

The service department is most complete in its equipment for caring for any type of work on Chevrolet motorcars and trucks. It has a fully daylighted shop, just as modern as modern facilities can make it.

In the well-equipped shop is included machines for every major repair job. They consist of well-selected precision machine tools for valve refacing, cylinder re-boring, scientific front end checking, brake service machines, wheel alignment machine, Sun motor analyzer and testing machine, complete tools and machinery for rebuilding of wrecked cars and trucks, no matter how large or small the job.

Mr. Porter has selected well-known mechanical men to form his mechanical staff. It includes George L. Webb, parts manager, a man of nine years' experience; R. A. Sheppard, L. L. Orr, J. D. Smith, A. R. Morris and V. C. Robinson, body and fender department, and B. W. Wilson, heading the paint department.

The facilities of this company's service department are perhaps as complete and as fine as any found in a city the size of Decatur anywhere in the country.

Every car, before going to their repair shops, is analyzed by the scientific Sun method to determine just what is wrong.

East Point Company Has Modern Plant

Equipped With Special Tools for Repairs on Ford Cars.

The East Point Company, dealers for Ford cars in East Point, located on North Main street, offers motorists a shop equipped with every known machine and special tool for repair work on Ford cars.

Its plant, under the direction of E. A. Wood, service manager, has received national recognition on several occasions for the fine manner in which mechanics worked out service problems and passed their plans and ideas on to other dealers throughout the country.

The equipment in the shop includes everything to take care of the smallest as well as the largest jobs. The company specializes on wrecked cars, smashed fenders and paint work.

This company maintains and operates a pick-up and delivery motor bike for the convenience of its customers living or working in the city. This feature enables its patrons to have their cars worked on while they are at work, and do not lose its use to and from home.

Perry Burrus, president of the company, has just inaugurated a new time payment plan for service customers' convenience, and urges anyone needing service work to have it done while replacement parts are plentiful.

Oven-Baked Paint Jobs Are Featured Here

Touchstone Auto Service Does This Type of Work in Atlanta.

Although somewhat of a rarity, there are known to be at least two concerns that have facilities for giving oven-baked paint jobs in Atlanta, though there are very few in the southeast. This information was gladly received from G. T. Touchstone, president of the Touchstone Auto Service, 752 Spring street, where they have a complete oven-bake paint department.

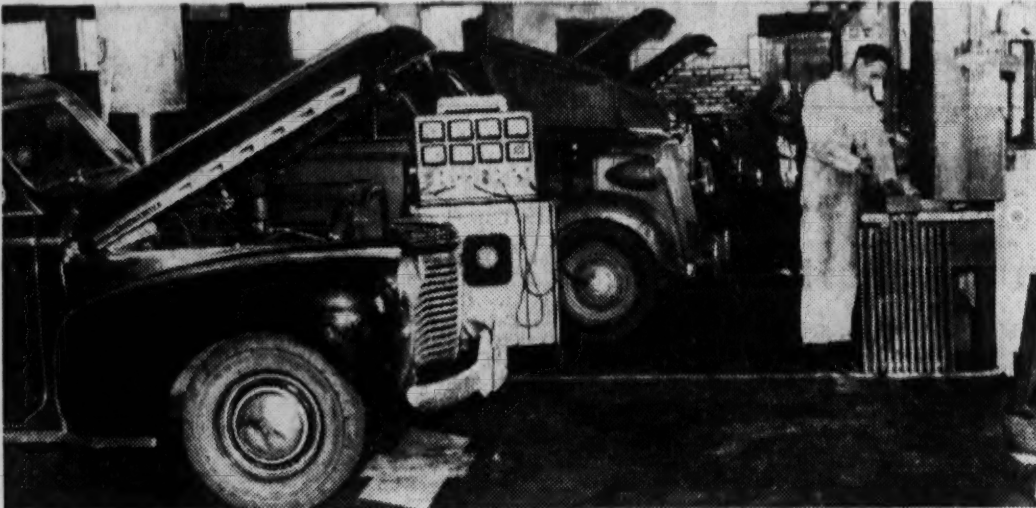

The oven-bake is a specially built room large enough to house any standard automobile. It is insulated and heat controlled by a gas furnace. As soon as the paint job is completed it is run into the oven and left for one hour. The temperature reaches about 180 degrees and does not injure any part of the car. After the car is removed and cooled, the job is complete and will look like factory-new.

In addition to this department the Touchstone Auto Service specializes in body and fender work, upholstery and car rebuilding. With eight years of experience behind them, they are well qualified to handle all types of repair work of this nature.

Garrison's Rightly Fixed For Service

Dodge and Plymouth Dealer in East Point Serves Many.

Owners of Dodge and Plymouth cars living in and around East Point, College Park and Hapeville have learned to rely on the Homer Garrison Company for the kind of satisfactory service that might be needed from time to time.

The Garrison Company is East Point dealer for the cars mentioned, and is not only equipped especially for service on Dodge and Plymouth cars, but can render service on any type and make of car or truck.

The company has a large clientele of Dodge and Plymouth owners living in its immediate vicinity, and takes special care to see that the best of service is rendered them.

The display rooms and service depot of the Garrison Company is one of the newest and most modern in East Point.

Homer Garrison, president of the company, has just announced a new time payment plan on automobile repair work, giving customers one to 12 months to pay. The concern operates a pick-up and delivery system for its customers who work in town, and want their cars fixed during the day. This feature has proven very popular with motorists in their vicinity.

All this coming week the company is offering Dodge and Plymouth users a very special service price to get their cars ready for winter.

L. R. Bryant's Funeral Rites Are Set Today

E. and C. I. Bryant, of Atlanta; Cecil Bryant, of New York; C. J. G. T. M. F. and P. E. Bryant; a sister, Mrs. Lucile Lord, and four grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Pruitt & Yarn.

Bishop Moore Reports Greater Work in Church

Liquidation of Obligations, More Interest Mark Efforts.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT. Bishop Arthur J. Moore, Atlanta's resident bishop of the two Georgia Methodist annual conferences, reports especially good work has been done in building enterprises and liquidation of obligations, together with larger interest shown in the world service contributions by the Georgia Methodists.

For the coming year Bishop Moore expects a renewed evangelistic effort. In preparation for such an evangelistic revival a number of districts have purchased tents to be used at different places, he stated.

Bishop Moore left yesterday for Macon and Valdosta. After spending a day at Wesleyan College, of which he is president, he is to leave for Valdosta for the session of the South Georgia Conference, which begins Wednesday. He will return to Atlanta November 10.

Bishop Moore is impressed with the evident desire of Methodism and the pastors to be friends and helpers of every movement that seeks to sweeten and improve the life of the people. Regarding world service work, Bishop Moore said the Atlanta episcopal area, comprising the Georgia and Florida conferences, last year made the largest increase in benevolent giving of any episcopal area in the United States, and that the area this year made an extra contribution of $40,000 in the special campaign day offering. Indications now are that the usual benevolent offerings for this year will be in excess of those made last year.

Beginning tomorrow Bishop Moore will be in daily consultations at Valdosta with his cabinet of district superintendents arranging the list of pastoral assignments for the South Georgia conference pastors. Members of the cabinet to be associated with Bishop Moore in this work are the following ministers: The Rev. John S. Sharp, of the Americus district; the Rev. G. N. Rainey, of the Columbus district; the Rev. W. A. Kelley, of the Dublin district; the Rev. Silas Johnson, of the Macon district; the Rev. J. R. Webb, of the Savannah district; the Rev. M. H. Brown, of the Thomasville district; the Rev. G. E. Clary, of Valdosta district, and the Rev. J. W. Hitch, of the Waycross district.

J. Lewis Turner Dies at Home in Marietta

Rites Will Be Held Today for Marble Firm Executive.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., Oct. 29.—J. Lewis Turner, 60, long a resident of Marietta, died at his home here Tuesday night. He had been in ill health for some time, but his death was unexpected.

He was born on a plantation near Kingston, the son of W. R. Turner and Mrs. Josephine Avery Turner. He received his education at the Marietta Male Academy and the public schools here and at the Georgia School of Technology. He began his business career as a merchant in Marietta, but later became associated with the Blue Ridge Marble Company at Nelson. From that company he went with the Kennesaw Marble Company, of Marietta, which firm was merged with the Georgia Marble Company in 1917 and he remained with that company until his death. He was in charge of sales at the home office of the company at Tate, Ga.

While he never aspired to public office, he always took a keen interest in civic affairs. He was a charter member of the Marietta Country Club and was an elder in the First Presbyterian church and for 20 years served as its treasurer.

In 1905 he was married to Miss Lela Leake, also a member of one of Marietta's pioneer and prominent families.

He is survived by one brother, George L. Turner, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. M. O. Sommers and Dr. J. H. Patton officiating and interment will be in the City cemetery under direction of Mayes Ward Company.

Duke Alumni Here Will Hear Wannamaker

Dean Known to Virtually Every Student of Past Three Decades.

Dr. William H. Wannamaker, dean of Duke University, will be principal speaker when members of the Duke Alumni Association here hold their annual meeting at the Tech-Duke football game Saturday afternoon, it was announced yesterday.

The dean is well known to virtually every Duke student of the last 30 years. He still retains active interest in teaching, in addition to his administrative duties as dean and vice president of the university.

Henry R. Dwir, vice president and director of public relations and alumni affairs, also will be a speaker on the program. James A. Wiggins Jr., head of the Atlanta Duke alumni; Gordon W. Curtiss Jr., vice president; Eugene H. Brooks, secretary; H. A. Sigmon Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. K. L. Ice-nogle, alumnae representative, are arranging the annual banquet.

Florida To Return Man to Decatur

James Arthur McKerley, wanted in Decatur on charges of abandoning a minor child, will be extradited to Georgia from Tampa, Fla., as result of an order by Governor Holland, of Florida, it was announced yesterday in Tallahassee.

Sheriff Hugh Culbreath, of Hillsborough county, Florida, took McKerley into custody at MacDill Field, where he was in active service as a lieutenant. Georgia's extradition request was sent to Florida by John W. Jones, of DeKalb county police.

McKerley has requested no hearing on his extradition. Governor Holland's office reported.
